CAR FINANCING PLAN BEGINS TO TAKE SHAPE

La Salle St. Rates Bond Issues.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

La Salle street believes it now knows what disposition the bankers' committee intends to make of the senior securities of the surface and elevated lines in the proposed consolidation of Chicago's transit systems.

Brokers have been collecting bits of information here and there since the bankers' committee, appointed to "formulate a plan of reorganization and consolidation," announced on March 6 that it had "reached an accord on all points concerned, except with reference to the surface line's first mortgages."

Composite Opinion of Program.

Fitted together the composite opinion of the street is:

1. The new company will take over the elevated roads subject to existing mortgages.

1. The new company will issue general mortgage bonds to the holders of first mortgage bonds of the surface lines.

1. New money for extensions and improvements will be obtained by issuing either general mortgage bonds or first mortgage bonds, depending upon financial conditions when cash is needed.

[First mortgage bonds are liens on property. General mortgage bonds are defined as liens on earnings and as a rule are safeguarded by a sinking fund.]

Report Interest Saving Plan.

Brokers point to the statement of the bankers' committee—Frank O. Wetmore, Arthur Reynolds and Harry L. Stuart—saying that an "accord has been reached" on the elevated lines' securities. The agreement is said to relate to $46,955,300 of these securities, of which the average interest rate is 5.2 per cent. The $46,495,300 includes all of the $55,639,080 funded debt of the elevated lines except $18,645,000 of debentures and real estate mortgages totaling $120,780.

The reported decision to take over the elevated bonds is said to be based on the bankers' opinion that new money for the consolidated company at present will cost about 6 per cent. By acquiring the existing bonds the bankers are said to consider they will be saving eight-tenths of one per cent —about $380,000 a year.

The Surface Lines' Bonds.

The first mortgage bonds of the surface lines, on which the bankers have not yet reached an accord, are divided as follows: $50,089,500 for the Chicago Railway company [north and west side lines], $33,926,000 for the Chicago city railway, and $5,532,000 for the Calumet and South Chicago railway, both of which are on the south side.

This total of $89,547,500 now bears 4 per cent interest. The bonds were due on Feb. 1, 1927. They have not been paid and the companies haven't the cash to retire them. The 1907 ordinances made no provision for accumulating a fund with which to retire bonds.

The general mortgage of the new company, according to La Salle street reports, would be protected by a mandatory sinking fund. This would insure the payment of the bonds at some future date. Because of the sinking fund provision it is said to be the opinion of the bankers that the new bonds will be a more sound investment than the outstanding first mortgage bonds of the surface lines.

May Raise Interest Rate.

But the plan, it is reported, is to make them still more attractive by raising the interest rate to 5½ per cent, or perhaps a trifle higher.

For new money the bankers' plan is said to contemplate the issuance of first and refunding bonds, if the general mortgage bonds are not deemed suitable, from time to time for that purpose. It is reported that the bankers deem this first and refunding mortgage bond as of possible use later under low money rates for the purpose of getting part of the $46,955,300 in bonds of the elevated roads out of the way. So far as La Salle street information goes no sinking fund has thus far been planned for the first and refunding bonds.

Representatives of the bankers' committee and members of the council subcommittee on the transit franchise, headed by Ald. James B. Bowler (15th) will meet at 2 o'clock this afternoon to discuss suggestions made by the bankers toward the financial program for the transit consolidation.

'BILLIKEN' RITO SHOT TO DEATH; PAL IS MISSING

Newberry Dodges Machine Guns.

Al Capone Talks

While the Chicago police were hunting clews in a new gangland murder last night, Al Capone, gang overlord, was chafing in his red carpeted Philadelphia cell against the official red tape which was holding him there, and telling of his plans to return immediately to Chicago.

A murder, which gangland took great pains to conceal, came to light yesterday when the body of John [The Billiken] Rito was loosened from the rocks which had held it two weeks at the bottom of the Chicago river and rose to the surface just south of the Irving Park boulevard bridge.

Rito, who had lately found the alias of John Russo convenient, was chief collector for the north side liquor syndicate left leaderless two months ago when Ted Newberry took sudden departure for Toronto. The flight of Newberry to Canada and of his partner, Al Shimberg to Mount Clemens, Mich., was occasioned, it was learned yesterday, by their chance discovery of three machine guns trained upon their headquarters in Pine Grove avenue from a vacant flat across the street.

Fear Another Is Dead.

Rito, who was 27 years old and a coolly amiable character, according to his intimates, stayed to carry on the business which Newberry found too perilous, sharing partnership with Bennie Bennett, another of Newberry's men. But their boss's decision to flee was doubly vindicated, according to Deputy Police Commissioner Stege.

Bennett, it appeared last night, has been missing for six weeks from his accustomed haunts and the gangland conjecture is that he too fell a victim to rival powers, resolved on extermination of the Newberry organization. Deputy Stege ventured to predict that Bennett's body is due for emergence from the river bed before long.

Two Boys Find Body.

Two school boys, rowing along the east bank of the river, discovered the fate of "The Billiken." Frightened when the prow of their boat nudged over a bulky object, the lads pulled to the shore and flagged a motorist who notified Robey street police.

Detectives Edward Garrity and William Jensen pulled the body ashore, unwrapped the auto robe which was bundled about the waist with picture wire, and discovered more picture wire bound about the ankles and dangling in a loop, which had evidently slipped off a boulder that had weighted the body. At the county morgue an autopsy disclosed two bullet holes through the temples and one bullet—a steel jacketed .38—lodged in the right temple.

Among the pebbles which weighted the pockets of his blue chinchilla overcoat and his blue suit, were found a sheaf of scribbled notes relating to payments totaling $3,000 and a prayer book on the cover of which the true name of "The Billiken" was embossed in gold.

Cousin Identifies Body.

Joseph Rito, realty dealer with offices at 3207 Harrison street and residing at 5235 Van Buren street, identified the body as that of his cousin.

Donati Rito, father of the slain man, said that his son had not been at home for ten months. At the morgue the mother wailed that her boy was an honest cab driver.

Rito was born at 848 Taylor street, a cottage from which he will be buried following the inquest, which was scheduled for today. He attended the parochial school, became a telegraph messenger boy and was working at that job when prohibition came in and the Gennas opened their alcohol stills on the west side. He became a still tender and once, in the explosion of a still in a shack at Roosevelt road and Union avenue, was scarred by burns, an accident which gave rise to erroneous reports yesterday that he had been tortured before death.

YANK TOREADOR IS BADLY GORED BY MADRID BULL

MADRID, March 16.—(AP)—Sydney Franklin, bull fighter of Brooklyn, N. Y., was gored and tossed in the air by a bull today in the Madrid arena. Doctors said his condition was serious, but believed he would live.

Franklin, who was formerly a commercial artist and learned bull fighting in Mexico, went out jauntily to face a big black bull, which was his first that afternoon. The animal, whose horns were very wide apart and sharp, lunged at him disconcertingly, and the fans began to murmur, "The American has a tough beast to fight." As Franklin was making a whirling pass with his cape in front of the bull, he was caught by the bull's horns from behind, during the fraction of a second that his back was turned to it.

The other matadors and the members of the "cuadrilla" rushed forward waving their capes to distract the bull, which was tossing Franklin's limp body on its horns. Finally Franklin was flung loose and fell writhing in agony in the arena.

9 U.S. Sailors Hurt in Riots in Philippines

BY FORD WILKINS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MANILA, March 16.—Two serious race riots between Filipino gangsters and American sailors broke out here today. Nine of the navy men were injured, one of them seriously, and the gangsters also clubbed Filipino police.

The first brawl occurred after a baseball game attended by 30 American sailors at Kittelle field. They were attacked by 50 natives armed with blackjacks, lead pipes and stones as they were drinking beer at the field. A communist agitator harangued the waiters in Tagalog, their native dialect. The first man to be attacked, Chief Machinist's Mate E. O. Mecklinburg of the U. S. S. Parrott, had to be taken to the hospital with three broken ribs. Six others were hurt in this brawl.

The gangsters were subdued by an American police captain, B. K. West, who was the only man armed. He held the gangsters at bay until the arrival of native police. They arrested three of the rioters.

The second disturbance occurred near a police station. Two sailors, G. Cunningham and P. C. Battese of the oiler U. S. S. Pecos, were severely beaten by the police who accused them of chasing two Filipino candy sellers. A native mob also joined the mêlée. The sailors were released after being questioned, and the naval authorities, to avoid further trouble, issued instructions threatening severe punishment to any sailors attacking Filipinos.

An extra police guard is patroling the waterfront to provide safe conduct to sailors returning to their ships. The influence behind the two attacks is said to be due to communists in some quarters, while others believe that it is an attempt on the part of the Manila gangsters to avenge the race riots in California several weeks ago.

SLAYS HIS WIFE IN PRESENCE OF 10 YR. OLD CHILD

Before the eyes of her 10 year old daughter, Mrs. Mary Belak, 33 years old, 340 Holt street, was shot to death in her home by her estranged husband, Andrew, last night after she had refused his plea for a reconciliation. Belak fired three bullets into his wife's body and then shot himself in the arm in a vain effort to end his own life.

The daughter, Julia, ran screaming to a neighbor's home and the Racine avenue police were summoned. They took Belak to the Bridewell hospital. At first he said another man he had found in the home did the shooting, but Julia told the real story and Belak confessed.

MOTOR COACH CO. OFFICE HELD UP; LOOT IS $7,000

Three robbers, two of whom were armed with sawed-off shotguns, held up the west side office of the Chicago Motor Coach company at 4533 Wilcox street early this morning and escaped with $7,000, the day's receipts. The leader of the bandits, according to the police, wore the sweater, breeches, and puttees of a driver for the company and was believed by the police to have been a former employé.

The robbers entered the office shortly after 1 o'clock, nodded to two or three drivers, who were not suspicious because of the leader's uniform, and filed upstairs to a second floor office where Zane Hamilton, 117 South Kilbourn avenue, night receiver, was on duty alone. The leader carried a package which he told Hamilton was to be delivered to Ben Lockes, day receiver, and Hamilton admitted the trio to his office without question.

Once inside the package bearer whipped out a pistol and waved Hamilton into a corner as his companions produced shotguns from beneath their coats and took positions at the door to prevent interruption. Then the bandit leader scooped the money into a sack, took three pistols which he found in desk drawers, and walked out, followed by the shotgun guards. All three drove away in an automobile with two confederates.

LINCOLN PARK POLICEMAN ENDS LIFE WITH BULLET

Policeman Fred Kilroy of the Lincoln park force shot himself to death in his home at 3554 Wilton avenue early this morning after a quarrel with his wife, Agnes. Mrs. Kilroy said her husband drove her and their four children from the dwelling and then fired a bullet into his head. She told the Town Hall police that her husband had been despondent since he was injured by an automobile while escorting an elderly woman across the street at Montrose avenue and Sheridan road two weeks ago. He had been on sick leave since the accident, she said.

Kilroy was said to be one of the most popular traffic policemen on the Lincoln park force and known to thousands of motorists.

Police Seize 940 Suspects; 83 Have Records; 8 Guns

During the 24 hours ending at midnight the police arrested 940 persons, the largest number of arrests made in the crusade against hoodlums in the last week. Eighty-three of the prisoners were found to have police records when they were sent through the bureau of identification. Eight men were seized with guns.

2 Women Leap from Auto in Shotgun Chase

When two men drove away from a filling station in Deerfield yesterday without paying for their gasoline they started a thrilling chase which caused the serious injury of two women in a leap from a speeding car, slight injuries to three others in an automobile collision, and the arrest of three men. During the chase one automobile was riddled with shotgun slugs as the pursuer fired repeatedly at the pursued.

The chase started when Thomas Vanal, owner of the filling station, grabbed his shotgun and set out to make the fleeing customers pay for their five gallons of gasoline. At Waukegan road and Milwaukee avenue in Niles, he came upon a car which he believed was the one in which the two men had fled and according to the police, he opened fire.

Crash at Intersection.

Frank Redisi, 22 years old, 617 North Racine avenue, and Peter Loveidi, 21 years old, 2243 Grand avenue, who were in the car with two women continued to speed on and dashed through a stop light at Touhy avenue and Milwaukee avenue, crashing into a car driven by George Avery, 43 years old, of Park Ridge, an official of the Wadhams Oil company. Avery's car skidded into a ditch, bruising him, his wife, and his son, Vincent, 17 years old.

Vanal continued the chase, still firing, and a few minutes later as Redisi's car sped east in Touhy avenue, Mrs. Mary Carrac, 55 years old, 456 North Peoria street, and her daughter, Mildred, 17, leaped from it, rolling into a ditch. Mrs. Carrac suffered possible internal injuries and her daughter was knocked unconscious when her head struck the paving.

Three Under Arrest.

Chief of Police Oszakowski of Niles and Patrolmen Ralph Fjellman and Joseph Bailey took up the chase and finally overtook Vanal and Redisi three miles east of Milwaukee avenue, near McCormick boulevard. Redisi and Loveidi were locked up on charges of fleeing from the scene of an accident with their bonds set at $1,000. Vanal was released in $5,000 bonds on charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

Redisi and Loveidi denied that they were the men who bought the gasoline at Vanal's station, declaring that they fled because they thought they were being fired upon by bandits.

Auto Victim Dies.

Clifford Betjon, 26 years old, 4925 Warwick avenue, who was struck by a speeding hit and run automobile at Halsted street and Belmont avenue, died yesterday in the John B. Murphy hospital. Miss Katherine Hardinge, 22 years old, 736 Briar place, his companion, suffered a skull fracture and internal injuries and is near death in the same hospital. The Sheffield avenue police are holding Albert R. Moir, 25 years old, 716 North Drake avenue, as the driver of the car. He was found hiding in a basement at 3502 North Claremont avenue, after his car collided with that of E. L. Weidner, 4405 North Lawndale avenue, who pursued and captured him.

Betjon's death increased the Cook county motor toll for 1930 to 183.

Electric Cable Burns Out; Near North Side Darkened

A large section of the near north side was without street lights for more than two hours last night when a large feed cable burned out cutting off the electric current. The section in darkness was bounded by Clark street, Chicago avenue, the north branch of the river, and Diversey parkway.

PRIMO DE RIVERA FALLS VICTIM TO HEART ATTACK

Body Discovered by Son in Hotel.

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 16.—Spain's fallen dictator, Miguel Primo de Rivera, second Marquis de Estella, died suddenly here this morning from a heart attack in his 61st year.

The man, who in 1923 seized, and for six years and four months held in his soldier's hand, the destinies of 20,000,000 Spaniards and the ancient dynasty, came to his end alone in a hotel room on the banks of the Seine, a virtual exile.

He had lived there quietly for the month that has elapsed since he took the hint from his successor that his presence in Spain might be dangerous and would complicate the task of a transition government and crossed the frontier into France.

Sought to Regain Health.

Tomorrow he was to have gone to Wiesbaden, Germany, to enter a sanitarium for a diabetes cure in the hope of regaining his once robust health that had been slowly undermined by illness, hard work, and hard living. Instead he will go back in a special train to his native land to receive whatever honors Spain in this troubled moment can give to its castoff dictator.

There was no hint that the life of the stalwart picturesque soldier-aristocrat was threatened, except perhaps by his political enemies. For a few days last week he was in bed with a light attack of the grippe, but yesterday he took a long stroll through the Latin quarter, where he passed his student years, and last night dined long and well in one of the best restaurants in Paris.

This morning his daughters, Carmen and Maria Pilar, and his son, Miguel, a cavalry lieutenant, who is in exile himself after a number of brawls with his father's enemies and one duel, found him sitting on the edge of his bed apparently well and in good humor. He had been ripping open his letters, scanning papers, and devouring his petit dejeuner of cafe au lait and croissants. They went to mass at nine o'clock.

Son Finds Dead Father.

"Do not be too long," he called after them, "I will be dressed and ready for a walk when you come back."

Strangely apprehensive, Miguel left church before his sisters and returned to find his father collapsed in bed, his massive frame oddly limp. His broken reading glasses were at his side. He rushed out and got Dr. Bandelac de Parienete, physician to the Spanish embassy and the former dictator's comrade in recent weeks. The doctor took one look and pronounced Primo had died from a blood clot, supposedly of the heart.

Soon after came the Abbe Pinelle, chaplain of the Spanish colony, and three sisters from the Spanish convent of the Sacred Heart in Paris. After prayers for the dead had been said, candles were lighted and they did a thing that seemed strange to most. They brought a coarse brown baize cassock of a mendicant Carmelite friar, and in this robe, whose associations are of barefoot humility and rigid asceticism, they clad the body of the grandee general, the dictator and lover of life.

Send Body to Spain Today.

A sister of the Sacred Heart explained, in bad French, that thus do the great of Spain, good Catholics but proud and arrogant in life, sometimes express their humility in death.

With a cord knotted around his waist and his feet bare, Primo de Rivera was laid in the heavy oak coffin in which he will be transported southward tomorrow.

No sooner had this been done than people, throngs of them in silk hats and formal afternoon dress, began to arrive in the lobby of the Hotel Pont Royal. There was Marshal Philippe Petain, Andre Citroen, and Minister of Agriculture Fernand David. They had been invited to a farewell tea to be given by the general, and no one had time to tell them what happened. The Spanish consul general met them and broke the news.

King Alfonso Hears News.

King Alfonso of Spain was first to hear of the fate of the hardy grandee whom he picked, the roistering captain general of Barcelona, to establish a military directorate and put down the impotent but vaguely threatening parliament and establish order in Spain in place of chaos and end the war in Morocco.

A French newspaperman reached the royal palace at Madrid by telephone and told what had happened.

Will Be Buried as a Hero.

MADRID, March 16.—(AP)—Former Premier Primo de Rivera, who died in Paris today, will be buried, probably on Wednesday, with the full military honors of a Spanish captain general who dies while in active command of troops, according to plans formulated tonight.

All Spain was shocked this afternoon to learn of his sudden death.

The Union Patriotica is planning to send special trains with many of the dead leader's supporters to Hendaye, on the Franco-Spanish frontier, to escort the body to Madrid.

According to his friends, Primo de Rivera leaves no other fortune than the 4,000,000 pesetas [about $400,000] subscribed by the Union Patriotica, the political organization he founded.

Of this sum he had distributed among his children, three boys—José Antonio, Miguel, and Fernando—and two girls—Carmen and Maria Pilar—250,000 pesetas as an indemnity for their having lost their maternal inheritance.

OF AN ANCIENT FAMILY.

Gen. Miguel Primo de Rivera, Count de Estrella, was born in Cadiz Jan. 8, 1870. He came from an ancient and noble family.

In 1884 he entered a military academy. At the age of 22 he was fighting in Morocco where he was decorated and made a captain for bravery. Later he went to Cuba where he became a major and then to the Philippines from where he returned a lieutenant-colonel. He became a general in 1909.

In 1907 and again in 1917 he was minister of war, and it was while he held this office the last time that his political troubles began. He was finally forced to resign.

Early in 1923 while he was military governor of Madrid he made a violent speech against the Moroccan campaign. The result was his dismissal from the Madrid command and banishment to a Catalonian command.

Decides to Lead Revolt.

He decided to raise the flag of rebellion when the question came up for renewal of commercial treaties with various countries, including the United States, in 1923. Certain members of the Spanish cabinet had become wealthy during the world war by granting export licenses for the selling of supplies to the allied countries.

D. Santiago Alba, negotiator of the treaties and minister of war at the time, was accused by Gen. de Rivera of having illegally made a huge fortune. On Sept. 4, 1923, he went to Madrid to accuse Alba. Premier Garcia Pietro refused to believe de Rivera.

Gen. de Rivera saw prominent army officials and expressed his ideas. Then he returned to Barcelona and secretly prepared the plan which was to make him dictator.

On Sept. 13, 1923, martial law was declared in Spain. The plans made at Barcelona had worked. Shortly afterwards King Alfonso sent for Gen. de Rivera, who was immediately intrusted with power.

For a time he ruled as an absolute dictator. Later he loosened his grip somewhat, but continued in power until Jan. 28 of this year, when he was upset by Gen. Damaso Berenguer.

MORE CRUISERS! U. S. SEA EXPERTS CRY AFTER 'WAR'

"Without Them Fleet Is Like Blind Man."

BY JOHN A. PARK.

[Mr. Park, editor of the Raleigh, N. C., Times, Associated Press member, is acting as special correspondent for the Associated Press in covering the fleet maneuvers.]

GUANTANAMO BAY, March 16.—(AP)—Cruisers and more cruisers—those fleet scouting greyhounds of the sea—are the present need of the American navy even as they have been in years past.

This is the concensus of Flag and other high ranking officers of the United States fleet in Guantanamo bay, fresh today from experiences gained and lessons learned in the "battle of Navassa," theoretically fought to a finish in the Caribbean Friday after almost a week of maneuvering and scouting involving intricate problems, and, in which, ships of every type played their part.

Fleet Lost Without Cruisers.

Since the days of the Washington disarmament conference, which throttled all serious naval construction, cruisers have been at the forefront of international news.

The recent maneuvers and the working out of fleet problems has not changed the opinion of high ranking naval men that fast scouts in the form of light cruisers are still of so high an importance, that, without them, a fleet staggers about in its battle strategy as a blind man.

Rear Admiral T. P. Magruder, who acted as umpire in the war game just completed, is emphatic that from the lessons which came out of the tactical problem, it is absolutely necessary to have a large fleet of fast cruisers, modern from stem to stern, if a mobile fleet is to be formidable in action.

Wants More Aircraft Carriers.

A lack of sufficient light forces, including destroyers and cruisers, Admiral Magruder believes, considerably hampered officers in command of both the "black" and the "blue" fleets in the "battle" just completed, considerately cutting down their visibility and range of intelligence operation.

Rear Admiral Magruder is also of the opinion that the United States should proceed with the building of 135,000 tons of aircraft carriers allowed by the Washington conference. Also, he believes, the new carriers should be smaller than the Saratoga and the Lexington to permit greater numbers of this type of ship.

The present maneuvers have shown, it is pointed out, that it is almost as easy to disable a giant like the Saratoga, as to incapacitate a smaller carrier, and that, when it is gone, the fleet is powerless and a great extent of visibility goes with it. The total tonnage of aircraft carriers now in commission is 90,000 tons.

Not Enough Light Forces.

Admiral L. M. Nulton, who commanded the "blue fleet," emphasized the need of an offensive fleet for a large force of cruisers, not only for screen work, but for scouting far ahead of the great ships of the line. The "blue fleet" cruised about the Caribbean for days, in vain search for the mythical invader, its sea eyesight considerably hampered by the absence of sufficient light forces to locate the course and position of the enemy and to determine his plan of battle.

Another important lesson that has come out of the exercises is that aircraft, no matter how great the number of planes, cannot always be depended upon to furnish the fleet with its eyes. It was pointed out that the airplane must often bow to weather conditions and that aircraft carriers, even of the latest types and high speeds, are highly vulnerable to attack, not only from submarines, but from bombing planes.

It was by a brilliant air attack that Vice Admiral W. C. Cole after several days of maneuvering was able to launch his air force from the broad decks of the Lexington and in the period of a few brief "minutes wipe out the air force of the blue fleet."

Saratoga Put Out of Action.

The Lexington, aircraft tender for the "black fleet" and the Saratoga, the floating air base of the "blue fleet," were approximately 40 miles apart with the fleets running on courses, which made battle imminent. Admiral Cole was able to launch a fleet of 36 bombing planes from the Lexington in a brilliantly executed surprise attack on the Saratoga which was caught unawares and put out of action with only three planes of her air amada in the skies.

With the Saratoga eliminated from further action the "black fleet" bombers turned their attention to the old carrier Langley and made quick work of her.

Just before the big ships fired their last shots eighteen black torpedo planes took the air from a secret base at Great Messels Bay, Haiti, where they had been deposited by the mother ship Wright and attacked the already hard pressed "blue fleet" main battle line. Some observers were of the opinion that the "blue fleet" losses had been staggering and that the "black fleet" had concluded the engagement with a decisive victory.

1,765,000 JEWS LIVE IN N. Y.; CHICAGO IS NEXT WITH 325,000

New York, March 16.—[Special.]—A Jewish population of 238,992 is shown for the suburban counties of the New York metropolitan area in the United States religious census which soon will be published.

With a Jewish population of 1,765,000 reported for the five boroughs of the city, the total for the area is 2,003,992, or almost one-half the whole Jewish population of the United States.

The Jewish population for the United States is placed at 4,228,029 by Dr. Harry S. Linfield, director of the statistical department of the American Jewish committee.

New York as a Jewish center far surpasses any other city in the world. Its nearest rivals in this country are Chicago, with 325,000 Jews, and Philadelphia with 270,000; no other American city has over 100,000. Abroad, the largest Jewish population is found in Warsaw, Poland, with 309,000; Budapest, Vienna, Lodz and Kiev are the only other foreign cities with more than 100,000.

FORMER BARON JAILED BY U. S.; OVERSTAYS VISIT

New York, March 16.—[Special.]—Richard von Zinnow, 25, described by the authorities as a former German baron, was arrested Saturday night in the Hotel Plaza on a warrant issued by the department of labor in Washington for overstaying his allotted time in the United States. He was taken from his hotel room to Ellis island, where he will be arraigned Monday for a hearing.

Von Zinnow came to the United States three years ago on a passport good for six months. He obtained two extensions for six months each, and when the last one was up the immigration officials were unable to locate him. In March, 1928, he brought action in Chicago against Mr. and Mrs. Julius Oppenheimer of that city to recover $100,000, charging that they had alienated the affections of their daughter, Louise, 20, after she agreed to marry him.

Officially Shot to Death Has a Chance for His Life

Officially, Roosevelt Smith, Negro, 24 years old, 3716 Giles avenue, was shot and killed at 7:30 o'clock last night by James Adams, Negro, 3718 Giles avenue, during a quarrel. But at midnight he was still alive in the county hospital with a slim chance of recovering.

Found shot in his home, the Stanton avenue police decided he was dead, and at the Wilson hospital Dr. E. T. Alexander agreed with the police, the coroner's office being notified of his death. Dr. Alexander, however, injected strychnine and adrenalin into Smith's veins and an hour after he had been pronounced dead, he told the police who shot him.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

BRITISH TO O. K. SECURITY PACT IF UNCLE SAM DOES

Yield to France to End Navy Deadlock.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 16.—The deadlock over France's demand for a security pact as its price for reducing its sea forces, which has jammed the naval conference for a week, was broken today. For six hours Premier Andre Tardieu and Prime Minister MacDonald discussed the situation at Chequers. They finally reached some favorable results.

Although the situation is not cleared up, enough progress has been made to insure a continuance of the negotiations and avert the threatened collapse of the conference.

Premier Tardieu will return to Paris tomorrow, but is coming back next Saturday to resume the pourparlers.

Briand to Carry On.

Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, who had expected to quit the conference and return to Paris, is now remaining here and will proceed with the negotiations on the basis of today's conversation.

Mr. MacDonald, it was stated, receded from his attitude of last week, when he definitely rejected entering into any "military alliance," and today indicated that he might agree to elaborate on some sort of a consultative pact to avert war.

The prime minister insisted on predicating Great Britain's participation in such an agreement on the condition the United States become a party also, and the subject was left at that.

Will See Stimson Today.

Tomorrow the British delegate will begin persuasive methods to induce American Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson to lend a favorable ear to the only solution which, it seems, can save the conference from wreck and crown President Hoover's scheme with success.

This morning Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow breakfasted with M. Tardieu, and the French premier stated point blank that unless he can obtain some safeguard clause and as Italy insists upon parity, the figures, as submitted in the memorandum for 714,000 tons, must stand.

Mr. Morrow explained the aversion of the United States to mixing in European affairs like a Mediterranean pact, upon which M. Tardieu proposed to make it a general high seas agreement with all signatory powers pledging to go into a consultation before plunging into war, saying that the five nations represented here could prevent any maritime hostilities by such a solidarity.

Clash Over Sea Needs.

At Chequers, Mr. MacDonald attempted to show Premier Tardieu and M. Briand how a certain scaling down of the French figures will permit an agreement. The French premier objected to the argument on the grounds that, with Italy maintaining a fleet of equal strength to France and concentrated in the Mediterranean, it would dominate that portion of the French navy based there. He also pointed out the necessity for keeping certain squadrons in the Atlantic and channel ports.

Premier Tardieu frankly said France can reduce its naval requirements materially, if the powers agree to take counsel among themselves for a common action in case peace is threatened on the high seas. He indicated such an agreement need not require all the signatories, ipso facto, to declare war to aid a menaced nation, but merely to use their good offices to prevent a conflict.

Mr. MacDonald stressed the difficulty of Great Britain engaging itself further in foreign commitments and declared he could not envisage such an undertaking unless the United States agreed to take part.

Two Alternatives Left.

Two alternatives are thus elucidated —either Italy must be persuaded to abandon its claim to a parity with France and accept a 6-4 big cruiser ratio, or the United States must be induced to join up in the pact.

M. Tardieu, in his conversation, emphasized that France does not ask any pact directed against any one, but instead a mutual agreement binding all who care to become signatories, and that such an accord should be laid before the members of the league of nations for adherence, when Geneva's disarmament conference is held.

BRITAIN VIEWS NAVY PARLEY AS 'A BIG SUCCESS'

Sees Self as 'Mistress of the Seas' Again.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 16.—To say that the British admiralty is exceedingly well pleased with the accomplishments of the London naval conference up to date is to put it mildly indeed. America has agreed to curtail its cruiser building program for which the British contended unsuccessfully in former President Calvin Coolidge's conference, and Great Britain, without building another ship, is assured of a new lease of life as mistress of the seas.

Instead of getting a naval equality with Great Britain at this conference, America has again accepted the promise of a parity to be achieved, not during the life of this treaty, but at some far distant date, and the whole question of parity goes over until the next conference five years hence.

A Parity Promise.

That the British ever intended to accept a naval parity with America is fairly a matter of doubt. Evidence points strongly to the use of a parity promise as a means of inducing America to forego building a navy that would control the seas and accept a continued inferiority to British naval power.

The English public is thoroughly indoctrinated with the notion that it was America that first raised the cry of parity. Nothing could be farther from the truth. It was the British government that first proposed a naval parity with America. That was in 1920 when America was building a navy, which would have been superior to England's.

As the first step to halt our project the British government formally announced that it would be content henceforth with a naval strength not exceeding that of any other power. That was the first mention of an Anglo-American naval parity.

Washington Treaty First Move.

The next was when Lord Lee of Fareham, then first lord of the admiralty, suggested a conference of naval powers to limit navies. This was the first move to induce us to forego building a navy superior to Great Britain's. The late President Warren G. Harding acquiesced and called the Washington conference, where Charles Evans Hughes sank the new American navy in a ten minute opening statement.

When Arthur James Balfour, who won an earldom from a grateful monarch for his achievements at that conference, and Lord Lee heard that Mr. Hughes was scrapping our new navy they could scarcely contain themselves with joy. Lord Lee described their emotion at a recent dinner where the reporting of speeches was permitted.

"When Lord Balfour and I heard the Hughes statement," he said, "it was with the utmost difficulty that we kept a straight face and preserved the British reputation for phlegmatic temperament."

At this dinner Sir Maurice Hankey said that Lord Balfour regarded the Washington conference "as the greatest achievement of his life."

The British came out of the conference not only with the new American navy scrapped but with the right to build two superdreadnaughts, which assured the superiority of the British battleship fleet for 20 years. Thus the Anglo-American parity was postponed to 1942. But when Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson at this conference asked for America the right to build one superdreadnaught in order to equalize the battleship fleets, the British admiralty vetoed the proposal and Mr. Stimson backed down.

Following the Washington conference Great Britain built a fleet of eight inch gun cruisers. Former President Calvin Coolidge sought to halt this competition at Geneva but failed. At that conference the British denied they would ever agree to a cruiser parity. Then congress voted a bigger eight inch gun cruiser program than Great Britain's.

Almost immediately the British began agitation for the present conference, promising a parity in all classes of ships. But step by step Mr. Stimson has been maneuvered into abandonment of a parity.

Wipes Out Cruiser Parity.

First he accepted a limit of 18 big cruisers instead of the 21 President Hoover demanded as the minimum number. Then he agreed with Japan not to complete more than 15 during the life of the treaty. That completely wiped out the preponderance of American big cruiser strength over the British, which was deemed so essential to a parity in view of the British preponderance of outlying naval bases.

So with the Washington conference having postponed the battleship parity to 1942, the London conference has postponed the cruiser parity another five years, if not longer. The British are quite content to ease us along from conference to conference with the parity bait always just ahead, but never quite caught up with.

ITALY PLANS TO ADD 5 TURKISH SHIPS TO FLEET IF WAR COMES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 16.—An interesting piece of news in connection with the French and Italian deadlock at the naval conference was learned tonight. Italian shipbuilders have proposed to build five 6,000 ton cruisers for Turkey within the next three years, extending ten years of credit to Turkey. This loan is to be guaranteed by the Italian government on the condition that Turkey agrees to lend the cruisers any time that Italy might happen to need them, which means, of course, just so many units added to Italy's effective fleet. Italy is also reported to have ensured the efficiency of these cruisers by arranging to lend Italian naval officers to train the Turkish navy.

MILLIONS JOIN IN PRAYER CRUSADE AGAINST RUSSIA

Hold Special Services in England and U. S.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 16.—Five million persons raised their voices in prayer today in the churches and chapels throughout England and Wales on behalf of the persecuted Christians in Russia. The services of intercession were held in response to a call made by the archbishop of Canterbury.

The bishop of London preached a special sermon at which he recalled his visit to Russia before the war. Referring to the churchmen who had welcomed him at the time he said, "To think that all those bishops have been butchered, all those priests murdered." He went on to point out that there was nothing political in the plea for divine help, as it was only one part of the church of Christ praying for succor and sympathy for the other.

Military Avoids Services.

The Labor government's ban on prayers of intercession by chaplains of the navy, army, or air force was fully observed. The government feared that such services might jeopardize its newly formed relations with the soviets.

Only in a few instances were services interrupted by soviet sympathizers. At a church in Islington four young men voiced a protest during the service. In other parts of London young men stood outside the churches and distributed pamphlets, but caused no disturbance.

The Jewish board of deputies today passed a resolution condemning "the suppression of religious teaching in Russia which is threatening Russian Judaism itself with extinction."

Thousands Pray in New York.

New York, March 16.—[Special.]—Hundreds of thousands of persons of all faiths joined in prayer today in churches, synagogues and meeting halls of the city against the religious persecutions in Russia.

At the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, Bishop William T. Manning led in a special service attended by representatives of all Protestant denominations. St. Patrick's Cathedral was the other principal center of supplication for all those who are suffering oppression for their belief in God in the land of the soviets. The day proved a remarkable demonstration of ecclesiastical and civil protest.

New York Jewry added its voice of disapproval of the anti-religious policy of the soviet government at a large meeting in town hall under the auspices of the American Jewish congress. While clergymen of many denominations were voicing indignation, 15,000 communists gathered in the Bronx coliseum to protest against the intercession of the clergy in behalf of the religionists in Russia. It resolved itself, however, into a general condemnation of all things capitalistic and a great paean of collective praise for all things communistic.

Reds Boo Everybody.

The communists engaged in a grand booing party. They booed the Deity, the pope, Bishop Manning, Cardinal Hayes, Rabbi Wise, Norman Thomas, Mayor Walker, Police Commissioner Whalen, and others too numerous to mention.

Down near the big red draped platform sat a stenographer from the Bronx district attorney's office and another from police headquarters, jotting down the scathing denunciations. Police Commissioner Grover Whalen was on the scene in charge of the 400 uniformed and plain clothes police. Two emergency trucks loaded with tear gas bombs stood close at hand.

While the services and meetings were in progress it was announced that a great massmeeting "for religious liberty" will be held in the Metropolitan Opera house Tuesday evening, March 25, under the combined patronage of Cardinal Hayes, Bishop Manning, Bernard S. Deutsch, president of the American Jewish congress, and the Rev. Dr. Arthur J. Brown, head of the Presbyterian board of foreign missions and chairman of the American committee on religious rights and minorities.

Atheists Prepare Drive.

MOSCOW, March 16.—(AP)—While millions in other lands prayed today for Russia's legions of Christian faithful, the militant atheist society of Russia, the League of the Godless, prepared for a more intensive assault against God and the churches during the approaching Easter period.

The Russian government itself, however, has noticeably moderated its attitude toward religion. It now discountenances the forcible closing of churches or the tearing down of church bells without the consent of the overwhelming majority of the population and the formal sanction of the central government authorities.

All Moscow's churches were well attended at services today, the government having at no time attempted to prevent individuals from freely taking part in their religious rites.

Among the numerous manifestos issued today by factories, workers' clubs, and atheistic organizations, is one by the Moscow Dynamo factory saying "under the sacred robes of the pope, there is concealed a jackal that is ready to destroy the land which builds socialism with fire and sword."

The Moscow Union of Militant Atheists, addressing the capitalistic world, says, "You will not frighten or dismay the soviet union of workers with your religious crusade, as you have so often attempted to frighten us with your diplomatic notes and wild attacks on our foreign representatives."

Another manifesto, by the Moscow Steam Engine works, says, "We well know that the bourgeoisie in their struggle against us will attract every one to their ranks, including God and the pope. They realize that their grave diggers are approaching, and that neither God nor pope will save them from death."

ANNOUNCE CHICAGO PRAYERS.

Pastors of all Roman Catholic churches in Chicago yesterday announced to their congregations that Wednesday will be a day of special prayer throughout the entire world, at the direction of Pope Pius, for an end to the religious persecutions in Russia. Services will for the most part be held in the evening, in addition to the regular Lenten services.

SLAYING BARES 10 YEAR REIGN OF BLACKMAIL

Son Tells of Terrorism to Save Accused Father.

A strange tale of persecution in the west side Sicilian colony was told last night. A son's anxiety for his father swept aside the veil of reticence which usually is dropped over a murder in the district and the story of a ten year reign of terror by the Black Hand appeared.

John Fidenzi, 743 South Leavitt street, did the talking and he spoke to save his father, Daniel, 61 years old, who was held at the Marquette police station in connection with the slaying on Saturday night of Dominick Melfi, 45 years old, an alleged extortionist. The elder man will be accused of the murder at an inquest today, and his son's story sought to excuse the killing.

Son's Story of Terrorism.

"For ten years our family has been paying money to the Black Hand," said young Fidenzi. "My father is a foreman for a construction company. He had five children. He didn't have much money and whenever he saved a little he was forced to give it away or be bombed."

Three blackmailers fixed their attention on the Fidenzi family in 1920, the son said. A letter was sent to Fidenzi, informing him that his home would be bombed if he did not pay $1,000. He ignored the threat and the bomb was thrown. In terror, the father compromised by paying $500 to the extortionists, all he could raise.

Accuses Three as Blackmailers.

The three blackmailers were Melfi, a man known as Amante Belloni, and another called Felix Davolio, young Fidenzi said. For years the tribute payments went on, the sums exacted ranging from $10 to $300. In September, 1927, a demand was made for $2,000.

"We didn't think we could get anywhere in the courts," said the son, "so Belloni was killed over on Damen avenue. But that didn't stop the other two. Melfi made an appointment to meet my father Saturday night. My father was to pay over $500. Instead he fired three bullets into Melfi's head.

"Now there's only one of the men left. That's Davolio, and other members of the extortion gang are protecting him."

An examination of the records by the police showed no murder of a man named Belloni, and they suspected that a fictitious name may have been given by the son. A further investigation was being made.

Lieut. John Norton, who was conducting the inquiry into the slaying of Melfi, declared that the elder Fidenzi was to be praised.

"These extortionists are all rats," Norton said. "It's too bad more of the people they prey upon haven't got the backbone to do what this old man did."

FROM THE NEW HEBRIDES

The New Hebrides are a chain of islands in the western Pacific, 250 miles northeast of New Caledonia. They are under the joint administration of English and French officials, have an estimated area of 5,700 square miles, and a native population of between 55,000 and 60,000. The French influence seems to be making greater progress than the British. The former have 35,500 acres under cultivation, while the latter have only 8,685 acres. Cocoanuts, cocoa, cotton, coffee, sugar, and tropical fruits are the chief products. The chief port is Vila and there is a frequent service to Australia and New Caledonia, and a monthly service to France, via Panama.

Guilty Simply of Acidity!

That persistent feeling of tiredness—that clouded mind—that lack of dash and fire—that missing punch that decides so many situations in business—are all usually due to an acid system. Excess acid, formed in the stomach as a result of our unnatural eating habits, causes acid-indigestion with gas, sourness and burning and sets up poisonous putrefaction in the gastro-intestinal canal that saps our strength and vitality, taxes our nerves and pulls us down physically and mentally.

Magnesia Oxoids, developed in Germany by a famous, 100-year-old pharmaceutical house, corrects acidity in the right way! Upon contact with the acid in the stomach, Magnesia Oxoids generate nascent, or active, oxygen. The "live" oxygen stimulates the alkaline gastric mucus, checks putrefaction in the gastro-intestinal canal and stimulates the activities of the intestinal walls which aids the natural movement of the bowels. All three effects are necessary to the true correction of acidity.

5-Day Acidity Test

To ascertain just how "acid" you are, make this 5-day test. Get a package of Magnesia Oxoids at small cost from Walgreen's Drug Stores and Economical Drug Stores or any other good druggist. Take two after each meal for a few days and see how much better you feel—how much more soundly you sleep and how much more energy you have. If 5 days' use doesn't tell you volumes return the balance of the Oxoids to the druggist and he will cheerfully refund your money.

SLAIN RACKETEER FOUND IN RIVER; BLAME ALKY WAR

Pal Missing After Chief Dodges Machine Guns.

champion gangster. It was the first interview Capone has granted since his arrest for gun carrying last May 17.

As Capone talked he betrayed annoyance at the failure of the prison doors to swing open for him. With his two months' good time allowance, Capone should have completed his one year term at midnight tonight. But there was a hitch because the governor's signature is necessary to make the good time allowance effective. Gov. Fisher is just returning from a trip to Panama, and he didn't get back in time to sign, so Al must wait until tomorrow, and it probably will be late in the day before he is freed.

Not So Tough for Capone.

The protagonist of bootlegging and rackets has had a comfortable cubicle in this tough old state's prison. A soft red rug covered the hard concrete floor, an expensive radio set emitted soft music from one corner. There were two comfortable chairs for visitors, and a table covered with books and magazines.

As Capone talked his eyes wandered to the well tailored, double breasted, new blue suit which was draped carefully from hangers on the wall. On a shelf beside it stood a new pair of black shoes. Beside them lay a pearl gray fedora.

"After I get back home and visit with my family," Capone said, "I'll go down to Miami for a month or so. They can't keep me out of Miami even if they want to. I'm an American citizen, I own property in Miami, and I'll go there like any other citizen."

Any Jail Bad Enough.

"How have they treated you here," the reporter asked.

"O, it's been all right." He shrugged. "It could have been a lot better, but I haven't got any grudge against anybody, not even the coppers who grabbed me. It's all even with me. I'm leaving here without any hard feelings.

"Jail's a bad place under any circumstances, and don't let them kid you. All this talk about me walking into Philadelphia and giving myself up is the bunk pure and simple. Whenever I want to retire that way I'll choose a home town jail."

Capone showed some bitterness when told of a report that federal income tax collectors will probably annoy him when he reaches Chicago and that he also faces a contempt charge there. On the other hand he laughed when told that a mob of Brooklyn "gorillas" was rumored to be on hand to "get" him in revenge for the murder of their leader, Frankie Yale.

And when he was told that Maj. Lemuel Schofield, Philadelphia director of public safety, would probably be on hand to escort him to a train with a platoon of police Al fairly hooted with derision at the idea he would need protection.

Hopes for Compromise.

Capone admitted he attended the notorious "peace conference" held by Chicago and New York gang chiefs in New Jersey just before he was jailed for carrying a loaded revolver into Philadelphia. He asserted after he was picked up here on his way back from the conference to Chicago he had offered to compromise with the government on income tax and pay an amount he thinks the government is entitled to.

"Of course, I'm going back to Chicago," Capone said. "Where else would I go? I live in Chicago, my business is there, my mother and my family are there. I'm going to call on Myrtle Tanner Blackledge, the collector of internal revenue, and renew my compromise offer. The government better take me up because I never kept any books and never had a bank account."

Poorer and Thinner.

Capone leaves the prison 20 pounds lighter, and, it is said, at least $150,000 poorer than when he entered. He used to tip the scales at 230, now it is only 210. Capone wears gold bowed spectacles now. He says he had to take to glasses because of eye strain from the dazzling white walls of the prison. He has had his tonsils removed by the prison doctor. Also he has gone under the knife for a sinus infection.

Capone claims he has given away, since he has been in Eastern prison, some $25,000 or $30,000 to less fortunate prisoners and their families, and to local charities. But it has always been Capone's policy to be prodigal with his money.

Just Another Convict.

Gov. Fisher said in New York during the day that he would not hurry to Harrisburg to sign Capone's papers. Capone, he indicated, was just another convict to him. It appeared likely tonight that the governor probably would not sign the papers before noon tomorrow and in that event, it was pointed out, the papers could not reach the prison from Harrisburg until late this afternoon.

The uncertainty concerning the release set afloat a lot of rumors around Philadelphia tonight. There was the one about the Brooklyn "gorillas" being in town to avenge Yale. There were others to the effect that friends and foes of the notorious gangster were massing here and that "hell would be popping" when Capone came out the door.

One rumor was that Capone would be "shot" into an automobile, surrounded by police and dashed out to the airport, where he would leap into a plane and set out for an unannounced destination. A lot of people appeared to believe that might, after all, be Capone's best bet.

Capone's bodyguard, Frank Rio, who was arrested and sentenced with him, will be freed when Capone is.

SISTER OF CAPONE, HIS CHIEF DEFENDER, EAGERLY AWAITS HIM

Whatever others may say of Al Capone's well known past and uncertain future, he has one loyal friend who believes him incapable of wrong doing. That is Capone's sister, Mafalda, 19 years old, a girl with laughing gray eyes fringed with curling black lashes. Mafalda is waiting for her brother with a pounding heart and full larder.

Not sure of the hour when Capone will arrive, Mafalda, her aged grandmother, Theresa, and her 12 year old nephew, Ralph Capone Jr., whose father is waiting for Uncle Al in Philadelphia, are tremulously preparing the turkeys for a homecoming feast. The three live together at 7244 Prairie avenue, while Al's wife and mother are at his Miami estate.

"Why do people care about us?" Mafalda asked yesterday. "I don't see why the newspapers put headlines in about my brother. I wish they would say how good he is. Every one who really knows him says it."

A look of pain came in her eyes as she looked out through the door at cars passing. Women in them pointed to the house and talked.

HONEYMOONERS HURT WITH BOY AT CAR'S WHEEL

Geneseo, Ill., March 16.—[Special.]—Their honeymoon abruptly ended, Otto Agy and his bride of one hour of Davenport, Ia., are in the Geneseo city hospital suffering from sundry fractures and injuries while the driver of their automobile, Lynn Cosgrove, 11, also of Davenport, is in a serious condition after a crash near here.

Agy and Mrs. Ada McCormick, a nurse, had been married in Cambridge and were en route to this city when young Cosgrove lost control of the machine and it struck a concrete abutment.

Agy incurred a fracture of his right arm and his hands were badly cut. His bride suffered a fracture of the nose and lacerations which threaten one of her eyes. Cosgrove was pinned beneath the steering wheel and suffered a broken nose and internal injury. A fourth occupant of the machine, Mrs. F. Cosgrove, mother of the driver, was unhurt.

TWO ARE KILLED IN PLANE CRASH AT AIR CIRCUS

Zanesville, O., March 16.—(AP)—Albert J. Edwards, 33, garage proprietor and airplane salesman, and Burt Chaney, 35, auto mechanic, were killed in a plane crash four miles north of here today.

The ship, which was owned and piloted by Edwards, went into a tail spin at an altitude of about 3,000 feet. It crashed in plain view of a throng of spectators who had gathered to see an air circus at Wheeler air port. While they had no connection with the aerial show, the two men were flying around the edge of the airport, most of the time at a high altitude.

Both men were living when taken from the wreckage, but died shortly after reaching a local hospital.

Hunt Kidnaper Who Tried to Lure 5 Year Old Girl

Police squads yesterday hunted through northwest side streets for a man who tried to kidnap a 5 year old girl near her home at 2914 Allen avenue. The man lured the little girl into a basement at 2910 Allen avenue by offering her candy. When he attempted to seize her, she screamed, and the man fled.

WOMAN ELECTION JUDGE CLUBBED TO DEATH BY ROBBER

Her Pay for Registration Work Is Stolen.

Mrs. Ida M. Doyle, 59 years old, 2950 South La Salle street, an election judge, was found clubbed to death early yesterday in an alley near her home.

Mrs. Doyle's skull had been fractured and her face battered by blows from some heavy weapon. The woman's purse, containing pay which she had received on Saturday night for registration work, was missing, and a plain gold wedding ring had been stripped from her finger, indicating that the motive for the attack was robbery. The ring, stained with blood, was found in a dilapidated vacant building at 2969 Wentworth avenue, in the rear of which the body was found.

Works at Polling Places.

Mrs. Doyle had worked as a Republican judge in the seventh precinct of the 3d ward at a polling place near Wentworth avenue and 30th street, on Saturday, and at 10 p. m. had gone to the city hall with Mrs. Anna Walker, 3150 South La Salle street, and Mrs. Mary Pasten, 155 West 31st street, to deliver their revised registration books and to receive their pay.

The three workers returned toward their homes together on a Wentworth avenue car, Mrs. Doyle leaving it at 31st street about 11:45 p. m. She apparently was seized by the robber as she passed the mouth of the alley between La Salle street and Wentworth avenue, and dragged into a passageway at the rear of the building at 2969 Wentworth avenue. Scratches on her hands and the evidence of repeated blows on the face indicated that she had made a desperate effort to escape from the slayer.

Finds Body, Notifies Police.

The body was found about 4 a. m. yesterday by Grant Lee Carter, Negro, 3127 Wabash avenue, who was passing through the passageway to a stable in the rear to get his horse and wagon. Carter notified the Pekin Inn police, who removed the body to a morgue at 2942 Wentworth avenue, where it was identified several hours later by Mrs. Doyle's husband, George.

BEATEN TO DEATH

2 MEN ARE SHOT WHILE ESCORTING WOMEN IN STREET

Two men were shot while walking on the street with women last night.

Morris Berkelhamer, 4702 West 13th street, was shot in the right arm while with Miss Jeannette Swislowsky, 4444 Congress street, at Roosevelt road and Kedzie avenue. Berkelhamer told the police his assailant was Eli Berger, whose arrest he had caused six years ago for striking his mother. After treatment at the Mount Sinai hospital, Berkelhamer was held at the detective bureau for investigation.

Anthony Contavesti, 39 years old, 7624 Ingleside avenue, was shot in the right leg by an unidentified man who fired at him and his wife at 78th street and Greenwod avenue. Contavesti and his wife said they did not know who the assailant was or his motive.

GANDHI DEMANDS BLOOD MARTYRS IN INDIA REVOLT

ANAND, Bombay Province, India, March 16.—(AP)—Mahatma Gandhi and his 73 volunteers inaugurating the campaign of civil disobedience to the Indian government arrived here and made camp for the night. They will remain tomorrow and tomorrow night.

Addressing the villagers at Boriavi, its last previous halting place, Gandhi said: "Money alone will not win swaraj (self-government). If money could win, I should have secured it long ago. What is required therefore is your blood."

March Taxes Mahatma.

LONDON, March 17, Monday.—(AP)—Dispatches from Bombay to the Daily Mail say that Gandhi, as well as some of his volunteers on the civil disobedience march to the Gulf of Cambay, is suffering physically from his pilgrimage under the fierce Indian sun. On arriving at the village of Nadiad, Gandhi had to be revived by cold compresses, applied to his head, and his legs were thoroughly massaged with ointment. The mahatma is 61 years old.

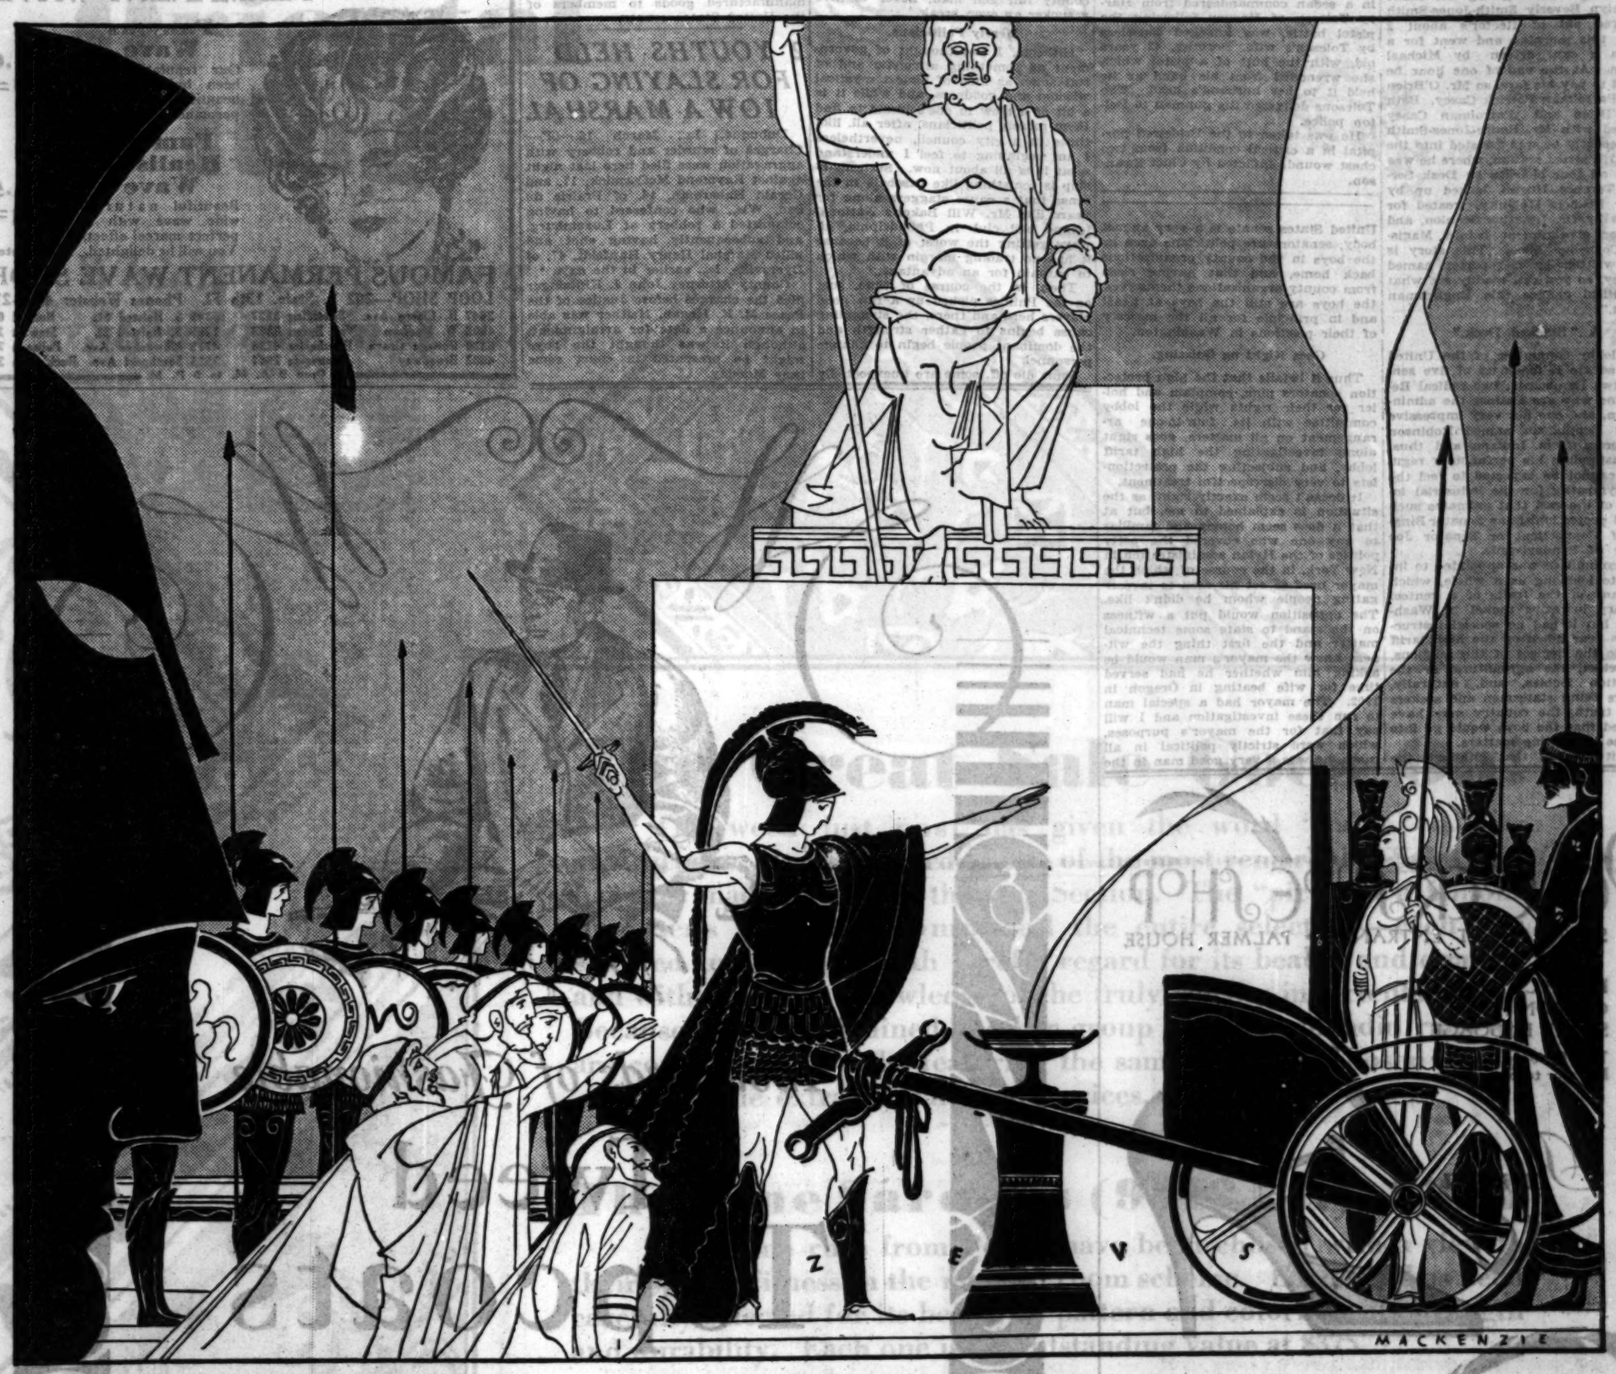
ALEXANDER BECAME "ALEXANDER THE GREAT" WHEN HE CUT THE GORDIAN KNOT



Had Houdini lived in Alexander's time, the whole course of Asiatic history might have been altered. For the Gordian knot held the key to power and it steadfastly resisted the skill of all men » » "Whosoever can undo the knot which holds fast this chariot before me shall reign over all of Asia" decreed the oracle » » Alexander proved himself the Houdini of his time. When he came upon the famed knot on his campaign in Asia Minor, he raised his sword and cut straight through the cable, applying to himself the prophecy of the oracle » » Thus Alexander became "Alexander the Great" and ever since the Gordian knot has been symbolical of defiant resistance » » The new Gordian Worsted fabrics developed by Hart Schaffner & Marx perpetuate this interesting tradition. LOBBY INQUIRY PACKED AGAINST WETS AND TARIFF

4 to 1 Combination Hard Hand to Beat.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 16.—[Special.]—The unhappy experiences of Senator Bingham and other proponents of high tariff rates on manufactured goods, including lobbyists before the senate lobby committee, which is packed four to one against the tariff, suggests the unfortunate chain of circumstances which befell an Englishman by the name of Evelyn Beverly Smith-Jones-Smith one night in New York. The story of his misadventures appeared in the old Sun about as follows:

"An Englishman giving his name as Evelyn Beverly Smith-Jones-Smith wandered out of Rector's about 2 o'clock this morning and went for a ride in a cab driven by Michael O'Brien. At the end of one hour he refused to pay his fare, so Mr. O'Brien called Patrolman Patrick Casey. Both Mr. O'Brien and Patrolman Casey reasoned with Mr. Smith-Jones-Smith and presently he was assisted into the West 47th street station, where he was booked on four charges by Desk Sergeant Terence Hogan, locked up by Keeper Francis McNulty, treated for injuries by Dr. Ignatius Scanlon, and held for arraignment before Magistrate Cornelius Shea. This story is being written by a reporter named O'Malley, so you can readily see what a beautiful chance this Englishman has got."

A "Stacked Deck."

The lobby committee of the United States senate is made up of five senators, two Democrats, two radical Republicans who are against the administration, and one not very impressive regular Republican named Robinson who comes from Indiana and thus, notwithstanding his perfunctory regularity, cannot be expected to feel the same sympathy for the industrial interests of the east that animates such devoted protectionists as Senator Bingham of Connecticut or Senator Joe Grundy of Pennsylvania.

The committee was appointed to investigate lobbying as a whole, which has many of the traits of a genteel and very lucrative racket in Washington, but it had no special instructions to bear down on the high tariff lobby to the neglect of the religious, the pacifist, the agricultural or the prohibition lobbies, and, naturally, senators being statesmen and seekers of the truth, the country may have supposed that the boys would go into all these interesting matters.

But it appears that although the United States senate is a very august body, senators are politicians even as the boys in the county organizations back home, and that having risen from county organizations themselves, the boys are still the boys at heart and in principle for all the majesty of their positions in Washington.

Goes Right on Quizzing.

Thus it befalls that the high protection senators pine, complain and holler for their rights while the lobby committee with its four-to-one arrangement on all matters, goes right along investigating the high tariff lobby, and subjecting the protectionists to very disrespectful treatment.

It doesn't seem exactly right, as the situation is explained to me, but at that it does seem homey and familiar to any one who covered the petty politics of the Hylan administration in New York, in the course of which the mayor used to set his men to investigating people whom he didn't like. The opposition would put a witness on the stand to state some technical matter and the first thing the witness knew the mayor's man would be asking him whether he had served time for wife beating in Oregon in 1902. The mayor had a special man to run these investigation and I will say that for the mayor's purposes, which were strictly political in all cases, he was a very good man in the job, because in time he developed such a reputation that people just thought they would rather not take the stand to testify against any proposition in which the mayor was interested.

Strength Always Same.

It is a curious thing about this lobby committee of the senate that, although the boys do not line up alike on all propositions, the numerical strength is always the same on all subjects. For instance, Mr. Blaine of Wisconsin is against the high industrial tariff, but wet, whereas Mr. Robinson of Indiana is a high tariff man in a sort of way but a prohibitionist.

So any time any one happens to say, "well, why don't you boys investigate the dry lobby now?" Mr. Blaine might be all for that but Mr. Robinson would vote "no" and the tally would be 4 to 1 just the same. They are 4 to 1 against the administration, 4 to 1 dry, 4 to 1 against everything they don't like and 4 to 1 for everything they want, so you can readily see what a beautiful chance the wets and high-protection boys have got before that committee of the United States senate.

But this seems to be nothing unusual in Washington, for it will be contrary to the first principles of statesmanship to give the other side any unearned advantages and I gather that senators, congressmen and sometimes Presidents from the time that the spoils system was first introduced have gone by the ancient rule of the county fair con man, never to give a sucker an even break.

Merely Politicians.

Hitherto, I had thought of government as something altruistic and of statesmen as men of almost mystical wisdom and goodness, and while it is a bit of a blow to one's ideals to find them merely politicians, after all, like those in a city council, nevertheless I am beginning to feel I understand what it is all about now. Statesmanship is something like baseball, in the sense that a cause staggers along for years like Mr. Will Baker's National league ball club in Philadelphia, always getting the worst of it because it has no trading margin with which to bargain for an advantage.

Then, in the course of time, just as the Phillies picked up a few good players here and there, the struggling cause begins to gather strength and the dominant people begin to change personnel.

Some die off, some are unexpectedly licked in the elections back home, there is a loss of strength followed by some bad fielding, so to speak, on political questions, and the standing of the clubs turns upside down, hoisting the Phillies to the top of the political league for a spell.

Big Enough to Win.

The regular Republicans didn't concede control to the radicals and Democrats out of any sentimental observance of the golden rule, but only because this combination was big enough to beat them, which is something I can recognize as the rule of the prizefight and baseball industries and practically all other lines of endeavor with which I am familiar, not omitting the profession of the law, from which most statesmen emerge to the nobler works of government in Washington.

The radicals in the senate found themselves just numerous enough to dominate matters by joining with the Democrats, with whom they were more or less sympathetic, anyway, and that is how it comes the lobby committee has been riding the high protection people in the hearings and ignoring the other lobbies. If the wets had a majority of four to one they would have had the Methodist board and the Anti-Saloon league on the stand for months, with all their books and private correspondence and very little would have been heard about the gents and ladies who have been promoting prosperity, for a price, by urging the necessity of high rates on manufactured goods to members of the United States senate.

Caught by Woman

ELFORD H. PHROMMEN.

The bandit wounded Saturday night in a pistol battle with Police Chief George Swanson of Harvey at the door of Harvey police headquarters was identified yesterday at the Bridewell hospital as Alfred E. Phrommen, 27 years old, recently discharged from the penitentiary at Pendleton, Ind.

Phrommen, who sought to escape in a sedan commandeered from Harry Toleson of Harvey following the pistol battle, was knocked senseless by Toleson's wife, Dorothy, 42 years old, with the butt of a pistol which she wrenched from his hand as he held it to her husband's head. The Tolesons delivered the gunman to Dolton police.

He was taken to the Bridewell hospital in a critical condition from two chest wounds inflicted by Chief Swanson.

2 YOUTHS HELD FOR SLAYING OF IOWA MARSHAL

Dubuque, Ia., March 16.—(AP)—Charges of murder and robbery with aggravation were filed here last night against Raymond McCormick, 17, and Gerald Haberman, 16, of Prairie du Sac, Wis., who confessed to having committed a robbery at Luxemburg, and subsequently having shot and killed Marshal Henry Hanfeldt, 47, of Dyersville, Ia., earlier in the day.

County Attorney John J. Kintzinger filed the charges before Justice of the Peace M. K. Hogan. Neither was able to announce a date for arraignment, although it was thought the boys might be presented in court some time Monday.

2 HOUSEHOLDERS CAPTURE RAZOR BURGLAR IN FIGHT

A Negro burglar armed with a razor who entered an apartment at 821 Bowen avenue early yesterday was seriously injured when two occupants of the apartment grappled with him. Both the robber's foes were slashed with the razor in the struggle.

Lucas Fields, 40 years old, the burglar, had just climbed through a window when he was met by Walter Ewing, 36 years old, father of four children, who had been awakened by the noise of entry. Ewing seized Fields and was cut about the face and chest before William Goggin, 40 years old, the landlord, arrived. Goggin struck the burglar over the head with a soldering iron fracturing his skull.

The police took both Ewing and Fields to a hospital.

CONFESSES HE SLEW BROTHER NINE YEARS AGO

Arrested yesterday for the slaying of his brother nine years ago, John J. Kelly, 39 years old, 1627 North Wells street, last night admitted his guilt to the police and agreed to return for trial to Detroit where the crime was committed in 1921.

Kelly was arrested in a restaurant at Lake street and Wabash avenue, where he was employed as a waiter. He was found by Lieut. John McGinnis of the homicide bureau who received information from the Detroit police that Kelly was employed in a Chicago restaurant. Lieut. McGinnis finally traced Kelly to his place of employment.

Kelly shot and killed his brother, Leo, a cabaret owner, in a quarrel, according to his story. He said his memory was vague as to actual details of the shooting because he was intoxicated at the time.

292,360 NAMES STRICKEN FROM CITY POLL LIST

Qualified Voters Now Total 1,298,212.

Chicago now has 1,298,212 registered voters. County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki announced last night after all the erasures of Saturday night's revision of the poll books had been tabulated. The names of 292,360 persons were stricken from the list of eligible voters.

The erasures were more than 60,000 greater than the number of names—232,171—which were added to the lists in the registration of last Tuesday. The new total of qualified voters is 52,917 less than the 1,350,729 names on the poll books for the aldermanic election of Feb. 2, 1929.

HELD BY POLICE

MRS. HEARTSIE MILOSIC.

Although Heartsie Milosic, 19 years old, 6205 Woodlawn avenue, still insisted that she had not suspected that her husband of a week was a bandit, nineteen robbery victims had identified him last night, and Heartsie herself was facing a charge of receiving stolen property.

The husband, Frank Milosic, 22 years old, and his alleged accomplice, Joseph Hoyne, 21 years old, 4935 South Kedvale avenue, were taken to the detective bureau last night for the showup and are to be booked at the Hyde Park police station today on robbery charges.

DIES OF ACCIDENTAL WOUND.

Robert Puckett, colored, 50 years old, 726 Oak avenue, Evanston, died in the Rogers Park hospital of a bullet wound inflicted accidentally on Friday when a pistol which Nathan Zalon, a shoe repairer at 7648 North Paulina avenue, was showing to him was discharged.

CHICAGO ENJOYS A SUMMER DAY; ROADS CRAMMED

Crowds Fill Parks with Mercury at Record 73.

BY HAL FOUST.

Chicago enjoyed summer weather yesterday. The mercury reached the day's peak of 73 degrees at 1 p. m. and remained there until 3 o'clock, according to the government record. It was the first time the 70 mark had been passed this year. The temperature set a record for March 16 at the Chicago weather bureau, the previous maximum being 60 degrees in 1882. The forecast for today is cloudy with showers and cooler in the afternoon.

A summer day, before the official arrival of spring on next Friday, lured the city's population out of apartments, hotels and houses for a holiday in the sunshine. Parks, boulevards and highways were filled with folks doing little more than enjoying the weather, but finding lots of pleasure in that.

The city's parks were full of bare headed children, men carrying coats, and women in light dresses. Along the lake shore young couples sat in the sand and tossed pebbles into the water. Bathing suits were seen on a couple of youths at a north side street end.

In the forest preserves cars were parked on dry knolls while families played in the woods. There were many hikers, also. The preserves are still in the drab gray coat of winter's grass and leaves, but buds are beginning to swell and the song birds are arriving from the south in numbers.

Practically all the golf courses were in use. The short grass of the fairways, exposed to the sun of early spring, has turned green.

The highways of the metropolitan area were packed with automobiles as on a bright Sunday in June. There were long delays while strings of cars crept past intersections of important roads. Chicagoans, who pay for 40 per cent of Illinois' pavements, were having difficulty in enjoying the state highways.

At Lake street and Mannheim road at 2:50 o'clock, there was no one directing traffic. Long lines of cars jerked slowly across the intersection. Fumes of boiling alcohol came from radiators.

In a few weeks, the state and the county will be at work building grade separations and widening the pavement on the routes radiating from Chicago. This will cause much temporary inconvenience but it will be welcomed by a motoring public which believes its needs have long been neglected.

Many 1929 state licenses were seen on the road. The police—city, village, county and state—were too busy directing traffic to make many arrests. Wholesale arrests are scheduled to start today.

CHURCHES ARE URGED TO HELP STAMP OUT ILLITERACY IN U.S.

Washington, D. C., March 16.—(AP)—Secretary Wilbur today appealed to all evangelical bodies in the United States to join in the drive to eliminate illiteracy.

The "shocking facts" of illiteracy are being called to the attention of the church organizations now, he said, in order that plans can be made at the annual meetings this spring for active participation in the campaign sponsored by the government.

Mr. Wilbur said that the 1920 census reported 4,931,905 persons ten years of age and over unable to write in any language.

"These are sheer illiterates," he said. "The number of persons unable to read the Bible with understanding, or to write a letter, is variously estimated from 15 to 20 million."

Van Buren, 31, manager of the Toledo Transcontinental airport at Lemoyne, O., was burned to death when the automobile in which he was riding with his wife and friends burst into flames following a collision with a truck on the outskirts of Milan, Mich., early today.

The injured were: Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Collawn, Richmond, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Dwyer, also of Richmond; Mr. and Mrs. W. Oliver Murray, Washington, D. C., and three unidentified persons.

JEWELRY—FIRST FLOOR

U. S. TAX MOUNTS TO $41,879,558 IN CHICAGO AREA

Total of 10 Million Less Than 1929 Expected.

Taxpayers of the First district of Illinois had paid federal income taxes totaling $41,879,558 when a force of 365 clerks finished their work in the office of the collector of internal revenue yesterday.

Many truckloads of mail remain to be sorted, according to R. E. Neely, chief deputy collector, who announced the new figures. He said yesterday's figure compared with a total of $51,649,567, which had been turned in at the same time on March 16, 1929.

The total yesterday was an increase of more than $4,600,000 over the total received up to midnight Saturday and today's tabulations are expected to add millions more, Mr. Neely said. It is expected that the final total of taxes received will be about $10,000,000 less than the $52,563,115 received for the first quarter of 1929. This will be due to a general reduction of income tax rates made since the previous collection.

The number of returns tabulated yesterday was 16,560, increasing the total thus far to 170,260. The number of returns at the same time a year ago was 170,620.

Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blackidge, collector of internal revenue for the First district, which comprises 30 Illinois counties, was in charge of the work yesterday.

"More than eight truckloads of income tax returns mailed in this area accumulated between midnight Saturday when we quit work and 10 o'clock when we returned to work," she said.

"The many returns show smaller amounts for the most part. Money is tighter this year and jobs are scarcer but every piece of mail in those eight truckloads shows an earnest disposition on the part of the senders to comply with the law."

Mrs. Blackidge said a complete report of returns in the Chicago area should be ready by the end of the week.

Man Injured in Fall Down Flight of Stairs

Milwaukee, Wis., March 16.—[Special.]—Believed to have fallen down a flight of stairs, Michael Wagner, 69, 915 Fratney street, was found in a critical condition on Dousman street between Wright street and Meinecke avenue today. He was taken to the Johnston emergency hospital where examinations revealed a fractured skull and jaw. He had left his home to visit friends, according to a son, Stevens.

TAX RETURNS SLUMP NOT AS ANTICIPATED, N. Y. COLLECTOR SAYS

New York, March 16.—[Special.]—Reduction in rates and general financial conditions did not cause as great a reduction in income tax receipts here as had been anticipated, Frank K. Bowers, collector of internal revenue for the second district, declared today as his staff pushed forward their tabulation of huge stacks of last minute returns.

While final figures were not yet available, he said, enough returns had been examined to show the general trend. Instead of the reduced earnings expected as a result of last fall's market depression, some corporations reported earnings for 1929 higher than those of 1928; and, despite the reduction of corporation taxes from 12 to 11 per cent, their returns were higher.

Reporting unusually high returns were brokerage houses which profited from the record sales preceding the Wall Street depression, and from the large volume of trading.

"The number of returns received in the second district is roughly about the same as last year," Mr. Bowers declared, "but there will probably be found a slight reduction in the amount of cash received."

SUITOR SHOOTS AT WOMAN, BUT HITS STRANGER

Murphysboro, Ill., March 16.—(AP)—Clarence Hatfield of Elkville, Ill., was in St. Andrew's hospital here in a serious condition as the result of bullet wounds allegedly inflicted by Milford "Boots" Shaw, 45, of Elkville, in Holliday's store there last night. Shaw was arrested and brought to the Jackson county jail here.

According to Shaw's story, he became intoxicated last night and decided to kill an Elkville married woman with whom he had been carrying on an affair, and then kill himself. He declared he saw the woman enter the store where Hatfield was making some purchases and drew his pistol and fired. The bullets missed the woman and striking Hatfield below the heart.

Arab Drums Drown Jewish Prayers at Wailing Wall

JERUSALEM, March 16.—(AP)—The Jewish Telegraphic agency reports that Jewish prayers at the wailing wall were interrupted yesterday by Arabs, who beat drums and used other noisy instruments to disturb the worshipers. The Jewish community protested to the government. A clash over the rights of worship at the wailing wall provoked the violent Arab-Jewish disorders of last August.

ARGENTINE RAIL STRIKE BRINGS FOOD SCARCITY

BUENOS AIRES, March 16.—Railway communication throughout the republic is demoralized and food supplies, especially milk in large cities, are scarce as a result of trainmen and enginemen refusing to operate freight and passenger trains on schedule until the British owned systems grant their demands for higher wages. Packing houses have curtailed slaughtering, with a resultant effect on export trade, and factories of food products have notified the government they will be unable to continue operations until the labor controversy is settled.

Through trains are leaving terminals from thirty minutes to three hours late, arriving at their destinations an hour to five hours late. Freight tarins are arriving two or three days late, causing the deaths of hundreds of cattle destined to Buneos Aires packers.

The public on several occasions has worked off its rage, caused by these inconveniences, by burning trains and stations, causing damage estimated at millions of dollars. Employés hope present tactics will arouse public opinion and governmental interest to a point where official measures will be taken toward a solution.

Escaped Convict Sought by Police of Chicago

Tepper's mother and sister live in Chicago and the police believed he might go to their home.

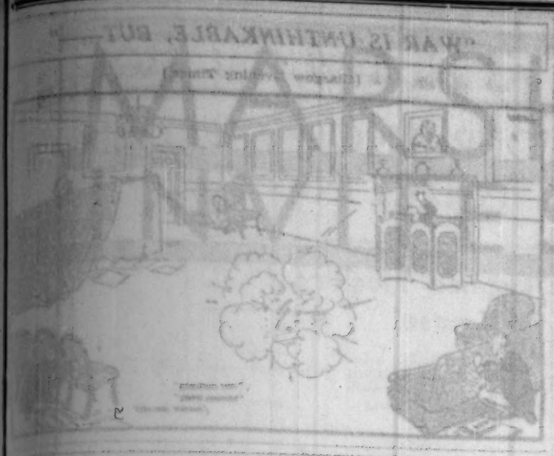
ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE



How long will we put up with it?

Prohibition must go.

Its doom is clearly written in the editorial trend of the most influential publications of the country.

It is doomed surely because its greatest protagonists can no longer close their eyes to its colossal failure.

It has failed because it is a law for the other fellow and a law for the other fellow is a law for nobody.

Where is that Utopia that was to have come with Prohibition?

Our jails are crowded to the point of riot.

Arrests for drunkenness are steadily on the increase.

Deaths from alcoholism have mounted.

Public officials have been corrupted.

Murder has become a commonplace.

Prohibition does not prohibit!

New York has 30,000 speakeasies in the place of 16,000 licensed saloons before Prohibition.

Chicago is at the mercy of the beer-running racketeer.

Bootleg highballs cost a dollar a glass and nobody makes a profit out of that dollar but the bootlegger.

The farmer is worse off because he has lost a great market for his grain.

The tax-payer is worse off because the total estimated annual cost of Prohibition, for enforcement and loss in revenue, is $936,000,000,while the total revenue received by the Federal Treasury from individual income taxes in 1928 was $882,727,114.

That money comes out of your pocketbook and ours.

We paid a lot of it on March 15 and there is another instalment due in June.

How long is this farcical hypocrisy to continue?

Why be irrevocably committed to a futile law when the very tools to change it are in our hands?

Something for the tax-payer to think about

Last year individual tax-payers paid into the Federal Treasury $882,727,114.

The estimated cost of Prohibition enforcement and loss of revenue is $936,000,000.

Two million men who were too busy to vote in 1918 are asking if it isn't about time they had a voice in the matter.

Twenty million men and women who have come into their majority since the Eighteenth Amendment want a chance to speak also.

If the inspired document on which this nation was founded means anything, we are entitled to "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

Life, the magazine, would therefore like to see a return to that mellowness and joy of living which Ambassador Bryce once characterized as "the kindly neighborliness of American life."

That's why Life asks for a return to Temperance.

That's why Life says, "Let's go!"

What about you?

If you agree with these sentiments, let's clean house!

WHILE THERE'S LIFE THERE'S HOPE

nb Advertising is the most powerful weapon that can be used to strip the blindfold from the eyes of the American people and bring about a speedy repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

This advertisement which appeared last week in the New York Times and the New York Herald Tribune brought immediate and enthusiastic response. Already enough voluntary contributions have been received to present this appeal to the more than 957,000 readers of the Chicago Tribune We want you to help in carrying this work further.

Do you realize what a nation-wide advertising campaign similar to this can accomplish? Can you visualize the effect on our legislature if millions of people support this great campaign?

The mighty wave of protest from coast to coast would soon sweep the Augean stables clean and put an end to this hypocrisy.

PROHIBITION'S STRAW MAN.

The prohibition case as presented at Washington reveals the idea that desirable conditions prevail in the country and can be made better, and that the opposition desires to return to the bad conditions prevailing before prohibition. The opposition contends that the conditions under prohibition are worse than undesirable, that they are intolerable and that they must be changed. They are not to be changed to something worse, but to something better.

Raymond Robins and Mr. Stagg, University of Chicago athletic director, to take two of the Chicago debaters for prohibition, compared the best they could find of present day life with the worst they could remember of the old saloon days. That's their straw man. The attempt of the opposition is to get something better than prohibition and consequently there is no attempt to revive the old high pressure salesmanship of intoxicants.

The United States and Finland are not the only civilized nations in the world which have undertaken to control evils arising from the misuse of alcoholic beverages, but they are the only two which retain absolute prohibition as the means of control. Other nations have made the prohibition experiment and have discarded it as unfit and inoperative. Other nations more carefully preparing for regulation avoided prohibition with a prevision of what its consequences would be.

It is not as if prohibition had made good elsewhere than in the United States and was being aborted here by the offenses of a lawless minority. It has not made good anywhere. It is false to say that Canada, with regulation, is in a worse social condition than the United States. The comparison favors Canada. If there are abuses under its control acts, they are as nothing compared with the abuses in the United States under prohibition. Canadian cities are clean and orderly. Life and property are safe. The people are prosperous and well conducted. They are permitted what to Americans would be a luxury, the privilege of feeling that they are adult, intelligent, and temperate. There are probably alcoholic addicts in the dominion. There are more proportionately under prohibition in the United States.

The opposition to prohibition refuses to permit the straw man of the old saloonkeeper to be the subject of discussion. The question is the continuance of present day conditions affecting the control of government, the rights of citizens, the lawlessness in the sale of liquor, and in the enforcement of the law against it. Shall these conditions continue and continue to grow worse?

Liquor is a greater disturber in American life now than it was before prohibition. The United States and Finland are the only two countries with pretensions of civilized government which tolerate it.

MR. MACDONALD HELPS US OUT.

London reports that Mr. MacDonald was the statesman who prevented the acceptance by the United States of the French proposal for a security pact. Mr. Stimson, we gather from this report, learned of the advice of Washington and Jefferson from the British prime minister, a well read man who knew that there was an early tradition of American statesmanship, when it was such, against entangling alliances. The American secretary of state, thus inspired and supported, handed the French foreign minister his hat, informed, as he was, that the American republic has had a policy of not committing the country to future wars for the protection of any country not in the western hemisphere. It is indeed true that traveling is broadening. It is also sometimes softening, but in this case there was something gained and nothing lost.

Mr. MacDonald's prudence had its own background. There have been several vivid pictures preserved of that British cabinet meeting in 1914 at which Foreign Minister Grey, replying to questions from his anxious associates, said that he feared there could be no doubt of the commitment of Great Britain to France. The thunderbolt had hit in the room. Previous conversations had made France's war Great Britain's, whether at the time Grey knew where they were leading or not.

To Briand an understanding such as France wants is only a reasonable application of the Kellogg treaty or, more probably, the only reason the Kellogg treaty ever should have been signed. Nations will keep agreements to go to war to aid each other if they have promised to do so, but they have not proved that they will honor a pledge not to go to war at all. Grey, informing the British cabinet of British obligations, was revealing the sacredness of a war promise, and China and Russia a short time back were proving the unreliability of a pledge not to make war.

Therefore Briand requires an old fashioned understanding for the making of war as a validation of a pledge not to make war at all. The Kellogg treaty is almost completely lost under its own hat.

ETHICS OF POLITICAL ADVERTISING.

Advertising is not only a very effective but entirely proper method of bringing a political candidacy to public attention, putting a candidate's claims before the voters, presenting the issues he would raise, announcing his intentions if elected. But political advertising should never be solicited. When a newspaper solicits a candidate for advertising it is impossible to avoid the implication or suggestion of coercion. Politics is not business. It is the duty of newspapers to discuss politics, candidates, issues, to criticize, support and oppose. A candidate approached by a newspaper for advertising inevitably suspects that some advantage or disadvantage, apart from mere publicity, depends upon his decision. He will fear that if he does not advertise he may be inviting if not insuring unfriendly comment or publicity, or he may hope that if he does advertise he will purchase not only publicity but support. Unjust as these fears or hopes may be to the conscientious newspaper, which sells its advertising space for what it is worth on the basis of publicity, no more and no less, they are in some degree unavoidable if the newspaper has taken the initiative and solicited the candidate.

Furthermore, political advertising should be sold at the same rate as commercial. A higher rate partakes of blackmail. It necessarily implies that the placing of political advertising involves something more than advertising space. It is a confession that it involves precisely those considerations of fear or favor to which we have referred and of which the tranraction should be kept as free as is humanly possible.

Both these rules—namely: that political advertising should not be solicited, and that it should be sold at the commercial rate—are or should be dictated by newspaper ethics. Reputable newspapers will recognize and respect them.

MORE BUREAUCRACY.

The latest plan to increase the federal bureaucracy and extend the regulation of American conditions from Washington is the Jones-Cooper act. It appropriates four and a half million dollars to be spent in three years in such states as are willing to appropriate sums equal to the federal contribution for infant welfare work on lines approved by the federal authority. The Chicago Medical society asks physicians throughout the country to protest against this legislation as "paternalistic, un-American, impolitic, and wholly useless."

THE TRIBUNE hopes this appeal will arouse not merely the doctors but the general public. The measure is typical of the plausible humanitarian proposals which have steadily piled up the expenditures of the national government, increased federal jobs, spread the activities of the central government throughout the private activities of the people, invaded the sphere of state and local judgment, responsibility, and power. Federal aid, cash from the federal funds, is offered as a lure to the destruction of the American system of local responsibility and private initiative.

The medical society's protest asserts that the states, like Illinois, which have refused this temptation as offered by the Sheppard-Towner law now in the statutes have maintained as high or higher standards than states that succumbed to it. But even if that were not demonstrable, the evils inherent in centralization and federal bureaucracy outweigh any benefits which are derivable by backward communities from federal aid. In the end the raising of social standards will be more economically and efficiently accomplished through the preservation of the American system of local responsibility, through the agencies of enlightened private initiative and good citizenship, through the states as social communities, and without piling upon the shoulders of the central government an ever increasing burden of social responsibility, creating an ever increasing bureaucratic machinery, and bestowing upon that official octopus an ever widening authority for regulation of American life.

This tendency to aggrandize and at the same time overload the central government has already swept us far away from the wise plan of the founders of the American republic. Resistance to it, effort to regain what we have lost, are perhaps the most urgent duties of citizenship at this time. The Jones-Cooper bill should be defeated.

Editorial of the Day

STORIES THAT LEAVE US CURIOUS.

[Decatur, Ill., Herald.]

A good deal of what one reads in the news these days makes him curious to know the sequel of the story. There is ex-Boatswain Walter S. Casey's account of his experience as a coast guardsman in the Detroit river, for instance.

Casey had a merry time chasing rum runners in a patrol boat. Several times his life was threatened. When threats failed to work, the rum runners resorted to subtler means of calling Casey off. They would send expensive cigars aboard his boat. He was offered a costly automobile. A dress mysteriously paid for was delivered to his wife and sent back. Casey continued to make himself unpleasant to rum runners, but he appeared to be unable to please his commanding officer, Martin V. Rasmussen of Buffalo. This at least is Casey's story, which appears in the magazine Plain Talk.

Casey, having sent his boat back to the base for supplies, was patrolling the shore in an automobile when he came upon three rum runners that had just landed. One of them shot him in the arm. A few minutes later Casey learned that a picket boat which he had ordered out had knocked off a load of liquor about the time the shooting had taken place.

Casey was summoned before his superior, received an abusive reprimand from Commander Rasmussen on the ground that he had been off his patrol area, although Casey was on his own area when he had been wounded in line of duty.

Ordered back to Buffalo, Casey was packing his gear when George Cordell, one of the biggest bootleggers in Detroit, came to see him.

"You are the squarest guy that the government ever put on this river," said Cordell. "But you raised so much hell that we had to get rid of you. It cost us five grand [$5,000] to get you out, but you're gone."

What's the sequel? The story stops at the wrong point. But any reader has the privilege of addressing the treasury department in Washington and asking if the coast guard service has made any statement in reply to ex-Boatswain Casey's charge that he was transferred at the insistence of bootleggers, and if Commander Martin Rasmussen is still in charge of the Detroit area.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. RRA

AND, BESIDES, CANADA, HOW DO YOU GET THAT WAY?

That is, in thinking that our guaranteed Canadian rye, aged in the wood and bottled in bond, comes from Canada. They say up in Canada they must cut off our Canadian whisky or there'll be war between these United States and that there now Dominion of Canada. Tut, tut! We used to think our Canadian whisky came from Canada, too. And then we found out that most of the good old ten year Canadian rye we got came from a cellar near the corner of Bruce and Spruce, on the west side. Or it may be on the south side or the north side, and quite probably on all sides. And it's ten years old if it was made day before yesterday.

And the warehouse labels and the Canadian government stamp and the pretty lithograph on the front of the bottle telling what kind of Canadian rye whisky it is. Well, they're all made right here. And the bottles and the cork and the good will and the cobwebs that is thrown in with the twenty year old kind of Canadian whisky—they're all made right here in Chicago, too, and while you wait.

Why, we can make just as good Canadian whisky in this country in two hours as they can make up in Canada in ten years. Our boys are pretty smart that way. And better stuff. Oh, yes, indeed. Why, up in Canada they pour out their Canadian rye and hold it up in a glass and look at the color and the bead and the body of the stuff, and then take a drink of it and smack their lips a few times and say, "Yes, that's good old Canadian whisky all right." Down here we pour out our home made good old Canadian rye and sling a cast steel monkey wrench in it, and if the monkey wrench is dissolved in two minutes we know it's good old Canadian rye.

Yessir, Canada, forbid all or any of your Canadian whisky going out of your country and into the United States, and see if we care! And all the silky cookers down on this side of the boundary use that belongs to you is the word "Canadian." And they can steal that and make all the rest.

(Weak in his saint-lore but loyal to thee),
One wish befitting this day of your festival
Irish in principle, as such wish should be?

Do a supernal and cosmic telegraphy,
Send out a thought-wave to guys I shall name,
Tell 'em I'm mindful of them this St. Patrick's Day
And that I hope of myself they're the same.

Ask Eddy Clancy (him sergeant with me a year)
What of that friendship we vowed we should keep?
Tell Johnny Armstrong and Top-kick Tom Garrity
Letters and postal-cards always were cheap.

Him that we left where the Bois-le-Pretre lay
Somber as we—say to Jack we remember him . . .

AND THEN AGAIN Canada doesn't want a war with the U. S., because it would rather be invaded by an army of thirsty tourists from the United States than an army with banners and guns. For the army of tourists is much bigger than the other army could possibly be, and tourists have lots more money than soldiers and spend it much more freely. And the tourists don't have to be back in camp at taps every night and there's no officer to holler, "Hey! Yuh can't stand there, soldier!"

ON ST. PATRICK'S DAY IN TH' MORNIN'.

"Get green cigarettes," commanded we. "But," butted Pat O'Reilly, "there are no such animals." "Then," thenned we, "get green tobacco!" "There are no green tobacco," said P. O'Reilly. "And anyhow if we gave 'em green tobacco to smoke it would strangle 'em." "Well, darn it, do something that's got green in it," said we, determined to be obeyed. "All right," said Mr. O'Reilly, "I'll buy the cigarettes myself and take 'em out in my green automobile and I'll wear a shamrock and my new green necktie." Which seems fair enough. The conversation was all because that nicest of nice persons, E. McC., sent us fifty dollars to do something for the war veterans in the hospital on St. Patrick's Day in the Mornin'—that's today. So this morning E. McC.'s little St. Patrick's day presents will be traveling all around to the sick veterans at the Edward Hines Jr. Memorial hospital. Which is a rather nice way of observing St. Patrick's birthday.

Our very nice tax man told us funny stories and gosh! we laughed right out loud while filling out the check to the government. Which is really quite wonderful when you come to think of it.

It was discovered during the Naval Parley in London, and you can't see it with the naked eye, and it doesn't do anything, and it isn't going to do anything, and it gives us a pain in the neck. Yessir, let's call the new star "Naval Parley"!

"DANGERS IN DUST."

THE trend of thinking is away from the opinion that smoke in the air is a direct cause of disease. It does produce cloud and fog; it does filter sunlight rays which the body needs in protecting itself. Thus indirectly it causes pneumonia and consumption, but, so far as direct action of inhaled smoke and soot on the lungs goes, these sources of air pollution get a fairly good certificate of character.

Not so with dust in the air. The trend of opinion grows stronger against it all the time. However, there are some kinds of dust that escape indictment. Organic dust, such as that from flour, is not especially harmful if the possibility of eczema and asthma is overlooked. Stone dusts are not very harmful if they contain a considerable percentage of lime. The very harmful dusts are those which run very high in silicon. There is some evidence that the kind of rock and the binder may be factors. Dust from certain rocks does not seem to be especially harmful even though they are high in silicon; the binder is a factor. Dust containing considerable clay is not so harmful as that which contains less of this binder. The size of the dust particles and their sharpness are other factors. For these several reasons it is never safe to condemn even a silicon or sand dust without investigation. One should judge partly by the prevalence of consumption among those who work in it and who, having worked, quit because of it. One should judge, also, by X-rays taken of the lungs of those who work in this dust. And finally, the amount of dust and its physical and chemical constitution must be taken into consideration.

There is practically no escape from indictment for three industries: granite cutting and polishing, sand blasting, and mining sand and sandstone.

In the case of sand blasting, Lehman recommends the following methods:

Use of steel shot instead of quartz sand wherever possible.

Use of the best make of helmets.

Substitution of the hose and nozzle method, in which the blasting is done in a closed place while the operator works from the outside. This is better than open blasting.

Use of special appliances to reduce dustiness.

Men employed in sand blasting should be periodically examined for tuberculosis. Their chests should be periodically examined by X-rays for silicosis.

All men who work at this trade should be specially registered for examination for tuberculosis, and this period of observation should be continued for at least five years after they have left the sand blasting trade. The South African Miners' phthisis bureau requires that every miner working in a dusty mine be examined clinically and by X-rays before being set to work and at six months intervals thereafter.

BABY'S EAR FOLDS DOWN.

S. K. writes: My baby's ears extend away from the head. He is 9 months old and has a tendency to sleep on a side with his ear folding down, no matter how many times I bend it back. I have used an ear conformer with little or no results.

REPLY.

The ears should be held against the head by means of a knitted cap. If this fails operation may be considered. Postpone operation until the child is old enough to cooperate.

EYES AND BLOOD PRESSURE.

N. C. writes: In what way are the eyes affected in high blood pressure?

REPLY.

Inflammation of the retina is one of the most important effects of high blood pressure and one of the most serious of the eye diseases. Whenever the blood pressure is high the blood vessels of the retina should be periodically examined. Hemorrhage of the retina, detachment of the retina, and glaucoma are other eye troubles that may accompany increased blood vessel tension.

CURE IS POSSIBLE.

Daily Reader writes: 1. Is there any difference between tuberculosis and consumption?

2. Can tuberculosis in the third stage be cured?

REPLY.

1. They are essentially the same. Infection with tubercle bacillus anywhere is called tuberculosis. Infection which causes a certain type of lung disease is called consumption.

2. Yes. However, the more advanced the disease the more difficult to cure.

MAY BE PLEURISY.

J. E. J. writes: Recently during a hard all day rain I went on a covered porch and took some deep breathing exercises. Since then I have been in such distress from a pain in my chest that I am unable to work.

REPLY.

It is possible you have an acute attack of pleurisy. Let your physician decide. However, it is probable you have rheumatism of the muscles of your chest, something akin to lumbago. Most chest pains of the nature you describe are rheumatic, and deep breathing may set them going.

MAKING A WILL.

Chicago, March 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Would a will made by a kleptomaniac in Illinois or California be valid? A. K.

The facts stated would not be enough to invalidate the will.

We strongly advise you to employ an attorney in the drafting and execution of so important a document.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

GARAGE OFFENDS.

Chicago, March 9. — [Friend of the People.] — There is a sign marked "Private Property" in the alley alongside of my house. Here a garage has been built from which a car cannot leave or enter without bumping into my fence and crossing over the sidewalk. As it is right under my windows, the gas from the autos enters my living rooms. Can anything be done to stop this? D. J. M.

Report is made that notice has been served on offender to desist from driving over curb and sidewalk, and to secure necessary permit for construction of a driveway if it is desired to use private alley.

JOSEPH J. BUTLER,
Deputy Superintendent of Streets.

RIGHTS IN SAVINGS ACCOUNT.

Chicago, March 15.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—During the four years of our marriage my husband and I have had a joint savings account. The amount represented my savings from his salary. Recently he has taken the bank book and refuses to let me have it. I have never drawn any money from it. 1. What are my rights in this matter? 2. How can I keep him from appropriating this money for himself? T. P.

1. Depends on the nature of the account. We suggest that you talk the matter over with the officials of the bank.

2. It may be that you are in a position to draw out the account and deposit it in such a way as to protect you. See 1.

MARCH 17, 1865.

WASHINGTON.—Gen. Grant in a dispatch from City Point says that he has just received a letter from Gen. Sherman at Fayetteville, dated March 12, in which the general describes his army as in fine health and spirits. The message continues: "Sherman says nothing about Kilpatrick's defeat by Hampton, but the officer who brought the letter says that on the 10th Hampton got two brigades in the rear of Kilpatrick's headquarters and surprised and captured all the staff except two officers. Kilpatrick escaped, formed his men and drove the enemy back with great loss, recapturing all that he had lost. Hampton left 86 dead on the field."

NEWBERN, N. C. — Officers just from the front state that an order was read to the troops on March 11 from Maj. Gen. Cox stating that they would be joined by Sherman's army within three days. It created great excitement. A rebel surgeon who came in and took the oath of allegiance reported that Gen. Sherman was at Troy, N. C., a few days since. Gen. Schofield left for the front today, having received a communication from Gen. Sherman via Wilmington. A report reached here that Sherman is now at Goldsboro and that the rebels are marching back to Kinston to prevent our forces crossing the Neuse river at that point.

CHICAGO.—Miss Angie A. Holmes of Chicago and Col. Theodore G. Ellis, 14th Connecticut volunteers, were married on Feb. 27 at Washington, D. C. William H. Owens of Chicago and Miss Mary S. Dickey of Buffalo, N. Y., were married in Chicago on March 16 by the Rev. C. E. Cheney, rector of Christ's church. In Summers, Kenosha county, Wis., D. J. Dewey of New York and Mary A. Talcott of the former place were married by the Rev. Mr. Gridley of Kenosha on March 14.

ST. JOSEPH, Mich.—The passenger steamer City of Louisville of the Graham and Morton line is frozen in an ice pack five miles off shore. The pack is drifting before a gale and headed for the beach. On board are twenty-two passengers from Chicago, including at least three women, and the crew.

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Mason Trowbridge of Chicago has been chosen a member of the Yale debating team which will meet Harvard here on March 20.

LONDON.—The Boer resistance in the southern part of the Orange Free State, if British reports are confirmed, is completely collapsing. Lord Roberts claims now to have control of the railways from Cape Town to Bloemfontein. The report that President Kruger has annexed the Orange Free State to the Transvaal is treated with derision by the London press.

LONDON.—Julian Ralph sends to the Daily Mail an interview with Cecil Rhodes that is liable to make the prospective visit of the empire builder to London less pleasant than he anticipates. Ralph quotes him as criticizing British generalship in the war and declaring that English victories were due largely to luck.

CHICAGO. — John Evans, 12 year old son of Capt. Michael P. Evans of the police bureau of identification, was accidentally shot and instantly killed during a struggle for possession of a revolver with his 14 year old brother, Emmet, at the Evans home, 3545 Princeton avenue.

CHICAGO. — Col. and Mrs. R. S. Thompson anounce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mary Thompson, to G. Kenneth Sage.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 17, 1920.

LONDON.—Between 400 and 500 persons were killed and many wounded in a bombardment of Kiel by the German cruiser Eckernfoerde, a Copenhagen dispatch says, quoting a Kiel correspondent. The cruiser is said to have directed its fire especially against the quarters of workmen who are opposed to the Kapp government. Casualties reported during the fourth day of the German revolution, not including hundreds of wounded and injured, follow: Kiel, 606; Berlin, 66; Charlottenburg, 4; Dresden, 59; Hamburg, 30; Liepzig, 20, and Stieglitz, 15.

LONDON.—Chancellor Kapp, head of the government at Berlin, has resigned in favor of President Ebert, the Berlin correspondent of the London Times says. Maximilian Harden, editor of Die Zukunft, was arrested.

CHICAGO.—John H. Gillette, 63 years old, chief justice of the Indiana Supreme court from 1900 to 1908, and for twelve years judge of the Circuit court of Lake county, Ind., hanged himself at the home of his son, Attorney Gerald Gillette, at Hammond. He had been despondent since the death of his wife a year ago.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The senate confirmed the nomination of Charles R. Crane to be minister to China.

WASTE IN THE SCHOOLS.

Chicago, March 14.—Mr. Oscar Hewitt should be congratulated on the publicity he is giving certain conditions in our schools. The statement that the board of education has made no appreciable economies in school maintenance is very true and has justly been called to the attention of the Strawn committee in the editorial of March 13. The increased cost of maintenance shows how easy it is to build up a political machine in the schools, when the school board is controlled by the city administration. The retention of Mr. Singleton, whose work was shown to have no real value, is just one instance. The transfer and demotion of Mr. Byrnes certainly needs an explanation. There are other instances and conditions that need publicity. Mr. Hewitt's articles are constructive because he brings out the fact that ways of correcting present conditions have been recommended. Let us hope we will have more of this kind of information. JENNIE L. TYLER,
Chairman, Public Schools Committee, Woman's City Club.

AMATEUR WRESTLING.

Chicago, March 13.—I regret that the Amateur Athletic union has placed itself on record as favoring an alliance with professional promoters of a sport which, in its professional aspect, has a reputation none too savory. I refer to the wrestling tournament being sponsored by "Doc" Krone and "Joe" Coffey.

I have been connected with amateur wrestling as a competitor and instructor for twenty-five years, and deplore the entry into the field of clean amateur sport of men whose only consideration is the financial return, despite their denial of ulterior motive. Their object [as well as their estimation of amateur athletes] is attested by the attributed remark, "Why pay good money to a coupla big bums when these dumb punks will wrastle their heads off for a tin medal?"

I hope Mr. Avery Brundage will consider well before he permits this type of sponsorship to be accepted again.

A PHYSICAL DIRECTOR.

NEAR WEST RELIEF.

Cleveland, O., March 10.—I saw a letter some time ago from a Vox Popper condemning the Near East relief and advocating some near west relief for our own western Indians. I say Amen to that with a capital A. I just received a letter from an Indian friend of mine asking for some old clothes and stating that conditions there were very bad.

After robbing the Indian of his lands and his very living, the least we can do is to take care of him now in preference to foreigners who do not appreciate it and who have done nothing to deserve our help. I have been through the west and have lived among the Indians, and the wonder to me is that the Indian gave up at all—that he didn't fight to the death; but starving people can't fight, and after the buffalo was exterminated the Indian was just naturally starved into submission and has been starved ever since.

He was more appreciative of the beauties of nature than we ever will be and did not know the meaning of lying and cheating until taught by the civilized (?) whites. En route to California, some time ago, I met an elderly man who had crossed the plains to Elko, Nev., with an ox team. They were visited many times by Indians in their camp and fed them, gave them tobacco and treated them decently. He stated that they had no trouble whatever, that the Indians guided them and were very friendly. In his opinion there was some provocation for the massacres that occurred and that many of them were committed by [illegible] gade whites disguised as Indians.

If some power invaded our [illegible] now wouldn't we put up a sweet [illegible] for our homes. That's all the [illegible] did, so why hate him for that?

CRIMINAL-MINDED.

Chicago, March 11.—Some time ago I was riding on a Milwaukee avenue [illegible] when two men were discussing [illegible] cent acquittal of a gangster who [illegible] tried on a murder charge. The evidence sustained the charge and they had the prisoner's confession, which he said was forced from him by "third degree" methods. The judge scored the [illegible] for bringing in a verdict of acquittal.

One man said: "What I cannot understand is why such things happen." "The only explanation that I can see," the other man replied, "is that a majority of people in this burg are either criminals or have criminal instincts."

When I read that only 10,000 people attended the funeral services of [illegible] ex-President Taft, and that the crowd that attended the funeral of the gangster who was buried recently was variously estimated at from 15,000 to 25,000, it causes me to wonder how much of truth there may be in the statement. J. J.

THE CASE OF THE DRYS.

Evanston, Ill., March 12.—Now that you print an editorial, "The Case of the Drys" and again your supreme self-satisfaction spouts out some more [illegible] betlittle the cause of the drys when the [illegible] of our greatest Americans, Henry Ford and Thomas Edison, heartily indorse prohibition when the hearings on prohibition legislation were in progress, I can understand your ignoring Ford but not Edison. Yet you call a number of wet congressmen and lawyers representatives of a thoughtful citizenry.

GEORGES RE.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL ISSUE.

Santa Monica, Cal., March 11.—In reviewing the decisions of the Supreme court in reference to the issues involved in the eighteenth amendment to the constitution and the Volstead act I have found that the prohibition amendment and the enforcement code have been upheld in 53 opinions handed down by the Supreme court. Of these decisions 42 of them have been unanimous. One justice dissented in three cases, in five, and three in two, and in one case four justices disagreed with the majority. FREDERICK W. HAYS.

SCIENCE IN THE HEADLINES.

Chicago, March 14.—I am glad to see there is a newspaper in this great city that gives the headline to a scientific achievement. Digressing, enough everything gets into the headlines, particularly airplane accidents. These latter headlines strike the average person and he retains them in his memory, vowing he will never use the airplane for personal transportation. In my personal opinion it is a detriment to the country because aviation should be fostered and patronized by the common people. This country should be first in the air. I am for more headlines of pressing scientific achievements upon the average person. W. ALLAN LOVE.

DANGEROUS PAVEMENT.

Chicago, March 11.—Michigan avenue between 95th and 99th streets was paved by the city almost three years ago. The surface lines as yet have not paved their portion of the street. At present the section between the car tracks is in terrible condition and the ruts so spread that some day there will be a serious accident. The city should compel the surface lines to repave the street and lay new rails before the cars start jumping the tracks. It would also do a little toward relieving the unemployment situation.

DAVIS TOSSES HAT IN RING TO DEFEAT GRUNDY

Indicate Three Way Fight in Pennsylvania.

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 16.—(AP)—Secretary of Labor James J. Davis today announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination as United States senator from Pennsylvania.

The secretary will bid for the nomination at the primaries May 20, in opposition to Joseph R. Grundy, appointed senator from Pennsylvania by Gov. John S. Fisher on the senate's refusal to seat William S. Vare.

Davis will enter the race aligned with Francis Shunk Brown of Philadelphia, former state attorney general, who has the indorsement of Vare and the backing of the Philadelphia Republican organization. Grundy, long a power in Pennsylvania Republican politics, will, if he enters the race as is expected, be supported by the Mellon-Fisher combination in the state.

Formal entry of the Brown-Davis ticket into the political field indicated a three-way fight for control of Pennsylvania Republican politics at the coming primary.

"FISHER" GETS CAUGHT AFTER HOOKING PANTS

New York, March 16.—(AP)—Tonight a Queens patrolman said he saw George Moore, 29, a Negro, fishing and arrested him.

According to the patrolman, this is how Moore fished:

He stuck a ten foot pole with a hook on it through the open window of a house. He withdrew the pole and on it hung the master's trousers. Then he rifled the trousers and returned them on the end of the pole.

KLAN IN NATION WIDE CASH DRIVE TO ELECT HEFLIN

Birmingham, Ala., March 16.—[Special.]—The newest political organization in Alabama is the "Tom Heflin National Legion," which has been formed here by W. Earl Hotalen, Ku Klux official, and self-styled secretary of the "legion," to raise and expend funds for the reelection of Alabama's senior senator, who has been ousted from the Democratic party because he bolted Smith.

Announcement of the organization of the Heflin legion was made today in a statement signed by Hotalen.

The statement follows the usual lines of Senator Heflin in his repeated attacks on "the Roman Catholic political hierarchy," and blames that influence for barring him from the Alabama primaries. It presents the Alabama senator as the "giant of militant Americanism" and states: "Nearly every true Protestant patriot in America desires a victory for Senator Heflin and wishes to contribute to that victory."

Then follows the purpose of the new organization:

"The Tom Heflin National legion is organized to provide a medium through which Senator Heflin's friends and supporters throughout the length and breadth of America may contribute to the success of his campaign for reelection."

Eight Injured, One May Die in Cleveland Explosion

Cleveland, O., March 16.—(AP)—A lighted match in the hands of a man seeking lodging in the basement of a vacant apartment building on the east side tonight caused a gas explosion that leveled the building, tore a large hole in a milk plant next door, shattered window glass for a half mile around, and caused injury to eight persons. The man, Jack Maloney, 55, Negro, may die. Three other men, passers-by, whose names were not taken by police, were cut by flying glass.

DOWNSTATE AND CHICAGO TO HEAR SENATE RIVALS

While Senator Deneen is continuing his downstate primary campaign this week his chief opponent for the Republican nomination, Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, will carry on her battle for votes in Chicago.

Today Senator Deneen will appear in Lincoln, Clinton, Monticello, Tuscola, Mattoon, Paris, and Danville.

Mrs. McCormick, a member of congress at large, will campaign on the northwest side today. She has an afternoon meeting listed at which she will address the Ladies' club of the People's church, of which Dr. Preston Bradley is pastor. At 7:30 p. m. she makes a 15 minute speech over the radio, after which she will go to the Portage Park school auditorium for a large meeting sponsored by the Voters' Progressive club and the Ruth Hanna McCormick Volunteers' organizations of the 38th, 39th, 40th and 41st wards.

HARVARD STINGY TO SCRUBWOMEN, SAY 51 ALUMNI

New York, March 16.—(AP)—Officials of Harvard university are asked by fifty-one Harvard alumni in a letter made public today to pay $280 as back wages to each of twenty Harvard scrubwomen who were dismissed last fall after the Massachusetts minimum wage commission complained that the university was paying them less than the minimum wage of 37 cents an hour required by state law.

The letter said the university was under a moral obligation to give the women $280 each, and charged that its attitude throughout this affair has been "harsh, stingy, socially insensitive and considerably short of the highest ethical standing of the times."

Among the signers were: Samuel A. Eliot, grandson of the late President-Emeritus Charles W. Eliot; Lloyd Garrison, New York attorney; John H. Gray of the United States department of labor at Washington, and Robert Morss Lovett, University of Chicago.

SIMMONS, FOE OF NEGRO VOTER, FACES DEFEAT

Senator Being Knifed for Bolting Al Smith.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 16.—[Special.]—Party irregularity, an unforgivable sin among southern Democrats, is threatening the political downfall of Senator Furnifold McLendel Simmons, for more than 30 years the undisputed boss of his party in North Carolina.

The man who arose to power by making the Democratic party supreme in his state by reason of the disfranchisement of the Negroes, is in serious danger of defeat for renomination because of his refusal to support the presidential nominee of that party in 1928.

Apparently forgetful of how he showed the way in 1898 to the nullification of the 14th and 15th amendments, thereby enabling the Democrats to drive the Republicans out of state and local offices, members of the "Young Democrats of North Carolina" at a Jackson day dinner last night at Raleigh are reported to have hissed the mention of Senator Simmons' name.

Bailey Leads Attack.

Jouett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic national executive committee, was a speaker at the dinner although taking no hand in the fight which is being made by Josiah W. Bailey, a Raleigh attorney, against Senator Simmons for the Democratic senatorial nomination in the primaries on June 7.

Now 76, the oldest member of the senate in point of continuous service, and a victor in many political battles, Senator Simmons' friends point to his leadership in the famous "white supremacy" campaign in 1898 in North Carolina as one of his greatest achievements. It furnished the cornerstone of his political strength which was so great as to enable him to swing his state into the Republican column for Hoover in 1928 for the first time in the 30 years since he established the Democrats in control.

His right to continue as the Democratic boss is challenged now by his own former friends, to whom he taught the slogan, "Stand by your party."

How He Won His Place.

When Senator Simmons, then a private citizen, led his "white supremacy" campaign in 1898, North Carolina had a Republican fusion governor, Daniel L. Russell, two fusion United States senators, Marion Butler, a Populist, and J. C. Pritchard, a Republican, several Republican representatives in congress, including one Negro, George H. White, and numerous Republican local officers.

Negroes to the number of about 70,000 were voting regularly with the white Republicans and Populists. Mr. Simmons, some years previously, had served in the house of representatives but had been defeated for reëlection by Henry P. Cheatham, a Negro. A further grievance against the race was the fact that a Negro had murdered his father.

Democratic leaders of North Carolina, at a meeting in Raleigh in 1898, decided to make a determined effort to control the state. After several prominent citizens had refused the offer of the chairmanship of the Democratic state committee and leadership in the campaign, Mr. Simmons accepted it. He made the "red shirt" the symbol of his "white supremacy" movement. Rallies and parades were held throughout the state at which the red shirts were conspicuous.

"Grandfather Clause" a Result.

The immediate result of the successful "white supremacy" campaign was to write into the North Carolina constitution a "grandfather clause" under which only those persons whose grandfathers had voted prior to 1861 were permitted to vote. The "grandfather clause" was to remain effective for eight years following which a literacy test took its place and remains in the constitution to this day. These two devices drove the Negro out of participation in politics in North Carolina.

The sentiment against the voting of Negroes aroused under the Simmons leadership even caused the Republicans in the state to banish them from their conventions and to begin the building up of a white party which has become so strong as finally to become a menace to the Democrats.

Mr. Simmons followed up his successful disfranchisement of the Negro by winning election to the United States senate. He took his seat on March 4, 1901, succeeding Senator Butler, and has been reëlected four times.

While Senator Simmons frequently has been accused of trading with the Republicans, particularly in such matters as tariff legislation, he remained consistently regular on election day until 1928 when he publicly announced his unwillingness to support Alfred E. Smith for President because of the latter's views on prohibition.

Governor Is Neutral.

Advices from North Carolina are to the effect that the defeat of Senator Simmons is being predicted by many who were formerly in the Simmons camp. Gov. O. M. Gardner, who was elected as a Democrat at the same time that Hoover carried the state, is remaining neutral.

Mr. Bailey, the leading opponent of Senator Simmons was an unsuccessful candidate for the gubernatorial nomination in 1924. He is a graduate of a Baptist college and was an editor of a publication of the Baptist church before entering the practice of law.

STRUCK BY FALLING BEAM; DIES.

John Stanley, 40 years old, 547 West Madison street, a laborer, died yesterday of injuries received last Monday when he was struck by a beam which fell eight stories from a building at Kingsbury street and Austin avenue.

F. B. MILLS, 88, KILLED IN FALL FROM WINDOW

Franklin B. Mills, 88 years old, civil war veteran and former editor of several Illinois newspapers, was instantly killed yesterday morning when he fell from a window on the second floor of his home at 1532 North Karlov avenue. He was found dead in the back yard.

A son, Raymond Mills, said that his father had apparently opened the window of his bedroom and fallen, plunging 25 feet to his death. The son said there was no reason why his father should have committed suicide. An inquest will be held today.

Mr. Mills was a former resident of Atlanta, Ill., and enlisted there in the 117th Illinois regiment, serving during the civil war. He was later owner and editor of newspapers at Lincoln, Washington and Salem, remaining active as a publisher until about 10 years ago.

ASK WAR PLEDGE STRICKEN FROM NEW CITIZENSHIP

Pacifists Back Change of Naturalization Oath.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 16.—[Special.]—A score of prominent pacifists and representatives of pacifist groups have asked to be heard in support of the Griffin bill pending before the house immigration committee, to relieve an alien seeking naturalization papers from taking an oath to bear arms in defense of the United States, it was learned today.

The measure was quietly introduced in the house several weeks ago by Representative A. J. Griffin [Dem., N. Y.] following the nation-wide publicity given to the case of Douglass Clyde MacIntosh, Yale professor, who has been excluded from citizenship because he refused to take the military oath. It would amend the naturalization laws in that regard.

Although no open discussion on the bill has yet developed, it is known to have stirred up an undercurrent of dissension in the immigration committee, to which it was referred. In a closed session last week opponents of the bill succeeded in having consideration postponed "indefinitely," but Representative Griffin, its sponsor, is pressing for and believes he will obtain a hearing.

There have been several court tests of the present law in which it has been upheld, the most noteworthy that in the cases of Rosika Schwimmer and Martha Jane Graber. In the Schwimmer case the United States Supreme court reversed the decree of the Circuit Court of Appeals and denied the application for citizenship. Justices Holmes and Sanford dissented.

200 IN POSSE TRAIL ROBBER WHO SLEW MICHIGAN OFFICER

Beulah, Mich., March 16.—[Special.] Under Sheriff Ed Rarey of Benzie county lies in the morgue at Beulah while a posse of more than 200 men is searching the swamps in the vicinity of Platte lake for the killer who shot him when a party of seven officers interrupted a cottage robbery at 1 o'clock this morning.

Morris Brozofsky, 36 years old, who served seven years in Marquette for burglary as Theodore Allen and was paroled 14 months ago to Sheriff Fred Johnson of Traverse City, is being sought as the murderer.

Rarey, 58 years old, confronted the killer on the front porch of a cottage owned by Mrs. Mary Phienfelt of Chicago. The officer had a blackjack in his hand but walked up to the thief without reaching for the pistol in his pocket. He was within three feet of his man when the shot was fired.

Clothes Burned from Body, But Organist Is Unhurt

Salem, Mass., March 16.—(AP)—Kenneth W. Moffett of Cambridge, organist of the Second Church of Salem, escaped unscathed today when electricity from a fallen wire burned the clothes from his body.

Policemen watching the wire shouted warnings but Moffett must have had his mind on his hymns. He became entangled in the wire just as he stepped on a car track. There was a blinding flash and Moffett was left in a somewhat embarrassing situation.

ZION CHOIR CARS THRICE ATTACKED ON CONCERT TRIP

Delavan, Wis., March 16.—[Special.]—A motorcade of 100 cars bearing 300 followers of Wilbur Glenn Voliva from Zion, Ill., was harassed near here this morning as they drove to Janesville to give a concert, and again this evening when homeward bound.

As the Zionists neared Delavan shortly before noon a blue coupe whizzed by and its driver flung three pecks of roofing nails to the paved road. With tire punctures on three cars, the motorcade halted until four deputy sheriffs arrived from Elkhorn to escort the choir to Janesville.

No incident marred the concert in Janesville High school, and the singers ventured homeward without an escort. At the scene of the earlier attack the same blue coupe passed, this time more slowly, and an occupant of the car hurled railroad spikes through two windshields and a pair of pliers through a third, showering glass which lacerated Mrs. Carl Miller and two children of A. J. Gellinger.

Sheriff James Mason at Elkhorn suspects the motorist was probably some one who had fallen a victim to the speed trap formerly maintained at Zion.

Critically Injured as He Tries Out New Motorcycle

Joseph Zilka, 25 years old, 23 South Vernon street, Brookfield, was seriously injured yesterday while trying out a motorcycle he had purchased Saturday. Traveling south on route 4A he attempted to turn into 47th street, lost control of the machine and collided with a concrete post. Lyons police removed him to the Oak Park hospital where it was said he was suffering a skull fracture, a broken jaw and internal injuries.

ROB OWNER OF CLOTHING STORE.
Louis Pinchuk, proprietor of a clothing store at 1230 West Madison street, was held up in the store yesterday morning by two robbers, who took $8 from him, $12 from a customer, and ten suits from the shelves.

NIZAM WITH 300 WIVES, 600 CARS, PLANS TO TRAVEL

BOMBAY, India, March 16.—The finance minister of the state of Hyderabad, Nawab Sir Haider Jung, is expected here shortly to charter a liner for the trip of the Nizam of Hyderabad, his suite and wives, through Europe, a tourist jaunt which is going to be without parallel in the annals of globe trotting. For he has saved about a billion rupees in 17 years and wants to celebrate that.

When this fabulously rich Indian nabob travels he does it in style. Not only is a special liner to be chartered but it will have to be entirely redecorated and refurnished to suit the Nizam's taste.

The Nizam needs a boat all to himself. He and his suite require a staff of six hundred servants to minister to his wants. Then, too, a section of the boat will have to be rebuilt and turned into a zenana for his 300 wives. Not that the Nizam is planning to take all of his three hundred wives along. Twenty to twenty-four assorted spouses will be chosen for the trip, but as each one must have at least two maids, the zenana will require a considerable portion of the passenger quarters. The chief zenana official will supervise the women's apartments on board the ship, leaving a subordinate to keep order among those left behind.

As for the number of automobiles the Nizam will take along, that has not yet been decided. The Nizam is as rich in automobiles as his ancestors in elephants. He has six hundred cars for his own private use, and a hundred and fifty large buses.

61ST WILL MOVE TO FT. SHERIDAN ON OWN MOTORS

May 'Bomb' a Few Cities on 1,000 Mile Trip.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 16.—[Special]—The 61st coast artillery anti-aircraft regiment, now assigned to Fort Sheridan, Ill., as a permanent station, will move its entire personnel and equipment to its new post by convoy of its own motor transportation, war department officials said today.

The 1,000 mile journey will be started about May 15. The 61st is located at Fortress Monroe, Va., and during the journey to Chicago the convoy will pass through some of the principal cities of Virginia, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois.

Help for National Guards.

"The decision to send an anti-aircraft regiment to Chicago, made some weeks ago, marked the first time that the war department had realized the advisability of permanently locating such a unit in the interior of the country," war department officials said today. "It was desirable to place a regular army unit in this section in order that more efficient training might be given to National Guard and organized reserve units located in the upper Mississippi valley.

"Every opportunity will be offered during the trip to Chicago for the examination of this type of artillery. At overnight stops visitors will be welcome. If war department funds will permit it may even be possible to schedule demonstrations showing the guns actually firing blank ammunition, with anti-aircraft search lights in action, and with actual planes caught and held in the searchlight beams while attempting to 'bomb' certain of our inland cities.

Parker and Barnes Leaders.

"When the regiment arrives in Chicago it will come under the jurisdiction of Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, commanding the 6th corps area.

Col. H. C. Barnes, coast artillery corps, has been recently detailed at headquarters, 6th corps area, 1819 West Pershing road, Chicago, on Gen. Parker's staff, and has been assigned to duty as chief of staff of the anti-aircraft artillery reserve group. Col. Barnes' previous experience in command of the 62d coast artillery [anti-aircraft] at Fort Totten, N. Y., renders him particularly well qualified for this important duty.

"A part of the 61st coast artillery [anti-aircraft] will spend the summer at Camp Knox, training reserve and National Guard units from these states."

HOOVER'S BOARD U. S. BOUND AFTER INQUIRY IN HAITI

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

PORT AU PRINCE, March 16.—This capital awoke today to find that the Hoover investigating commission, which has occupied the whole thought of Haiti during the last two weeks, had left. The members went aboard the cruiser Rochester last night and this morning the warship sailed for Miami.

The board expects to arrive in Washington Friday. There they will work out a report which not only will set forth a program for eventually ending the American occupation here but which also may point a way to important modifications in the Latin American policy of the United States.

It is improbable the commission will recommend the complete cessation of American activities. Beneath the surface the board found much regard for some phases of the occupation. The commission is also virtually certain to commend Brig. Gen. John H. Russell's work as American high commissioner. But the commission will recommend the ultimate replacement of the military commissioner by a civilian minister and the withdrawal of American marines as soon as it is safely possible, probably in 1936, when the treaty expires.

Stops Crime News to Lure Tourist to Mexico City

MEXICO CITY, March 16.—(AP)—The newspaper Excelsior, one of Mexico City's leading dailies, has announced it will practically eliminate crime news from its columns. The paper says in a front page announcement that crime news only gives the city a sordid aspect and presents a distasteful picture to tourists.

No one need wear eyeglasses that are not right—because of price

To make eyeglasses scientifically and fit them correctly is, of course, a professional service. And opticians who are capable and conscientious in the rendering of that service perhaps could not compete with those who sell glasses like any other merchandise, were it not that the public are quick to learn. For the large steady volume of business given the better opticians, reduces costs. Hence any person who wishes to make the comparison will find that in optical establishments of the highest reputation, the charges made for frames, mountings or complete eyeglasses, quality for quality, are not higher than elsewhere.

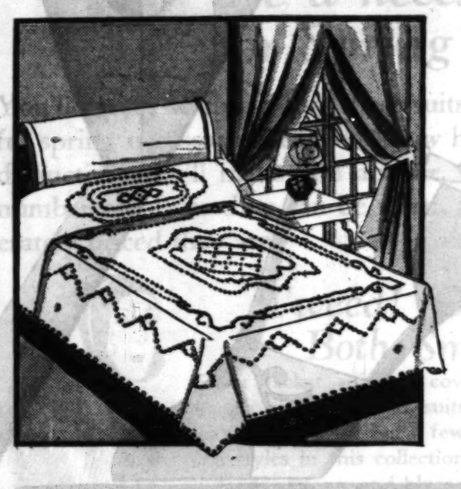
Sale of Candlewick BEDSPREADS



FROM THE mountains of Georgia to Hartman's large Loop Store came a great shipment of hand-made Candlewick Bedspreads for this big demonstration and sale. Only in the backwoods mountain districts of the South is it possible to secure these quaint spreads. There, in the mountain homes of rural Georgians, these spreads are stamped and tufted with a skillful patience almost unknown in this day of machine manufacture. And there they are used for the same reasons that busy Colonial housewives used them more than 100 years ago . . . because they are beautiful, practical and easy to launder. And it is their very hand-made look that makes them so desirable. No other bedspread so perfectly carries out the spirit of the Colonial room as these . . . representing, as they do, those long hours of painstaking, careful work.

See Them Make Candlewick Bedspreads!

TWO GIRLS from Georgia, dressed in quaint Colonial costumes, will demonstrate the making of "Candlewick" Bedspreads in a window of Hartman's Loop Store—Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday! Don't fail to see this demonstration. It makes the bedspreads themselves still more interesting to know what exacting careful needlework goes into their making.

Modern Homes Welcome The Charm Of Colonial Furniture!

AND WELL they should. For Colonial cabinet makers, loving, meticulous craftsmen that they were, spent months in the making of pieces as fine as these. Treasures, indeed, to be cherished with pride and bequeathed lovingly from generation to generation. Where treasures have vanished, traditions remain. And modern cabinet makers reproduce for you, in maple as richly mellow and golden as that of the original, this exquisite Colonial design. The quaint 4-poster bed at $35—the spacious chest at $50—the dresser or the adorable 6-drawer vanity at $65. 3 pieces, the Bed, the Chest, and your choice of Dresser or Vanity,

TELLS OF ARSON ON FEE BASIS AS NEW PROFESSION

Admits Staging of Fires for Merchants.

New York, March 16.—[Special.]—The practice of arson as a new profession was explained in an officially recorded confession by Joseph Eisenstein, announced today by United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle as "the latest in organized crime." The confession will be presented to the federal grand jury tomorrow.

The preparations for a fire required several months, Mr. Tuttle said. It was necessary first for the practicing incendiary to convince a merchant that a fire was better than a crooked bankruptcy action where the firm's books always remained to embarrass the operation, and better than a fake burglary, because the police always persisted in looking for the supposedly stolen goods.

Regular Fee $3,000.

Mr. Tuttle said Eisenstein explained that his "regular" fee was $3,000, but that he often accepted a retainer of $500 to $1,000 for "expenses" and left the $3,000 as a contingent fee, to be paid as soon as insurance claims were collected for the full stock of goods which the merchant had sent elsewhere before letting Mr. Eisenstein in to do what he called "a job of complete destruction" on the empty shop.

Eisenstein, according to the confession now on record, has served merchants in New York and Philadelphia and was summoned to Atlantic City by a merchant who, however, was willing to pay only $250. Tuttle says Eisenstein refused to make that fire but that the shop burned up later anyway.

The total value of insurance claims resulting from the fires which Eisenstein admits in this and other cities, according to Tuttle, is about $500,000, involving seven merchants.

Says Merchants Confessed.

The district attorney explained that Eisenstein was first sought as a professional incendiary after a fire in the fur shop of Louis Dachis, for which Dachis and other members of his firm were indicted. Tuttle said that Dachis later confessed that he retained Eisenstein at a $3,000 fee, to be paid as soon as he collected $140,000 from the insurance companies for a stock of furs which he had removed to his brother's shop before the fire.

Tuttle said these confessions, together with evidence gathered by his office, in coöperation with postoffice authorities and other officers, are to be presented to the federal grand jury tomorrow.

Faces Mail Fraud Charge.

The federal charge on which the indictment of the merchants will be asked, according to Mr. Tuttle, will be using the mails to defraud the insurance companies and conspiring to use the mails to defraud, which are punishable by sentences of five years and two years respectively on each count presented.

DORA MARIE MOYER

Now all use REM for coughs

Dora Marie is the youngest of the four Moyer children who live at 2237 Foster Ave., Chicago. They're a healthy, happy family as a rule, though at times they do get bad-weather coughs-and-colds like all the rest of us. But their mother, Mrs. Harry J. Moyer, has found the answer to this frequent household problem. "As soon as I hear one of them cough," she says, "I get REM, and in a day or two, no more cough. I never found anything near as good. Carlisle's the one who told me about REM. He'd been reading the ads. I'm glad now that he told me, for REM's easy for them to take and relief always comes quickly. We've been getting REM at the Foster Pharmacy for the last four or five years." Insist on REM—the blue package with the orange circle. You'll be glad you did!

REM's exclusive formula explains its splendid results. Economical, too!

STOMACH UPSET

Get at the real cause. That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets help arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, people rarely suffer from indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care-feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Try Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound. Know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain. All druggists. 15c, 30c and 60c.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like.

NORTHERN CHINA DECLARES NEW WAR ON NANKING

Rebel General Breaks His Pledge to Quit Country.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, March 16.—The Chinese civil war is apparently on again with the decision of the northern general, Yen Hsi-shan, not to go abroad but to remain in China and fight. Yester Gen. Yen and 56 other northern generals circulated a telegram denouncing Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, head of the Nationalist government.

Following the receipt of the telegram the Nationalist government called a conference of generals at Nanking which lasted the entire day. After the conference Gen. Chiang announced that he is departing tomorrow night for northern Kiangsu province for the purpose of assuming personal command of the troops there.

Fly to Head Troops.

In the meantime Gen. Ho Yin-chin and Gen. Ho Chen-chun, two other trusted Nationalist commanders, are going by airplane to Hankow in order to command the armies operating in the Hupeh province from the Hankow base.

While it is not officially confirmed, it is reported that two Honan generals, Hsih Yu-shan and Han Fu-chin, who were previously in alliance with Gen. Yen but who deserted the rebel ranks, have again now turned against the government and again will attempt to occupy Shantung province.

The Nanking government has made no statement of the situation but the official Kuomin news service tonight stated that "the bellicose elements of north China have apparently won out in their struggle against the moderate faction just as a peaceful solution of the crises had been hoped for by the departure of Gen. Yen from the country."

Feng to Head Rebel Army.

Dispatches from Peking state that the Christian general, Feng Yu-hsien, who has been imprisoned in Gen. Yen's camp at Taiyenfu, has been released and has departed for the Shensi province in order to assume personal command of the troops there.

Nanking reports claim that the Mukden general, Chang Hsueh-liang, is helping the government, but reports from Mukden state that the Manchurian militarists are holding a conference and have not yet made a decision but that they are likely to adopt a neutral attitude.

Both the Nationalists and the rebels have made the most elaborate military preparations and Chinese newspapers predict a long and bitter struggle.

PASSAGE OF TARIFF BILL IN SENATE BY END OF WEEK FORECAST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 16.—[Special.]—Passage by the senate of the long pending tariff bill before the end of the present week seems a probability.

As the situation now shapes up it is expected most of the Democrats and radical Republicans, who a few weeks ago were in control, will vote against the bill. Its passage is regarded as assured inasmuch as there are as many as five or six Democrats who have voted for it under any circumstances and there are several others whose votes can be counted upon if they are needed.

Recent victories of the new combination involving oil, lumber, sugar, cement, and other commodities seem to have definitely broken the strength of the Democratic-radical coalition which ruled the senate so many months.

Two Boys Rescued When Motorboat Upsets in Lake

Woman to Help Enforce Sing Sing Prison Rules

Ossining, N. Y., March 16.—(AP)—To Sing Sing prison's population of 2,300, hitherto exclusively male, a lone woman will be added July 1. Her job will be to see that women visitors smuggle in no weapons and break no other rules.

Prepared for Anything Now

"I can't imagine anything more discouraging than to suffer every time you eat a meal," says Andrew Anderson of 5452 Broadway, Chicago. "It keeps a fellow upset and so shaky he isn't good for much of anything. The simplest thing has straightened me out fine. I take a dose of Acidine whenever a meal doesn't sit right. Before I know it everything is all right. I am not afraid of anything now."

Mr. Anderson is absolutely right. Such a simple thing as a stomach which fails to digest starchy food and sweets can break down a person's resistance until even his confidence is undermined. The excessive acids cause thin blood because your food doesn't nourish you. By sweetening your stomach with ACIDINE, you can eat and grow strong. Get ACIDINE at any drug store.

Showman John F. Stowe Sues Hotel for Salary

St. Joseph, Mich., March 16.—[Special.]—John F. Stowe, Niles showman and nephew of Harriet Beecher Stowe, author of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," has started suit in Berrien county Circuit court against the West Shore hotel for $800, claimed to be due as wages for himself and wife. Stowe claims he abandoned plans to take out on the road for another season his show, the John F. Stowe Uncle Tom's Cabin company, with which he had toured the middle west for thirty years, on promise he would be given $75 a week if he and his wife assumed the management of the hotel.

WETS AND DRYS ASSAIL CLAIMS EACH HAS MADE

Scene of Battle to Shift to U. S. Senate.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 16.—[Special.]—Prohibition skirmishing shattered the capitol's usual Sabbath calm today as wet and dry organizations, taking advantage of the interval between house judiciary committee hearings, bombed each other's testimony.

Refuting the impression given by Mrs. Clarence Marshall Busch, president of the League of American Pen Women, a dry witness, that most writers are prohibitionists, the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment announced the enrollment of 155 well known authors and editors among its members during the last two months. Eighty of these are women.

At the same time the Methodist board of temperance, prohibition and public morals assailed the wet presentation in general as "miswable hash" and attacked in person C. C. Grayson M. P. Murphy and W. W. Atterbury, two prominent business executives, who testified against the 18th amendment.

Scene Shifts to Senate.

Meanwhile both sides were awaiting with interest tomorrow's meeting of the senate judiciary committee, to which the prohibition spotlight will shift temporarily before the house committee hearings are resumed Wednesday. Chairman George W. Wickersham of the Hoover law enforcement commission and Attorney General W. D. Mitchell will appear before the senate group to express their views on the pending resolution by Senator G. W. Norris [Rep., Neb.] for a senate investigation of prohibition enforcement scandals.

"Within the first year of its existence 543 members, from 31 states, have volunteered to fight prohibition through the authors and artists' committee of this association," said the statement issued by the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment. Irving S. Cobb is chairman of the committee and Eric Schuyler executive secretary. Channing Pollack, playwright, and Owen Johnson, author, both of New York, represented the group at the house hearings three weeks ago.

Among the 155 new members listed are two from Chicago—Waldemar Kaempffert and Charelee Herbert New. Other well known names on the list were Robert W. Chambers, John Erskine, Bud Fisher, John Tainter Foote, Reuben Goldberg, Percy Mackaye, Winchell Smith, Lathrop Stoddard, John J. Chapman, Will Livingston Comfort, Louis Bromfield, Edward S. Martin, Raymond Pearl, Arthur Stringer, Augustus Thomas, John V. A. Weaver, H. T. Webster, Lawrence Perry, Lee Wilson Dodd, Royal Cortissoz, John Macrae, Burns Mantle, and Owen Wister.

The new feminine members included Lydia Field Emmet, Ellen Glasgow, Inez Haynes Irwin, Anne Parrish, Ada Woodruff Anerrson, Katherine Fullerton Gerould, Ethel Watts Grant, Lucille Patterson Marsh, Berthe K. Mellett, Annie S. Peck, Anne O'Hagan Shinn, Gertrude Slaughter, Mary Imlay Taylor, and Dorothy Thompson.

New Haven, Conn., March 16.—[Special.]—Yale undergraduates have voted, 2,113 to 426, for repeal of the eighteenth amendment. The minority favored enforcement.

Students who said they drank numbered 1,874, or 71 per cent, while 769 said they did not drink. Of the drinkers, 1,060 were "occasional" and 352 "frequent."

Whisky—Scotch and rye—are consumed by 35 per cent of the thirsty, while 24 per cent incline toward gin, 20 per cent to beer, and 12 per cent to wine.

The poll was made by the Daily News, which obtained the views of 2,648 of the 3,129 students in the undergraduate departments.

MR. THOMAS SMITH
4114 N. Spaulding Avenue

No wonder Mr. Thomas Smith, 4114 North Spaulding avenue, Chicago, is enthusiastic about this new and different medicine.

Read what he says about what Konjola did for him:

"It is no trouble for me to understand why Konjola is known as the medicine with more than a million friends. If all the world knew about Konjola what I do, from actual experience, Konjola would have a billion friends. For seven years I suffered with neuritis. My general health was affected, and I was run down and weak. At times I could not work. After taking five bottles of Konjola I was like a new man. I am telling everybody about Konjola, and am only too glad to endorse it."

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

AUSTRALIA LABOR RULE AT CRISIS IN BIG COAL STRIKE

Federal Officers Struggle to Curb Disaster.

BY CHARLES DAILEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SYDNEY, Australia, March 16.—Labor is in the saddle in Australia at the moment but seems to be riding to a fall. The Labor party controls the federal government, but its officers, looking above party lines and trying to see their problems as national issues, are locking horns with the unions and are doing their best to save the commonwealth from greater disaster. There are thousands of unemployed, the unions are being bankrupted by payments to idle workers, and the state and national doles are running into heavy sums.

Coupled with the financial stringency and the low prices for wheat and wool, the outlook is gloomy. Some of the federal officers are facing expulsion by the Labor party, and this is likely to precipitate a crisis before the winter season, opening in June.

Party May Expel Leader.

Federal Treasurer Theodore, Labor party leader, may be expelled for defying the conference of the New South Wales Amalgamated Labor party on the question of the miners' strike. Mr. Theodore has put the country before his party, and, aside from the radical labor element, the people seem to be with him.

The labor conference demanded that the federal government should take over and operate with trade union labor, at union rates, certain coal mines long idle because of the strike; that the armed forces guarding the mines be dismissed; that the government grant adequate relief to the idle miners; that it place a prohibitive duty on all imported bunker and other coal and also on exported coal produced by nonunion labor, and, finally, that the government prosecute mine owners responsible for the present lockout.

Strike Hits Foreign Loans.

In addition to Treasurer Theodore, the minister of home affairs, the assistant minister of industry, and the minister of markets are under fire. They attended a session at which Mr. Theodore announced that the government had no intention of yielding to the demands of the labor conference, charging the demands were unconstitutional.

The long continued coal strike has seriously curtailed the New South Wales government's credit in foreign financial markets, and it is generally believed it will be impossible to obtain loans for public works.

The railways, owing to the loss of traffic, have also been seriously affected. Already there has been a heavy reduction in pay rolls in nearly all industries.

The communists are still making a desperate effort to obtain control of the coal fields.

The striking miners are backed by the Australian Labor party.

The policy of the miners' union appears to be a continuance of the strike until the state elections, in the hope that a Labor government can be elected. At present New South Wales has a Nationalist [Conservative] government, while the dominion government is strongly Labor.

50,000 HELP BURY CANADA'S SECOND RANKING WAR ACE

TORONTO, Ont., March 16.—Col. W. G. Barker, V. C., second ranking Canadian war ace and credited with shooting down 52 German planes, was buried yesterday afternoon while 50,000 Canadian stood by. Roses were dropped on the grave by a squadron of planes flown by war comrades. Col. Barker crashed to his death last Thursday when the motor of a ship he was testing stalled.

Premier G. Howard Ferguson, Lieut. Gov. W. E. Ross of Ontario, federal cabinet ministers, generals, walked for two miles in the funeral procession. Sympathy came from the prince of Wales, who had chosen Col. Baker as his personal pilot and who in Baker's plane had flown over enemy lines. Despite the loss of an arm during the war, the prince of Wales still called him the ablest pilot in the allied army.

Every unit in the Toronto garrison sent detachments.

Maj. J. S. M. Eley of the United States army air service reserve, who resides in Toronto, represented the United States. Maj. Eley tendered the sympathy of American flyers to the widow and 7 year old daughter of Col. Barker. Col. Barker's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Barker, and six brothers live in Chicago.

UNEMPLOYMENT PEAK PASSED IN NEW YORK; CONDITIONS IMPROVE

New York, March 16.—[Special.]—The high peak of unemployment was passed in February and since then conditions have shown a decided improvement, according to a survey of conditions transmitted today to Gov. F. D. Roosevelt by the New York board of trade in response to a request from the governor for a statement regarding unemployment.

"Any figures purporting to give the exact number, or even the approximate number, of unemployed in New York, in the absence of a census, must necessarily be conjecture," the board of trade survey declares. "The New York board of trade does not feel justified in estimating the total of unemployment. There is admittedly more than normal unemployment in New York City, but our conclusion is that the bottom was reached in February and that in the coming spring months the revival of many seasonal occupations will relieve the stress. In many lines of manufacturing and commerce it is anticipated that business will be larger in the spring and summer."

GREEN'S SPEECH TODAY SEEN AS MINE ROW CURE

Indianapolis, Ind., March 16.—[Special.]—A formula to end the dissension which all agree is hindering the industry's effectiveness at a time when it must give careful attention to renewed British and European competition as well as to unemployment problems, was looked forward to tonight by delegates to the regular United Mine Workers of America convention meeting here. It may come tomorrow, when the convention hears an address by William Green, formerly secretary of the United Mine Workers and now president of the American Federation of Labor.

The friction, it was pointed out tonight, is a matter for concern of the A. F. of L. as well as the miners, for in the fight on the U. M. W. of A. against the insurgent miners' convention now in session at Springfield, Ill., the miners' international administration has asked for removal of John Walker, president of the Illinois Federation of Labor, unless he ceases aiding the insurgents.

BOILER ENGINEER DIES AT WORK.

BICYCLE RIDER BEATS COP'S CAR IN SO. SIDE RACE

The Hyde Park police last night were hunting for the owner of a black bicycle, which they are holding, to award him the south side speed championship and to throw him into jail.

The bicycle rider, a Negro, was discovered by Detective William Taterka at 48th and Ellis avenue, loitering near an automobile with two other Negroes. Taterka started to question them and all three fled, one of them on a bicycle. The detective jumped into his automobile and pursued the rider for more than a mile, firing several shots at him, as the cyclist pedalled furiously ahead of the speeding car.

At 41st street and Cottage Grove avenue, with the detective's car still outdistanced, the Negro abandoned his bicycle and escaped on foot.

BOAT CAPSIZES, FOUR DROWN AS FRIEND WATCHES

Union, Neb., March 16.—(AP)—Four men, all of Nebraska City, Neb., drowned in the Missouri river near here today when the boat in which they were traversing the rough waters capsized. A companion of the quartet witnessed the tragedy from the shore, but was unable to lend any assistance. None of the bodies had been recovered late tonight.

The victims were Dr. J. H. Whistler, dentist, Lincoln, Neb.; Charles Foley, Nebraska City jeweler; Robert Hansen Jr., Nebraska City, and Roy Allen, Nebraska City, tire shop proprietor.

Pig Gets Drunk in Test to Find Paralysis Cause

Atlanta, Ga., March 16.—(AP)—A guinea pig here today was intoxicated but not paralyzed by two ounces of jamaica ginger given it in hope of solving the mystery of the paralysis that has stricken approximately 280 persons in Tennessee, Mississippi, Georgia, and Alabama.

Dr. L. L. Terrell, of Corbin, Ky., conducted the experiment. He announced the animal failed to show any signs of the strange malady that several investigators have attributed to the drinking of jamaica ginger.

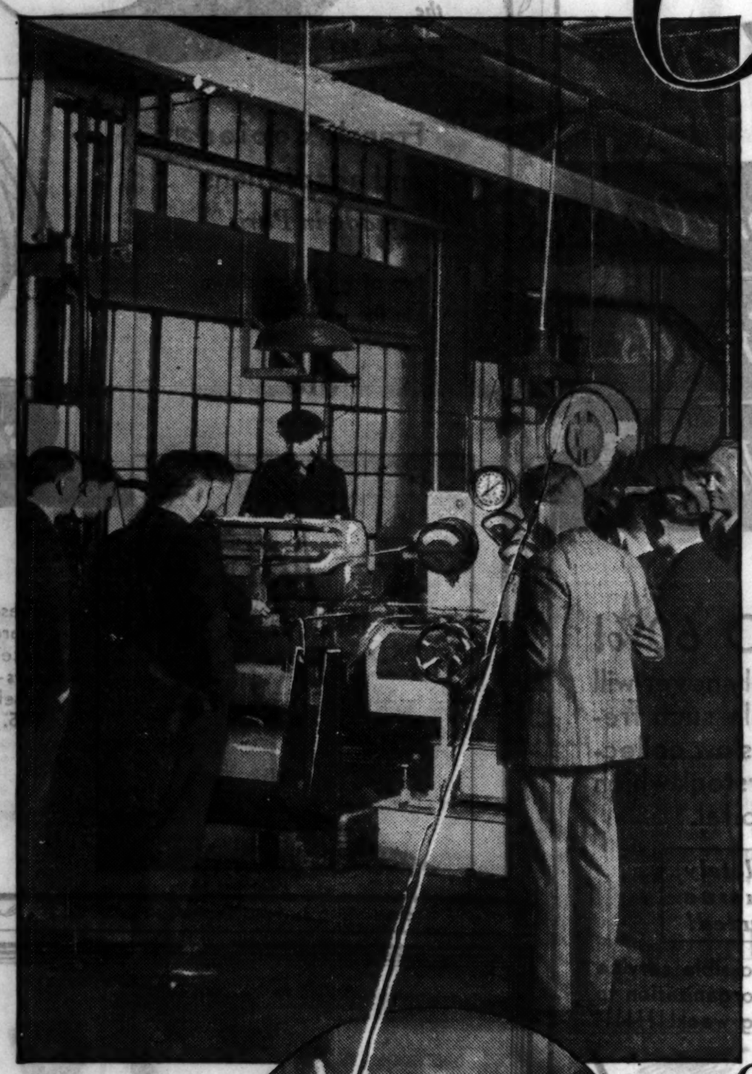
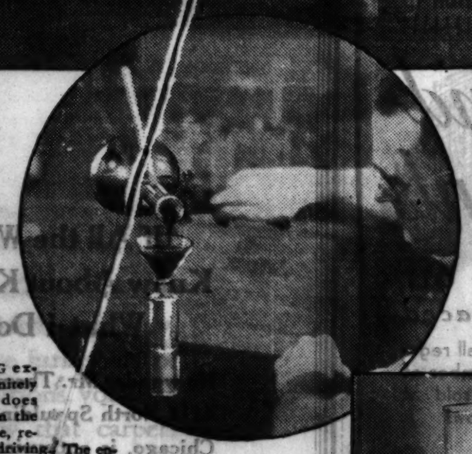
Oil Experts win a new victory over petroleum...

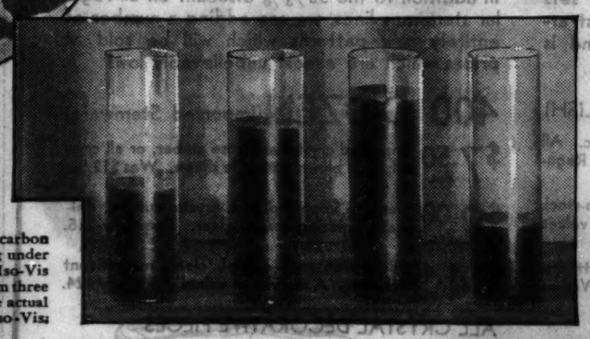
. . . . Combine unusual advantages in a new motor oil—better lubrication at extremes of temperatures, both high and low—reduction of carbon to a marked degree—no "thinning out" in the crankcase



A GROUP of engineers from leading technical schools inspect the research laboratories at Whiting, Indiana, and the process by which this new motor oil has been developed.



THIS INTERESTING experiment proves definitely that New Iso-Vis does not "break down" in the automobile crankcase, regardless of miles of driving. The engineer in the illustration is pouring used Iso-Vis through a special filter. The filter removes the crankcase dirt only—and the oil itself is exactly the same as when freshly distilled.



THESE VIALS show the different amounts of carbon formed in the same motor after 50 hours of running under exactly similar conditions with four different oils. Iso-Vis is at the extreme right. Carbon in the other vials is from three premium priced oils. An interesting example of the actual reduction in carbon formation made by New Iso-Vis.

ONLY OCCASIONALLY is it possible to announce an advance in manufacturing methods that makes so important a difference in results.

New Iso-Vis Motor Oil was perfected by leading oil engineers working for more than a year in our laboratories at Whiting, Indiana.

Notice its color. It is rich amber—due to the fact that the sturdy body of this oil is not obtained by adding undistilled parts of the "crude". It is a wholly distilled motor oil.

This means a great reduction in carbon. Comparisons in accurate engine tests show a reduction in carbon formation far below most premium priced oils.

In addition, New Iso-Vis has what engineers call a "wider viscosity range". It works better both at high engine temperatures and at extremes of cold.

Most important of all, perhaps, Iso-Vis actually resists dilution and does not thin out in the crankcase. Note the sturdy body of New Iso-Vis as you drain it out after many hundreds of miles of driving. Compare it with any other oil driven a similar distance. You will find the difference almost incredible.

New Iso-Vis means protection not only when the oil is fresh—but every mile you drive. You do not need to drain this oil because it has "thinned out", but simply because of the dirt which inevitably collects in your crankcase.

Notice the Color of New Iso-Vis. It is a rich amber. New Iso-Vis is a wholly distilled oil. Its sturdy body is not obtained by adding undistilled parts of the crude.

Here, we believe, is the most effective lubrication yet developed for your car. It offers hundreds of miles of extra wear and freedom from all oil worries.

You can get New Iso-Vis Motor Oil from any Standard Oil dealer or service station. Its price is 30 cents a quart. Try this improved motor oil. See for yourself how it holds its "body". Drain and refill with New Iso-Vis today.

New ISO-VIS 30¢ a quart Motor Oil

ISO-VIS STANDARD OIL COMPANY SERVICE MOTOR OIL

The New Polarine is also affected by our new refining processes—giving it a degree of lubricating efficiency which we believe is exceeded only by the New Iso-Vis. The price is 25¢ a quart.

Are You

Wet or Dry?

Liberty will pay

a week for the best answers to this question

NO subject is as interesting or causes as much comment among Americans today as the problem of Prohibition. Liberty wants to know its readers' individual views on this question, and is willing to pay for expressions of these views.

What we want is the simplest kind of statements. You can write on a single sheet of paper or on the back of a postcard. It is not necessary to go into such complicated matters as alcoholic content, enforcement laws, local option, etc. The question in the language of the people is: Are You Wet or Dry?—which we take to mean, do you or do you not believe that the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead Act are the best means of handling the liquor problem in the United States?

Anyone can answer that question with one word. And almost anyone can tell in a very few words his reasons for his answer.

If at first you don't succeed, try, try again. You can write on this subject as often as you wish. The best letters will be printed in Liberty Magazine.

Literary skill will not count in these letters at all, nor will style, spelling, punctuation, or any of these things. We only want your honest views, however you may care to express them.

But brevity will count. If your letter is short it will be considered an advantage when the letters are judged.

Address PROHIBITION, Liberty Weekly, Postoffice Box 556, New York, N. Y. We regret we cannot return your letters or enter into correspondence concerning them.

We estimate that before 1935 Liberty will have the largest magazine circulation in the world . . .

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 16.—Something bearing close resemblance to major league class was served by the Cubs today in their exhibition game with the Angels. The National league champions slapped the ball violently, fielded passably well in spots, and enjoyed pitching of a kind that brought oh's and ah's from a few hundred overcoated customers. With a combination such as this the McCarthy regulars won in a go-as-you-please fashion by a 10 to 5 margin.

RIGGS STEPHENSON

The Cub boss used the meeting as an opportunity to employ three of his hurlers, two of them of the veteran class. Young Lefty Moss started as scheduled and did well enough, yielding only one hit in three rounds. Then Malone whizzed 'em past the Angels for three stanzas, giving up four blows all of them in the sixth. The last three rounds were assigned to Guy Bush, and he was victimized for three blows, but nevertheless showed enough to indicate that his arm is almost ready to resume work where he left off in the late world series.

Stevie Hits Homer.

In the way of Cub hits there were thirteen of assorted lengths. The choicest was a drive sent into the seats in the ninth by Riggs Stephenson. This was merely capping the climax for him. Previously he had punctured the atmosphere with a double and single. English also contributed three safe taps, but two were singles and the other a two bagger. Next in line for the day's clouting honors was Hartnett who after trying out his arm with a powerful throw to second, celebrated the successful demonstration by touching off a triple and single, both of which figured in the losing scoring.

The Cubs lost no time settling down to the work at hand, scoring a run in the first inning. English led off with a single to right and it carried with a peculiar whistle that it startled Harper, who fumbled. English went to second on a blunder. Hornsby's infield out nudged him to third. A moment later Hornsby slapped a hot two bagger down the left field line, English counting. Wilson swung mightily but fanned and the session closed with Hornsby being run down on Cuyler's grounder to Haney.

The two run jolt given to Moss by the Angels in the third began with Malone making a comical toss after picking up Dittmar's roller. Moss offset Charley's error by fanning McCabe. A lad named Burns swung for Baecht and sat down after a fly to Cuyler. Haney hoisted a Texas League single behind first base, putting Dittmar on third. Haney lost no time displaying his skill as a base burglar. Then Schulmerich poked an easy day grounder at Hornsby and the Rajah kicked it. Before the ball could be retrieved the two runners had scored home. This put the Angels in front by 2 to 1, but their pleasure was short lived.

Rajah Starts It Again.

From the time of Hornsby's double in round one, the Cubs didn't produce another safe tap until he opened the fourth with a single. This was the

O, WHERE'S OUR J. SMEAD JOLLY? MISSING 3 WEEKS

Sixth Game of Sox-Giant Series Washed Away.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Antonio, Tex., March 16.—J. Smead Jolly, Mr. Comiskey's $50,000 behemoth, is lost again. The incident is doubly distressing at this time because the large outfielder has been counted upon to supply the news for a rainy Sabbath, the No. 6 game of the Giants-Sox series having been washed down the San Antonio river. J. Smead first was lost three weeks ago.

J. SMEAD JOLLY.

White Sox officials announced day after day that he was en route, supposedly by automobile. Then, as the days rolled by, the official said J. Smead had been possessed of a whimsy—he was riding on a bicycle.

But neither Jolly nor his bicycle arrived and last Tuesday, when Gentleman Jim Moore was injured, Manager Donie Bush figured out that J. Smead might have been driven back by coyotes or other varmints. He took a chance and wired to J. Smead at Alameda, Cal., advising the gigantic fellow to snap into it.

Word Comes from Jolly.

Much to the relief of everybody, J. Smead came right back with a wire, his first communication of the spring, saying he was leaving Alameda for San Antonio. There was a spirited leafing of time tables and discovery was made that J. Smead ought to get in yesterday morning.

He didn't get in Saturday, but it was decided he surely would be in at 3 o'clock this morning. A reception committee sat up. But no J. Smead. The next train was at 5:30 this afternoon. Still no J. Smead.

If he doesn't get in tomorrow or communicate with somebody, a circular containing the following data is to be sent out through the cow, goat, and grape fruit country west of here.

Lost, Strayed, or Stolen.

"A reward will be paid for information leading to the capture of J. Smead Jolly, who may seek work in your town as an outfielder or carnival strong man. He was born in Arkansas, played ball in Texas and lives in California, so that clue won't help you much. Your best chance at identification is through his feet—he wears No. 14 shoes. He is 6 feet 3½ and weighs 220 pounds. He may make reference to the fact that he batted .387 in the Coast league last year."

The foregoing circular does not state the amount of the reward, but it will be generous if J. Smead hits the way Donie Bush thinks he will.

Postpone Mastro-La Barba Fight Card Until April 21

SPRING WEATHER LURES 10,000 TO GOLF COURSES

The warmest day of 1930, with the temperature reaching 70, brought out the largest early crowd of golfers yesterday that has started the season in the Chicago district in many years. It was estimated that more than 10,000 played on the public and private courses.

Calumet, always an early starter, scheduled a ball sweepstakes event, while hundreds toured Midlothian, Olympia Fields, and other private courses. Daily fee courses, including Oak Hills, Pickwick, Cog Hill, Hillcrest, Evergreen, and Mid-City, were swamped by the enthusiasts.

Miami Beach, Fla., March 16.—[Special.]—Helene Madison, 16 years old, of the Crystal S. C., Seattle, Wash., continued her record breaking performances this afternoon when she set a new international standard in winning the 500 yard free style title in the women's National A. A. U. swimming and diving championship meet. It was her fourth record in as many days.

Miss Madison, in winning her latest title, splashed the 500 yards in 6 minutes 16 2-5 seconds, severing 15 3-5 seconds from the previous world's record.

Miss Madison's triumph today advanced her club, the Crystal S. C., to second place in the team championship scoring, all 15 points credited to that organization being made by Miss Madison.

Josephine McKim, the national outdoor all around champion, who was favored in the "500," finished second to Miss Madison, trailing the new star a lap. Miss McKim also came under the old record, her time being 6 minutes 29 seconds.

Eleanor Holm of the Women's Swimming association of New York also broke another world's record this afternoon in winning the 100 yard back stroke championship. The little 16 year old star, who weighs only 102 pounds, swam the distance in 1 minute 12 second, clipping three-fifth of a second from the former record, made a year ago today by Miss Jean McSheehy of Whitinsville A. C., Boston.

Crain Loses First Fight of Career, Then Whips 'em All

BY HOWARD BARRY.

When Chancy Crain slipped out the back door of his uncle's home at Mounds, Ill., one morning last August and made his way down to the railroad tracks where he concealed himself in a freight car bound for Chicago, it would have taken a prophet to foretell that within a few months the little Negro would have won a place as lightweight champion on THE TRIBUNE'S Golden Gloves team.

For there was nothing in Chancy's appearance to suggest the fighter. The big brown eyes, just a bit wistful, the soft voice and subdued manner went well with the little colored boy's reputation of never having engaged in a street fight.

But he had taken a liking to boxing in a gymnasium near his home, and when he saw announcements of an Illinois state tournament to be held in Chicago, he made up his mind to get there if he had to walk.

Box Car Goes to Hammond.

His mother and father both were away at the time, and his uncle was unwilling to have Chancy make the trip inasmuch as he had never before been away from home alone. Chancy therefore decided that if he could not go with his uncle's consent he would have to go without it, so this August morning found him crouching in a box car, listening intently for the approach of hostile brakemen.

All went well until the train came to a junction at which Chancy's car was shunted off toward the east with the result that on the morning of the first day of the tournament the boy found himself in Hammond, Ind., with no money to buy quick transportation to Chicago.

According to the announcement he had tucked away in his pocket, the contestants would be required to weigh in at 7 o'clock that evening in a stadium at the corner of 22d and Kostner, so Chancy ate a few crackers, tightened his shoe laces and struck out on foot. All day long he hiked without another bite to eat, and just as the last boys were weighing in, he arrived at his destination.

SETS 'EM DOWN

CHANCY CRAIN.

Exhausted and Starved But Fights.

Chancy was half starved and almost exhausted by this time, but was determined to go through with his plans. So he weighed in, fought three rounds to a draw and lost the decision in the fourth round. That was the first and last time he ever was beaten.

After that Chancy obtained a job as office boy at the Lawndale gymna-

Fort Wayne defeated the Chicago Bruins last night at the Stadium, 21 to 18. It was the final game of the season.

A belated spurt, led by Branch McCracken and Chang Chadwick, brought the Hoosiers from far behind to beat the Bruins in the closing minutes of the game.

McCracken, making his debut as a pro after three years of stardom at Indiana university, scored two baskets, one from far out at the side of the court, and the other a follow-up on a missed free throw by Sedgwick. He didn't seem much at home in the pro games, however, and had difficulty keeping track of the man he was supposed to guard.

The Bruins led through most of the game, largely because of Nat Hickey's sensational shooting. The Bruins' star forward caged five baskets, to lead both teams in scoring.

SELECT BATTLE LINEUPS FOR STADIUM SHOW

All Reserved Seats Are Sold.

Strategy

PAUL GALLICO, sports editor of the New York Daily News and generalissimo of the New York Golden Gloves entourage, went into a heavy conference with his staff, doctors, trainers, and coaches last night, and emerged with a shift in his team lineup. The deep thinkers of the invaders have decided to offer up Sam Glickman, New York taxi-pilot, against Grant Fortney, Chicago heavyweight champion, and sacrifice Sylvan Taylor, runner-up heavy, to Adam Smith.

BY DON MAXWELL.

Both Chicago's and New York's Golden Gloves teams are ready to taper off their training. Thirty-two boxers, sixteen from each city, were given their last hard workouts yesterday in preparation for the great intercity battle Wednesday night.

Several days before the Kentucky Derby the thoroughbreds are sent over the full Derby route. That is the peak of their training for the classic. Without stretching the figure too far, it might be said, that the Golden Gloves champs were sent over the full Golden Glove route yesterday. They were clocked in fast time.

The drills today will be lighter. Tomorrow the youthful warriors will work still less and on Wednesday they'll only limber up and rest for the tournament to decide the fistic claims of the cocky New Yorkers and the confident Chicagoans.

All Reserved Seats Sold.

With all of the reserved seats [20,000] sold, and thousands clamoring for the remaining $1 tickets, orders were issued yesterday to put the Chicago Stadium in gala attire for the intercity tournament. Wednesday night will be a red letter date in the Stadium's history.

There never has been such a demand for fight tickets in Chicago as this demand for ducats for intercity bouts. Telephones are ringing day and night in the Tribune office, each heralding a new plea for seats. Wires requesting reservations have been received from hundreds of Chicagoland cities.

As if in answer to the fight fans' enthusiasm, the members of the New York and Chicago teams went through their sparring practice yesterday with more vim than they've shown at any previous drill.

Then See What Happened.

A chance meeting of Chicago and New York fighters helped to stir the champions' ardor. A group of THE TRIBUNE'S Golden Glove team went to the Tribune Tower yesterday morning to visit the observatory. A group of the invading knights from New York, ensconsed on the window ledges of the Medinah Athletic club, their headquarters, saw the Chicagoans and shouted derisively. The Chicago champs retorted and on their return to the Chicago Athletic association reported the incident to their colleagues.

The Chicago boys talked of little else at the luncheon table. "Those New Yorkers won't be shouting after Wednesday night," remarked John Baima, the ex-coal miner; "they'll be singing a song entitled, 'How I Long for the Sidewalks of New York.'"

"You're wrong," spoke up Grant Fortney, the taxicab chin breaker, who on Saturday was elected captain of the Chicago team; "those sidewalk dukes won't feel like singing anything on Wednesday night."

Hear! Hear! Sammy Speaks.

And then little Sammy Levine, the flyweight kayo king, put in: "I'll sing a song myself. It starts: 'I may be wrong, but my right is wonderful.'" Which ended the luncheon, with Sammy two lengths in front of his pursuers.

Kidding aside, Jack Elliott, coach of the New Yorkers, reports a day in the Medinah camp as follows:

"Breakfast at 7:30. Road work through Lincoln park at 9. Luncheon. A sightseeing trip over the boulevards. Boxing from 3 to 5. Dinner at 6. A theater party at the Great Northern in the evening, and then to bed."

"The New York boys are in good shape," Elliott added, "and ready for the best Chicago can give them."

Meanwhile Walter Eckersall, director general, and his staff, Messrs. Yanger, Darwent, and Young, was sending the Chicago champs over a road trip in Grant park, and later through a fast, hard workout in the ring at the C. A. A.

Good News for Chicago.

Among other items of good news Mr. Eckersall reports: Ed. Steere, University of Illinois middleweight, finds his injured right wrist mended and the doctors say it will be in fine shape for Wednesday night's knockout program. Adam Smith, the husky baker, from Rockford, came into camp, in fine fettle to send New York's heavyweight runner up, Sylvan Taylor, to the canvas with one punch; and Johnny Emmerick, snappy flyweight from East St. Louis came in feeling fine.

Which in itself is enough good news for one issue.

initial incident in a three run splurge. After the Rajah's single, Wilson popped out. The hit and run sign was hung out and Cuyler walloped a single to right, Hornsby one legging it to third. Ol' Hoss Stephenson also shot a single to right, Hornsby scoring and Cuyler taking third. Bell beat out an infield hit. Green, who was pitching at the time, took a long time winding up so Stephenson stole third and Bell second. Stevie carried in the third run of the inning on Hartnett's infield out.

Encouraged by an error in the sixth, the Cubs came through with some robust swats and became the possessors of three more runs. Cuyler started the chapter with a hopper to the shortstop, who booted. Stephenson drove a fly to deep center and it crashed against the bricks for a two bagger, Cuyler halting at third. Bell flied to Statz, who is such a poor tossor that Cuyler had no trouble scoring and Stevie had no trouble going to third after the catch. Hartnett's triple to center drove Stevie home and Gabby registered when English doubled to right.

Cubs Score Two More.

Four successive hits, with which the Angels picked up their second pair of runs in the sixth, began with Harper driving one of Malone's fast ones safely past Grimm. Jacobs clipped a single into center. Statz duplicated the blow and Harper scored. Jacobs came home on an infield hit by Dittmar. Hornsby cut the round short by picking up Moore's grounder and starting a speedy double play.

There was no apparent necessity for the Cubs breaking out in the eighth, but they did to the extent of three hits and two runs. Moncrief gave Bell a pass as a starter. Hartnett slashed a single to center, putting Bell on third. Bush, who would rather make a base hit than pitch a no hit triumph, then singled to right, inducing Bell to score. English caught the Angels flat footed with a bunt, which he beat, filling the bases. The best Grimm could produce was a double play that let Hartnett score. The Angels countered with one in their half, making the count 9 to 5.

Stephenson completed the scoring for the Cubs by hoisting his homer into the right field bleachers with two out in the ninth.

sium and spent his spare time training. Several fights were arranged, all of which he won, including two with Roosevelt Haines, former Golden Gloves champion.

Then there came a morning when his employer failed to find Chancy at his usual place. But on the desk there was a note. In it the little colored boy thanked his employer for the kindness he had shown, but said he had grown lonesome for his old home in Mounds.

That was early in November, and for two months Chancy dropped entirely out of sight. Then the announcement of THE TRIBUNE'S Golden Gloves tournament reawakened the old desire for battle. Chancy came back, recovered his job and began to train.

Before entering the tournament he had engaged in only ten bouts, six of which he had won by knockouts and three by decisions.

At the end of the Golden Gloves tournament he had added six more victims to his string, three by knockouts and three by decisions. Every one of his opponents had gone to the floor at least once.

That's how Chancy Crain's potent wallop carried him swiftly to the top as an amateur fighter and won him the right to represent Chicago in the intercity bouts with New York Wednesday at the Stadium.

Pheasant Soon Feels at Home in New Land

BY BOB BECKER.

With sportsmen clamoring for more game birds the United States continues to experiment with importations of many different kinds of exotic birds in the hope of replacing our vanishing species like the prairie chicken and quail. With but few exceptions most of these strangers have failed to make good.

Among the introduced species which have thrived to a marked degree are the pheasant and the Hungarian partridge. The biological survey says thumbs down on such birds as the red grouse of the British isles, the capercailzie, the migratory quail, and the wood pigeon. They won't do well in our covers.

Thrives in South Dakota.

That the United States is "going pheasant" as the prairie chicken and the grouse fade from our forests and prairies, is shown by a recent report from the northwest. In South Dakota the pheasant did well from the very first. Whereas, the plow was slowly exterminating the native prairie chicken, the pheasant thrived on its contacts with civilization.

So South Dakota has seen a strange bird come in and take first place on the landscape. How dominant the ring neck has become out there is well illustrated by the fact that three years ago last fall, hunters shot about 1,000,000 birds during the open season. Two years ogo the pheasant bag was estimated at 1,500,000 to 2,000,000 birds.

Pheasant Proves Adaptable.

This record has scarcely been approached by any bird in our history in a single state. Thus the ring necked pheasant has hung up a record of adaptability to strange cover that makes it a prime favorite when it comes to introducing a species to replace a native bird that is slowly dying out.

We Know

...the war against Spitting is a crusade of decency . . . join it. Smoke CERTIFIED CREMO!

More than a damning social fault . . . spitting is a filthy, menacing habit . . . especially when it fouls the things you put into your mouth! Why run the risk of cigars made by dirty, yellowed fingers and tipped in spit? Remember, more than half of all cigars made in this country are still made by hand, and therefore subject to the risk of spit!

Certified Cremo protects you against this abomination! Every tobacco leaf entering the clean, sunny Certified Cremo factories is scientifically treated by methods recommended by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. And its purity is safeguarded along every step of the way by amazing inventions that foil, wrap and tip the cigars without the possibility of spit!

Try a Certified Cremo—see how wonderfully good it is! Made of the choicest, tenderest leaves that the crop affords, we claim Certified Cremo's quality is tastier than that of any other cigar. Don't let its 5c price stand in your way. Your physician has in mind a cigar like Certified Cremo when he recommends a mild smoke in place of heavy brands.

Crush-proof . . . immaculate . . . foil-wrapped . . . Certified Cremo is the kind of cigar the late Vice-President Marshall undoubtedly was thinking of when he said: "What this country needs is a good 5c cigar!"

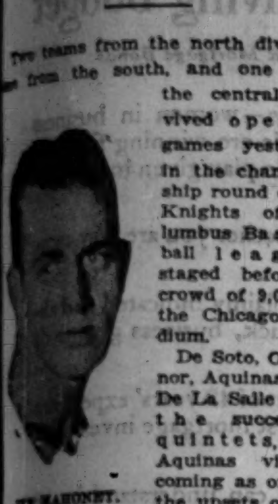
AQUINAS UPSETS MADONNA, 17-4, IN K. C. TITLE PLAY

De La Salle, O'Connor, De Soto Win Openers.

Two teams from the north division, one from the south, and one from the central survived opening games yesterday in the championship round of the Knights of Columbus Basketball league, staged before a crowd of 9,000 at the Chicago Stadium.



IKE MAHONEY.

De Soto, O'Connor, Aquinas, and De La Salle were the successful quintets, the Aquinas victory coming as one of the upsets of the day. Madonna, the losing team, had won the central division pennant.

De Soto Beats Setters.

Brilliant defensive work gave Aquinas its 17 to 4 victory over Madonna. The losers tallied a basket on the opening tipoff, and from thereon were held to two free throws, one in each half. Jordan, McGrath, and O'Malley proved too much for the central section team on the defense, while every man on the Aquinas quintet contributed one basket.

The hardest fought battle of the afternoon returned De Soto of the north division victor over Setters of the west, 24 to 22, chiefly because of a second half rally led by Ike Mahoney with four ringers.

De La Salle Upsets Dowling.

De La Salle kept the central division in the running by upsetting Dowling of the south section in a low game, 18 to 12. Long range shooting and a tight defense proved too much for the Dowling outfit, who trailed 8 to 6 at the half.

The north division's second representative to win was O'Connor, which jumped to a 32 to 19 victory over Ridge of the southwest section.

The Bricklayers overwhelmed the Gary Soccer club, Indiana champions, 7 to 0, at De Paul field yesterday in the first round for the Peel cup.

St. Elizabeth Surprises in Cage Tourney

St. Elizabeth, third place team in the south division, sprang a surprise in the first round games of the Catholic Order of Foresters Basketball league championships yesterday when the south siders upset Harmony, champion of the west division, 24 to 15, at St. Rita's gym. Favorites triumphed in the other three games.

In addition to St. Elizabeth, those to advance to next Sunday's semifinal round were St. Sabina and St. Monica, south and north division champions, respectively, and Englewood, runner-up in the south section.

Running up a 58 to 18 score against Lawndale, west division, in the day's opening game, St. Sabina looms as a strong contender for the league title. The south siders presented two extraordinary sharpshooters in Tack and Christian. Lineups:

Pin Bombardment Shakes Up A. B. C. Tourney Standings

Cleveland, O., March 16.—[Special.]—A terrific bombardment of the maples shook up the American Bowling congress leaders here today. New leaders appeared in the singles and all events, while several other changes resulted among the "big ten" of each division.

Racine bowlers grabbed the lead in both the singles and all events division. Eddie Nelson, member of the Racine Glass Shops, hung up a 705 total to top the solo event, displacing Herman Mueck of Toledo by 24 pins.

705 May Win Title.

Nelson's total has an excellent chance of winning the solo event title. Two years ago 705 won for Hank Summers, St. Louis, at Kansas City and three years ago Bill Eggars of Chicago bettered the mark by one pin in winning at Peoria. Nelson, who has shot in five national shows, won the Racine city championship two years ago.

Arne Fischer displaced Fred Lewis of Waukegan as all events leader, the Kenosha bowler piling up an aggregate of 1,884. A veteran of 14 national pin tourneys, Fischer averaged 209.3 for his nine games, counting 621 in the team event, 608 in the doubles and 655 in the singles.

Four Changes in Doubles.

Four changes occurred in the doubles, two members of the Quaker Oats five of Chicago, 1928 team champions, landing berths among the duo event leaders. Leo Faetz and Simon Lock took third place with 1,248, while Marvin Erickson and Bill Wernicke pulled up with 1,232 for fourth. A. Loefler and A. Damico, Detroit, tied the Erickson-Wernicke mark. B. Anderson, Duluth, connected with 656 for eighth place in the singles, while A. Fisher, Racine, took tenth place with 655.

The Kaadland five gave Chicago another high spot among the tourney leaders with fifth place by dint of a 2,843 mark late tonight. The Chicago five shot games of 890, 985 and 958 to top the 64 teams carded.

ARIZONA CHAMPS WITHDRAW FROM STAGG CAGE MEET

Bisbee, Ariz., March 15.—(AP)—The Bisbee school district trustees decided tonight to withdraw the Bisbee High school basketball team from the national tournament to be held in Chicago, April 1 to 5. The Bisbee Pumas recently won the state championship.

Withdrawal of the Pumas from the Chicago entry list had been demanded by the Arizona High School Athletic association at its meeting in Phoenix, Ariz., earlier in the day.

The Bisbee school district trustees, after discussion, announced it would call off the proposed trip "rather than jeopardize the standing of its high school in the state athletic conference."

Argentine Poloists Ring Up Tenth Straight Win

Beresford, Cal., March 16.—(AP)—The Argentine polo team rode to a brilliant 10 to 4 victory over an all star California team here today to complete its California invasion with a record of ten straight wins.

RANGERS BATTLE EXTRA PERIOD TO BEAT PITTSBURGH

New York, March 16.—(AP)—The New York Rangers wound up the regular National Hockey league season for New York tonight by defeating the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4 to 3, in overtime. The victory left the Rangers a chance to take second place from Chicago, now only one point ahead in the American division of the league.

The Rangers went out ahead with two goals early in the second period, only to have a battling Pirate team, with Jerry Lowrey on the scoring end, tie the count. Each team got another goal late in the dull third period. Bill Cook broke the deadlock with a fine shot near the end of a hotly contested extra period.

The victors share with De La Salle heavyweights and Wendell Phillips lightweights the honor of being the only undefeated teams in the city.

Mount Carmel was forced to the limit to win its title. They led 12 to 5 at the half.

TRADE REPORTS ENCOURAGING ON THE WHOLE

Weather Aids Wholesale, Retail Lines.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 15.—Some quickening of wholesale and retail trade as a result of more favorable weather and the decided easing of credit which accompanied the reduction of the rediscount rate of the Federal Reserve bank of New York from 4 per cent to 3½ per cent, served to throw a more cheerful light upon trade reports during the last week.

These developments could not, however, greatly minimize the distinctly discouraging industrial reports. Such important indices of the state of business as the figures for steel production, freight car loadings, bank clearings, and export trade volume all gave evidence that the brisk recovery of January and early February has suffered a decided reverse during the last few weeks.

Reports by telegraph from the various federal reserve districts were, on the whole, encouraging. A number of districts reported gains in wholesale and retail trade and the expectation of early improvement in employment was generally shown. The approach of the Easter season is expected to speed up merchandising and better weather should soon bring increased building operations, it is thought. In California the opening of the canning factories is looked to as promising relief from the unemployment problem.

The most disturbing development of the week was the further drop in steel production. For the country as a whole ingot production has now fallen to 75 per cent of capacity, compared with 78 per cent a week ago, 80 per cent two weeks ago and 82 per cent three weeks ago.

MIDDLE WEST UTILITIES HAS BEST YEAR YET

Insull Firm Earns $1.88 Per Share.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The Middle West Utilities company, largest of the Insull holding concerns, had the most prosperous period in its history last year. And a considerable reason for the showing is the fact that the company's operating subsidiaries extend to diversified non-metropolitan areas, which were less affected by the financial situation in the latter part of 1929.

"At the end of the year, readjusted industrial operations, though not as high as earlier levels, were generally above 1928 levels, as shown by figures for power consumption," President Martin J. Insull says in his annual report issued last night. "Sales of gas and electric labor-saving devices and lighting equipment during the year totaled $14,645,434, a gain of 14 per cent over sales in 1928. These appliances add to the continuing demand for electricity and gas, especially in the domestic field, and the benefits of the year's merchandising efforts will, as a consequence, be felt continuously in succeeding years."

Gross earnings of the subsidiary companies for 1929 totaled $162,337,274, an increase of $13,265,896, or 8.18 per cent over 1928. Net earnings accruing to Middle West Utilities were $17,529,347 and its own earnings brought its net income to $22,511,310.

This amount was equivalent, after preferred dividends, to $1.88 a share on an average of 8,396,345 common shares outstanding during the year, giving effect to the ten-for-one split-up late in the year. Net income for 1928 was $15,726,025, or $1.52 a share, figured on a comparable basis.

The recapitalization plan, completed in November, will result in a substantial reduction in interest and dividend charges having priority over common stock earnings, Mr. Insull says. At the annual meeting on March 25 the stockholders will be asked to increase the authorized common stock from 12,500,000 to 25,000,000 shares.

Customers served by Middle West Utilities subsidiaries numbered 1,648,257 at the end of 1929, compared with 1,587,905 at the end of 1928. Output of electricity increased more than 13 per cent last year and expenditures for new construction totaled $66,209,327.

Union Carbide Report

Other cheerful annual reports were issued by several corporations last night. Sales and profits of the Union Carbide and Carbon corporation increased last year in spite of the business recession late in the year. Net income for 1929 was $35,427,024, equivalent to $4.19 a share on an average of 8,453,723 shares of capital stock and to $3.94 a share on 8,981,581 shares outstanding at the end of the year. The old stock was split on a three-for-one basis during the year. Net income for 1928 was $30,577,382, or $3.46 a share on stock now outstanding.

The cost of construction, acquisition of new properties, and other capital expenditures last year amounted to $29,291,774 in cash and 30,000 shares of capital stock on the new basis. On Nov. 25, 1929, the company had 28,780 stockholders, compared with 13,954 on Dec. 7, 1928. The balance sheet as of Dec. 31, 1929, shows current assets of $128,882,434, current liabilities of $15,947,719 and surplus of $96,781,280.

Western Electric Sales Up.

The Western Electric company, manufacturing subsidiary of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, established new records last year in sales, output, number of employs and distribution of apparatus to telephone companies. Total sales were $410,950,000, an increase of 42.7 per cent over 1928. Production was expanded 67 per cent. Employs increased from 56,824 to 84,845 and total pay rolls exceeded $132,000,000.

During the year the company completed the development of radio apparatus for aircraft and installed its talking motion picture equipment in more than 3,000 theaters. Net earnings were $28,995,246, compared with $19,797,839 in 1928. The company's three year expansion program, which was begun last year, calls for expenditures totaling $110,000,000.

The Birtman Electric company reported net earnings of $316,061, equivalent after preferred dividends to $2.74 a share on 100,015 common shares, compared to $236,502, or $2.46 a share, in 1928.

Bank Deposits Reduced by New Competitive Forces

BY SCRUTATOR.

Because savings bank deposits were somewhat smaller last year than they were the year previous, it is not to be assumed that the savings habit is losing its grip on the American people.

For a number of years savings deposits in banks reporting to the comptroller of the treasury have shown an increase annually, until the neighborhood of twenty-eight billion dollars was reached at the peak. The recent falling off, not large in proportion, was due to competition for the savers' dollars.

Bankers like such deposits because they remain dormant for long periods. They would prefer to have them ever growing larger. Sales pressure by organizations outside the strictly banking field has done a great deal to defeat this hope.

Lists Causes of Drop.

C. O. Holmes, president of the Central Trust and Savings bank of Gary, has listed some of the reasons why savings deposits in banks are smaller. Some of the principal ones are: equity investing by hundreds of thousands of public utility customers who are personally solicited to buy stocks; increased investment by corporation employés in the corporations for which they work; huge sales of life insurance, and the growth of building and loan associations.

Mr. Holmes states that the life insurance companies collect in Indiana alone forty to fifty million dollars, of which about half is taken from current earnings and prevents old fashioned savings deposit growth. As for the building and loan associations, he finds that in Lake county, Indiana, alone they increased their total resources by more than two million dollars last year, which was not a particularly good one for such organizations.

Another banker is quoted as saying that since the leading firm in the industrial city he serves began permitting its employés to subscribe to stock hundreds of his savings depositors had been lost. Instead of making deposits they simply authorized the company to take from their weekly or monthly checks the payments on their shares. The necessity for banking service was thus cut down.

Double-Edged Tool.

The insurance money is a double-edged tool against unit banks, in that it flows back to seek investment in mortgages and, according to Mr. Holmes, cuts in on the bank's first mortgage business. Conservative as insurance companies are, they still have a greater leeway in long time placement of funds than have the banks.

All the trends mention are certainly in evidence. The h. it of saving still continues. The change is in where the savings are placed. With all the attractive opportunities that are presented the small investor, by insurance companies, building associations and stock salesmen, it is not to be wondered at that the savings bank has suffered some slight losses. It is rather a tribute to the bank's appeal that the loss has not been greater.

W. T. GRANT CO. INCOME SHOWS 10% INCREASE

Net income of the W. T. Grant company for the fiscal year ending Jan. 31, 1930, amounted to $3,057,750, equal to $2.58 a share on 1,185,580 shares of capital stock outstanding. This represents a gain of 10.3 per cent over the net of $2,759,750, or $5.12 a share on 538,900 shares outstanding at the end of the previous fiscal year, or $2.33 a share on the present capitalization. The balance sheet shows working capital of $9,001,853, current assets of $10,917,958 and current liabilities of $1,816,105, a ratio of 5.9 to 1.

FEDERAL ELECTRIC CO. ANNOUNCES PLANS FOR RECAPITALIZATION

Plans for a recapitalization of the Federal Electric company were made known by President John F. Gilchrist in his annual report to the stockholders. The company now has 20,586 preferred shares of $100 par value, 32,384 common shares of $100 par value, and $893,000 of debentures due Jan. 1, 1931. Accumulated preferred dividends now total about 108 per cent.

It is proposed to create 30,000 shares of $7 no-par preferred stock, 50,000 shares of $6 no-par cumulative prior preferred stock, and 50,000 no-par common shares. Each present preferred share would receive one share each of the new preferred shares, thus affording adjustment of back dividends. Part of the remaining prior preferred stock would be sold to provide funds to retire the debentures.

The company's net income for 1929 was $302,703, which was added to surplus and brought this item to $1,148,661. Net income for 1928 was $223,710.

Lay Foundations for New Blast Furnace at Hammond

Hammond, Ind., March 16.—(AP)—Foundations for a third blast furnace were started today at the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company in an expansion program which will double the harbor plant's capacity. The new furnace will be of the 250 ton type and plans call for construction of two more to bring the total of blast furnaces in Youngstown to five. Work is also being rushed on the new Merchant mills. The open hearths and soaking pits are now completed, and extensions to the ore docks are under construction with the new unloading bridge of the latest type already for operation.

Bond Market Plays Lead on Finance Stage

New York, March 16.—(AP)—Stimulated by increasing demand from banks, the bond market has pushed forward to the center of the financial stage. Bond circles are more optimistic than in many months and dealers are willing to say that the elusive period of rising prices seems to be definitely at hand.

The relaxation of credit since the stock market crash has reduced interest charges to the lowest level in several years. Until very recently, however, this downward tendency was reflected but fainly in the bond quotations, largely because the commercial banks had continued to sell securities. With these institutions out of the buying side of the market, it was impossible for the list to attain much breadth or depth, despite the improved inquiry from private investors and the support of insurance companies and trust funds, both of which, incidentally, had for some time been picking up bargains.

In the past fortnight, however, the banks have again displayed an interest in bonds. Having sold persistently since the early summer of 1928, which marked the pinnacle of the last bull market in coupon bearing securities, the banks began to nibble.

BANK RATE CUT IS REFLECTION OF CONDITIONS

But Is Not Market Regulator.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 16.—The incident in last week's markets which gave a somewhat new turn to financial discussion was the reduction of New York's bank rate to 2½ per cent.

On the stock exchange there was evident disposition to assume that the reduction would stimulate a market which had been showing reactionary symptoms. This may or may not be the result. Stock markets are apt to be encouraged, sentimentally at any rate, by official testimony to easy money, just as they usually dislike evidence from the same source that money is tightening. But too much stress can be laid on this influence in either direction.

If lowering or raising of the bank

Smoke Steals

See Combustioneer beat smoke with screenings. See today, this working job demonstration. Talk to the owner. We arrange everything within five minutes of your office.. Phone West 4321

Smoke means ill-will and bad business. Not only a nuisance but a waste. It not only offends the man on the street but the man who pays for coal. For smoke is nothing but unburned super fuel. Wasting it up the stack is no better than stealing it out of a freight car. Combustioneer automatic coal burning eliminates smoke. Yet it burns screenings, the lowest priced fuel in the world. Coal now takes its place in the front rank of clean, smokeless, odorless, automatic fuels. While it gives every service and satisfaction that gas or oil can deliver, Combustioneer heat costs less than even hand-fired coal. We offer to prove it in demonstration within five minutes of your office. Phone. We provide transportation free.

BUY NO DESK

Until You've Seen the Sensation of The Business Show

Buy no desk until you have seen Skyscraper, the new desk by Shaw-Walker. You'll marvel at the downright cleverness of it. You'll revel in the rich beauty of it. You'll be amazed at the organized features of it. And you'll gladly pay the moderate price asked for it. Your people, too, will thank you for an easier and better day's work

No wonder the Skyscraper Desk by Shaw-Walker was the sensation at the Business Show.

Every desk-interested person who saw it, whether office worker, executive, official, or professional man, admired the way in which it solves old-time desk problems.

It has a new kind of top—smooth and glove-like. No other desk can have it.

Each drawer is organized for the worker's special convenience. One drawer is your "waste basket." Another takes a flat-type interdepartmental telephone. Others hold trays for "In," "Out," and "Pending" mail. Others, special card files, visible indexes, pencils, pads, accessories, etc.

Come and see it, or send your man. Or mail the attached coupon for complete information. Shaw-Walker Company, 210 N. Michigan Ave. Telephone Randolph 8760.

BANK RATE CUT IS REFLECTION OF CONDITIONS

But Is Not Prime Factor in Market's Action.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

rate merely recognizes conditions already plainly visible in the open market it would be straining inference to argue that a subsequent rise in stocks was the consequence of the altered bank rate, and not of the preëxisting money situation. It would be quite as reasonable to insist that this year's earlier stock market recovery was caused by the treasury's reduction of the interest rate on its new nine months' borrowing to 3⅛ per cent, as against 5⅛ per cent a few months earlier.

Cites Previous Effect.

The highly spectacular character of the stock market which followed [though only after two or three months] the reduction of the reserve bank rate to 3½ in 1927, was given an edge both to stock exchange expectations and to criticism of the reserve bank's action. But few observers, if any, indulged in the same reasoning when the New York rate was put down to 3½ per cent in June, 1924 and to 3 in the ensuing August.

A vigorous and sustained advance in stocks began in the autumn of that year, but Wall street ascribed it, then and afterward, to very different causes from the unprecedentedly low bank rate. Indeed, the general run of comment at that time on the 3 per cent rate was that it merely emphasized the picture of trade reaction and relaxing use of credit. Wall street rates for secured time loans had been ruling at 2¾ per cent seven weeks before the bank rate was cut to 3, and they brought only 2½ per cent a fortnight before the reserve bank's action.

Evidently the bank had followed, not led, the outside money rate; it had recognized an existing situation, not created a new one.

Under Similar Circumstances.

Whether the reserve system did or did not go too far in 1927, after fixing a 3½ per cent rate, in taking $300,000,000 government securities from the open market and thereby releasing that much of tied up credit, at all events the lower bank rate followed an outside decline in money.

Will Discuss Rail Merger Developments Wednesday

LARGE EXPORT WHEAT TRADE SEEN UNLIKELY

Estimate Total Carryover at 250,000,000 Bu.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Indicated requirements of importing countries for the balance of the season, even on the basis of Broomhalls recently reduced estimate, are about equal to the amounts of wheat available in surplus producers other than the United States, and the end of the crop year may find the holding in Canada, Argentina, and Australia about normal, as the result of the Federal Farm board supporting the American market, and keeping domestic prices above a world's parity.

As long as the government supports the American wheat market there is little or no chance of a large export business developing, and based on the statistical position that prevailed on March 1 the United States will probably go into the new crop year with a total carryover of 250,000,000 bu or more, compared with the official estimate of 245,000,000 bu on July 1, 1929.

From a supply and demand standpoint the world's import takings for 1929-'30 should have equalled those of the previous year, but the total clearances are not expected to exceed 650,000,000 bu, or 265,000,000 bu less than the previous year, a reduction of nearly 33 per cent. Were accurate figures available as to the European crops it would probably be found that world's consumption has not been reduced this much.

World's exports for the season promise to be 100,000,000 bu below the 1910-'14 average, although the crop for 1929 is estimated at only 15,000,000 bu in excess of that period. On the basis of an increase of 50,000,000 bu annually the world should have increased its consumption 750,000,000 bu over the pre-war average, but the more the trade looks at the statistical position the more puzzled it becomes.

Increased production of wheat in the past few years has been due to some extent to an abnormal yield per acre, and there is a general belief that conditions in Europe this winter were not favorable for such a condition existing again this year. Canada is not likely to secure a crop much over average, based on the moisture received in the fall, and a major drought scare seems probable in that country before Aug. 1, due to lack of a subsoil reserve.

Few Bulls on Wheat.

The statistical situation is so well known now that it is an exception to find a bull on wheat, and to all intents and purposes sentiment is unanimously bearish the world over, although prices in Liverpool are probably the lowest in 15 years or more. The average trader is normally a bull, and this year the government is in the market and probably would not be adverse to a strong upward movement in prices.

Weather conditions in the southwest, over 50 per cent of the total winter wheat acreage of the country being in Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska, will be the determining factor in the market from now on. As the deferred deliveries near $1 it is to be expected that support will increase as the price has not dropped materially below that figure in 15 years.

July and September wheat sold at a new low for the season the past week due to drastic liquidation, and had it not been for government support the March and May would probably have touched a new low. The finish, while not at the bottom showed net losses of 4⅛@5⅝c for the week, with March closing at $1.02⅝@1.02⅝; May, $1.06⅝@1.06⅝, and July, $1.04⅛@1.04⅝. Range of prices during the week follows:

The Ace of Spades

By WILLIAM MACLEOD RAINE

SYNOPSIS.

Jim Rutledge, accompanied by Sim Hart, is sent out with a herd of cattle to fulfil a contract made by his father, Chandler Rutledge. On the trail they are overtaken by some men from the Moss outfit, enemies of Rutledge. The Moss men start a stampede and drive off some of the Rutledge cattle. Jim recovers them, but in doing so shoots and injures one of the Moss raiders. The men of the Moss outfit swear to be revenged for the injury and pursue Jim. Jim takes refuge in a ranch house, where he finds Ellen Lawson alone in the house. She hides him when the Moss men come to the house inquiring for him and sends them off on another trail, even though she learns that he has injured her brother. Jim rides on into the town, after saving Ellen from the unwelcome attentions of Pete Moss. Shear, the town marshal, determines to arrest him for the attack on Steve Lawson, but Harrison Pendleton, an old cow driver, arrives on the scene in time to save him from arrest. Shortly afterwards Jim kills Doc Brown, who he claimed had threatened his life. This causes a great deal of excitement in the little cattle town. Jim goes into the local gambling den and is astonished to find Ellen Lawson there. She tells him she has come to speak to her brother Steve. As they reach the table the lights go out, and when the room is again lighted Shear is found crumpled in his chair dead, with Jim's knife in him. Ellen's right hand is covered with blood. She had become separated from Jim in the dark and some one had jostled her. In putting out her hand for support she had touched the crumpled figure. Jim and Ellen are questioned by the sheriff, Manders, and Jim is arrested, but is later released. Jim is determined to find the murderer to clear himself. Ellen arranges a meeting to warn him against Dave Moss, and Jim learns that Moss is trying to force her to marry his son Pete. He suggests that she marry him. They are quietly married and Jim goes on with his investigation.

INSTALLMENT XLIII.
AN AGREEMENT.

Jim nodded. It was a plausible enough story and might be true.

"Are you trying to find out who the fellow was that brushed by you?" Pendleton asked bluntly.

"I'm sheriff, Pendleton," the officer returned curtly. "It's my business to find him. And if he turned out to be one of the Moss outfit I'd be right glad to put cuffs on him."

"You think he was one of them?" Jim asked.

"I think old man Moss or one of his gang did this job, and I'd certainly like to hang it on him."

"You don't mean you think old Dave did it personally?"

"Probably not. More likely had it done. If you asked me to put a name to the killer my first choice would be Buck Roe. It had to be some one with grit, some one cold blooded and nervy. Buck fits the specifications. He was braver Shear than any one else."

"That wouldn't matter—unless the boy detective here was near him too," Brown said, with a sly smile. "It all comes back to Rutledge. His knife did the job. Question is who had a chance to get the knife. When you are talking about me or Roe or Sam Moss or young Pete or you, Al, as suspects you have to remember that the guilty party had to find Rutledge's hogsticker in the dark and then find Shear. That's asking a good deal. The point is that the boy detective didn't have one of these difficulties to contend with. The knife was already found. Maybe he slipped up on the other one at that and did not kill the man he was after. Roe had threatened his life. Pete Moss was after his girl. He might have been trying to get either one or the other and in the darkness made a mistake."

The gambler grinned cheerfully at Jim. The smile meant: How do you like that, young fellow?

"Fact is, we're all three still under suspicion and each claims he didn't do it," Jim summed up. "My opinion is that none of us did, in spite of the evidence. Do you agree with that, gentlemen? Let's come clean."

"I've seen men hanged on less evidence than there is against you, Rutledge," the sheriff said bluntly. "But I don't think you killed Shear. Same goes as to Mart. I know I didn't."

"Why did you have yore boots reheeled then?" asked Pendleton brusquely.

"Because your young friend was getting warm and I didn't care to have any questions raised that would confuse the issue."

"How about you, Mr. Brown?" Jim asked.

"I can't claim the honor myself," Brown admitted lightly. "Sorry, but I can't tell a lie. Some one else did in Shear. I don't think Al did it. As to you, young fellow, suspicion certainly points a finger straight at you. But I'm an accommodating cuss. Like to oblige a friend. I'll vote not guilty, with the privilege of changing my mind if I find it necessary later. Will that do?"

"That'll do," Rutledge said. "I'm reserving that privilege myself about Blackbeard. My idea is that we should pool our efforts from this time and concentrate on the Moss outfit as suspects. In the bottom of our hearts we all think some of them did it. What say?"

"It's a deal," Brown flung out instantly.

"Still trying to be sheriff, Rutledge," the officer grumbled. "There's no way of heading you off. All right. I'm with you. It's understood any one of us can draw out if he serves notice."

From a pocket Jim drew an envelope. It contained a cloth button, one edge of which was marked with a white streak. The button was on a card-board, and underneath it was written neatly, "Exhibit 8."

"Mr Pendleton and Dr. Aubrey found this button on the ground outside the card room window of the Longhorn. It lay in one of the footprints, so it must have fallen there after the track was made."

"In which track?" Manders asked quickly.

"In the one of the unidentified man."

Brown, leaning against the table with his hands in his pockets, whistled softly. He was a man of imagination, and he was thinking that the button might hang a murderer.

"The button didn't come from the pirate costume," Jim said. "It was torn from some one's coat as he jumped up to get in the window. Caught on the ledge and rubbed the whitewash off where it caught. You're wearing the same clothes you were the night of the killing, Mr. Manders, and the buttons on yore coat are bone not covered by cloth. That proves you're not the man."

The brown eyes of the owner of the Green Parrot were alive with interest. "Good, you've struck a lead sure enough this time, young fellow. I give you good on that. You've proved the button came from the coat of the unknown man outside and that it was probably dragged off as he climbed in the window. By the way, the Longhorn is whitewashed, I reckon?"

"Yes," Pendleton told him.

"What was this fellow doing in the room? Why did he leave before the others came? He was killing Shear. That's what he was doing. Find the man wearing the coat this button came from and you've got the man you are looking for, Al." A quick excitement had come into the voice and manner of the gambler.

"Suppose the man missed the button and had a new set put on his coat," the sheriff suggested.

"Not likely. He wouldn't know where he had lost it. Very good chance he'd know it was loose before that night and was not surprised when he found it missing. Button, button, who's lost the button?" Brown misquoted gayly. "It's in my favorite game from today for a while."

As Jim walked down town with Pendleton the cattleman offered an opinion. "I still think Mart Brown killed Shear. Take his story to pieces. Is it likely two men were in the card room trying to kill Joe in the dark at the same time? We've got to believe that before we accept his story. He practically admits he had moved back of the marshal intending to get him."

"It's improbable," Jim agreed. "But this whole thing is full of improbabilities. One of them is that in this age a man would be walking the streets who had killed twenty-four men. He had enemies everywhere. Shear, I reckon. The chances are that this was the first time he had ever let himself be caught in a dark room filled with men."

Pendleton grunted, a grunt incredulous.

Jim let Mrs. Glen answer the knock on the door. These days he was being very watchful about such things. It would be easy for some one to stand back in the porch shadows and pump lead into his body as he stood in the light of the hall.

"Jim Rutledge in?" a voice asked.

At once Jim recognized the speaker. "Come right in Jerry," he called. "When d'you get back?"

Jerry Denver followed him into the sitting room. He clumped in on high heeled boots, but otherwise he was in "store clothes" except for his ten gallon hat.

"On the evening train. I had a man's work to do with a steak smothered in onions, but after that I came right up. Hear you've done gone and ruined a young lady's life."

Good morning!

We weren't liking Olive Borden on Saturday, were we? Well, Monday is another day and we find ourselves quite fond of her in "Hello, Sister."

Again we discover her as an ultra modern girl, but this time she's a square shooter—and a jazzbebby for only the first half of the picture. In the latter half, because of a clever arrangement made by her dearly beloved grandfather just before his death, she has discovered there are Better Things in life than Whoopee and found her mate in—but I shan't tell you that. Cast an eye on the cast, and you'll be able to guess—I guess. (Fine cast and splendid acting all the way through.)

This is an interesting and well done program picture with novelty twists and turns. For instance, never was there, I'm sure, such another church bazaar as the one presided over by Miss Borden and former cronies whom she has—yes, sir, and yes, ma'am!—blackmailed into rendering assistance. Nor, perhaps was there ever such another will as that made by old Fraser Newell.

I'm reasonably certain that "Hello, Sister" (adapted from the story "Clipped Wings," by Rita Lampert) will hand you a good time. If not—why not, I wonder.

This is another one of those films put out in sheep guise—with a bell in its title to attract sensation wolves. It has some good acting, some that is fair and some that is poor.

In intent the film is, it seems, propaganda against birth control, but a contemplated abortion is the cause of its excitement, and, as I understand it, abortion is not birth control.

The story is trite and not very interesting and the dialogue a bit pointless. Adele Ronson, Harry Davenport, Frances Underwood, and Frances Grant do the best work. Direction is not bad and sound and photography are all right.

"Her Unborn Child" is for adults only.

Pro Arte String Quartet of Brussels Plays in Chicago

BY EDWARD MOORE.

The Pro Arte string quartet is another organization whose members devote their lives to the lofty if at times tenuous atmosphere of chamber music. When they are at home their address is Brussels, Belgium, but their travels carry them over a large amount of territory. One of their stopping places was the Studebaker yesterday afternoon.

Three quartets made up their program. The first, Beethoven's opus 74, No. 10, described on the program as being in the key of E sharp major, was followed by Schumann's third, in the key of A, and that by Debussy's G minor, opus 10. These they played with painstaking care in the way of phrasing with a tone which, while fairly good, was not ideal in warmth of tone color or exactness of intonation.

George Mulfinger, former Chicagoan, made one of his visits back home yesterday to play a piano recital at the Playhouse. He was an excellent pianist when he returned from Europe a few seasons ago, and to the extent that he has ripened and matured, he is a better one now. He is diverse enough in his outlook to be able to play the Schumann "Phantasie" in the broad lines that its logic demands and follow it with a Chopin group of beautifully detailed and fanciful performance. Being a composer as well as pianist, Mr. Mulfinger introduced his own "Childhood Memories," but this came at a time in the program when it was impossible to be present.

Fritz Renk began his violin recital at the Civic theater by playing Sylvio Lazzari's sonata with John Wiederhirn at the piano, a number which people looking for a violin and piano sonata might well add to their lists. It is somewhat long, but it is interesting and well written, a little in the Cesar Franck manner. The two artists played it breezily, with a good deal of manner and excellent tone. Mr. Renk followed it with the second of the Vieuxtemps concertos and that with some pieces of lesser dimensions.

The Chicago People's Symphony orchestra reached the sixth of its series of concerts under the direction of P. Marinus Paulsen at the Eighth Street theater. The symphony was Schubert's "Unfinished," which was played in a manner indicating the balance and quality of tone that comes from discipline. The soloists were Hilda Eppstein, a young pianist of marked talent, in Rachmaninoff's second concerto, Sophia Paskewicz, soprano, in the Flower Song from Gounod's "Faust" and Schubert's "Serenade," and Tommy Herbert, violinist, who played Saint-Saens' third concerto.

The Question.

Do you prefer the old time songs or the new ones?

The Answers.

Miss Agnes Dunne, 4421 Malden street, assistant bookkeeper—I like both. I like the old songs because I know them and the new because they are different. I like all kinds of music, when played or sung by a musician.

Joseph J. Samac, 350 East 26th street, waiter — The new songs are better, because they are snappier. Movie houses are featuring the new songs, putting the words on the screens and the people take an interest in singing them. The old songs are hardly in keeping with modern youth.

F. W. Checkal 3453 North Leavitt street, chemist—I prefer the old songs because there is more feeling and more melody in them. They have better lasting qualities. They will live for years after most of the new ones are gone.

Miss Anne Reilly, 617 South East avenue, Oak Park, bookkeeper — I love both the old and the new, but the old ones seem to bring back fond memories. The new tunes impress us now because we have a different view of life.

Miss Mildred Blum, 528 South Lawndale avenue, home girl —I prefer the new ones, and for the reason that as with everything else the new is better. There are new improvements in radios, automobiles —everything. And that is the way it is with songs.

Celts to Honor St. Patrick by Services Today

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Sons and daughters of Erin will see to it today that the memory of St. Patrick is kept green. Chicago's celebration will be widespread, beginning with services this morning in St. Patrick's church, Adams and Des Plaines streets, where Irish leaders traditionally gather on March 17. The observances will close late tonight with jig and reel and Celtic song.

Judge Daniel Cohalan of New York will substitute for Mayor "Jimmie" Walker, who was scheduled to attend several of the largest gatherings on the day's program. The judge will be the chief speaker at the Irish Fellowship club dinner tonight at the Palmer house, and will make a brief appearance at the White City festivities, under the auspices of the United Celtic-American societies. Moving pictures of modern Ireland will be shown at the White City hall, the thirtieth consecutive affair of its kind, and a queen of beauty will be crowned.

Irish Republicans will celebrate at the 121st Infantry armory, 16th street and Michigan avenue. Eamonn de Valera is expected to attend and to lead the grand march.

Many of the departments in the city hall and the county building will be closed today. An exception will be the tax operations department, in the county building, where the law forbids a holiday.

Judge John P. McGoorty will be the speaker at a luncheon at the Sherman hotel at noon, sponsored by the Junior Association of Commerce.

Miss Helen M. Ganey, dean of women at Loyola university, will present a lecture this evening at the Convent of the Cenacle, 513 Fullerton parkway. Colored slides taken by the lecturer on a trip abroad will illustrate the talk.

At St. Mel's auditorium, 4315 West Washington boulevard, the Rev. Joseph Lonergan, past national chaplain of the American Legion, will give an address as one feature of the St. Patrick's day entertainment there.

Festivities will be staged in the Steuben club by members of the German Club of Chicago. A stag smoker has been planned, with a buffet luncheon served in German style, as one of the attractions.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

FOR ten years running that one time deft and dapper dancer, George White, has contributed a revue to the gayety of the nation. His annual "Scandals" has always been rated a triple star among the luxurious and spectacular revels of Broadway.

This season's contribution, which has the celebrant air of a tenth birthday party, is no exception. It is a first rate "Scandals." Some revues are more comic than the typical "Scandals"; others are more ingenious; still others are more voluptuous in perfumed sensuality. But Mr. White's flair for dancing in any style that may be current in the cabarets and dance halls always gives a special tone to a "Scandals." Above everything else they are shows that pulse with swift and intricate rhythms.

So in this "Scandals" you will find plenty of brilliant stepping. Most of the young odalisques whom Mr. White parades before the tired sultans of American commerce and industry are experts in all the crazy motions that can be made by the female leg. Some of them vary the routine by dancing on their hands as well as their feet; and as they wave their magnificent thighs aloft they are, indeed, a bizarre exhibition, suggesting some new form of mammal as yet unclassified by the zoölogists. One group, the Abbott girls (said to have been born and bred in Chicago), distinguishes itself by executing a tap dance on its toes for the first time in terpischorean history.

The dancing number upon which this "Scandals" bears down the hardest—Mr. White's latest invention, "Bottoms Up"—is not, however, anything to get excited about. It is merely a mild synthesis of the various wriggles, in every area of the anatomy above the ankles, which characterize the folk-dancing of the black-and-tan belts. Its novelty derives mainly from its background—Ethiopian jazzers eighteen feet tall, manufactured of papier maché—a kind of gargantuan wax-works. They move their heads and hands and pretend to tootle their horns. This is something new in revue stagecraft, and its effect is quite phantasmagoric.

The show contains other examples of this rococo giantism. A slender, white-limbed creature named Marietta is served up for her dance, decoratively undressed, in the lap of a monstrous gorilla, twenty-four feet tall and as sinister of aspect as the property man could make him. His eyes roll at the spectacle of Marietta's eurhythmic loveliness, and when she comes to rest in the palms of his hands, he lifts her toward his muzzle. Which might suggest that the revues have flirted with jungle stuff so long that they are becoming anthropoid of instinct.

The leaders of the frolic are Willie Howard [with his faithful brother, Eugene, in tow as usual] and Frances Williams. Willie functions freely in the sketches, which are the usual brevities of suggestive anecdote, dealing with conjugal treacheries; and Frances, a vivid blonde lady with an angular but attractive style, sings in the night-life mode. She has become so expert in disharmonics that she can sing slightly off pitch all night and make you like it.

The others may be passed by hurriedly with the comment that they are well enough for this revue—all but the team of Mitchell and Durant. They add something to the repertory of acrobatic buffoons. One is a tall, husky and the other is a short husky, and they run through the complete catalog of rough stuff, stopping only this side of mayhem. They fall faster and harder than Phil Scott, and are never reluctant to kick one another in the jaw. Their disorderly conduct was uproariously approved last night.

The girls run to the Nordic type, and are worthy of a connoisseur's scrutiny. Mr. White spreads a tribe of them out on a beach, to take their sun tan treatment, in one number, and although they wear nothing but the "rather less than half of that" of Gunga Din, the effect is not likely to alarm a policewoman.

This "Scandals" hangs up a record by doing more with one number than many another show has done with a full score. "Bigger and Better Than Ever" is the theme song, and until the first act is nearly over you will believe that the rest of the sheet music has been mislaid in a baggage car.

Says Planet 'X' May Be One of the Earth Series

Star Gazer Explains Why It Isn't Any Brighter.

Princeton, N. J., March 16.—[Special.]—Offering a possible explanation of the faintness of the new planet "X" which recently was discovered, Prof. John Q. Stewart of the astronomy department at Princeton university said in an interview here tonight that the new planet might not be a member of the Jupiter group, but a fifth member of the earthlike series. This would account for the planet having a greater density than Prof. Lowell had supposed, and with the same mass it would have less area and brightness.

In addition, if the low temperature of its environment prevents the existence of a gaseous atmosphere, the reflecting power of "X" might be much less than previously assumed, according to Prof. Stewart.

"At the very end of his classical memoir," said Prof. Stewart, "Lowell—having correctly predicted, as we now think, the position of planet 'X,' and having computed its mass as about 40 per cent that of Neptune or seven times the earth's—was faced with the necessity of assigning 'X' to one of the two groups of planets in our solar system. He chose, presumably without giving the matter much thought, to assume that 'X' was like Jupiter and Neptune. This decision was a trifle in comparison with the monumental study he had completed.

"Accordingly, the density of 'X' was taken as low and its reflecting power ['Algedo'] high. Elementary slide rule computations then indicated that the brightness of 'X' ought to be between the twelfth and thirteenth magnitude."

"But announcement of the discovery through the astronomical clearing house at Harvard states that the planet really is of the fifteenth magnitude, nearly a score of times fainter," Prof. Stewart continued. "The discrepancy is insignificant when placed beside the major agreement with observation of Lowell's prediction of the position, but to account for it is an interesting problem.

"One possible supposition accounting for the faintness of the new planet was suggested by Prof. Dugan of the Princeton astronomy department—that the object actually seen has only a fraction of the total mass which Lowell found was disturbing Uranus, and that other ultra-Neptunian planets will account for the remainder."

On the assumption that the new planet is of relatively high density and low reflecting power, Prof. Stewart calculated that the mass of the new planet is seven times that of the earth.

New Planet Sighted Through Telescope at Williams Bay

Through the forty inch telescope of Yerkes observatory at Williams Bay, University of Chicago astronomers last night sighted the new trans-Neptunian planet, the discovery of which was recently announced by Harvard university astronomers at Flagstaff, Ariz.

Prof. George Van Biesbroek, director of Yerkes observatory in the absence of Prof. Edwin B. Frost, announced that his staff had obtained photographs of the new plant, which is, in round figures, four billion miles from the earth. These photographs will be forwarded to the university today.

"How this new planet escaped observation all these years is easily apparent," said Prof. Van Biesbrock. "It is so extremely faint that under the closest observation, its movement is scarcely discernible and hence it has every appearance of a fixed star."

The astronomer said that during this week he will endeavor to compute the size of the new planet and its distance from the earth and sun. Atmospheric conditions last night were unfavorable for observations on which to base such computations, he said.

Coming Shows Make Society Garden Minded

BY THALIA

With two garden shows in the offing, the fourth annual Chicago garden and flower show at the Sherman, from March 28 to April 5, and the central states show at the Stadium, beginning April 5, the garden clubs and the garden departments of the various women's clubs interested are decidedly garden-minded at this time.

Most of the leading spirits in the Lake Forest Garden club and the Junior Garden club are away, but that doesn't mean that nothing is being done in the way of preparations.

The Junior Garden club, organized last winter by some of the younger married women in Lake Forest, is to have a preliminary contest of its own, and the winner will enter her creation in the central states show at the Stadium. Mrs. Edward K. Welles, president of the club, is still in Florida, but she's expected back by April 1.

The Riverside Garden club, of which Mrs. Henry Faurot is president, is having a meeting this week at Beach hall. John C. Wister of Philadelphia, president of the American Iris society, is to speak on "Iris."

Mrs. Faurot writes from Pasadena that she will surely be back before the garden show. The club is to enter a garden gate designed by Mrs. H. M. Ihlan; three tables, to be set by Mrs. Henry Babson, Mrs. Harry Fuller, and Mrs. T. P. McClory; and a living room flower arrangement to be done by Mrs. James B. McDougal.

Mrs. Charles Norton Goodwin is in Florida for a month after a visit in Washington, where she said goodbye to her friends. Sir Esme and Lady Howard, who are retiring from the embassy to the United States. Late in April Mr. and Mrs. Goodwin will be again at their Lake Forest home, Ample Green.

Through the generosity of Albert B. Dick, the Lake Forest college athletes will henceforth ride to the scenes of their contests in a handsome red and black bus. Mr. Dick has presented his Pierce-Arrow touring car, and the latest type 16 passenger bus body is being installed on the chassis. The bus is to be used to transport all teams but the football team, and is to make its debut on April 21, when it will take the baseball team to the University of Chicago.

About twenty north shore maids and matrons are to act as models in the style show to be given this afternoon at the Winnetka Woman's club for the benefit of the Northwestern University settlement. Mrs. John Hosier, Miss Edith Kohlsaat, Mrs. Harry Wells and Mrs. Norton Knode are among those who will give luncheons preceding the affair. Mrs. Warren W. Shoemaker is chairman of arrangements.

Dr. L. H. Wetmore, who was to have given one of the series of Lenten talks being sponsored by the Chapel Guild of the Cenacle this afternoon, has met with a serious automobile accident and is unable to come to Chicago. Theodore Maynard, English author, is to take his place, and will speak on "The Masculinity of Irish Poetry."

The Junior Friends of Art is to hold its March meeting tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 o'clock in the tower ballroom of the Drake. The program will include "Songs from the Old to the New," sung by Marie Morrisey and Leslie Arnold, and a talk on "Music in Its Many Phases, Especially That of Voice Culture," by Dudley Buck.

The Chicago Historical society has issued announcements of an address by the Rev. Frederic Sidenburg, S. J., dean of Loyola university, on "Father Louis Hennepin," to be given on Friday evening at 8 o'clock at the society's building.

The group of girls who have promised to usher at the recital of Agatha Lewis and Arthur Landers, sponsored by the Musical guild on Friday evening at Kimball hall, includes Marianne Stevenson, Narcissa Swift, Carol and Emeline Bush, Martha Fitts, Louise Lackner, Betty Parker, and Margaret Emily Lynde.

Mrs. Stephen Y. Hord of Lake Forest was to have returned last week from California, but her father, Frederick F. Norcross, was ill, so she stayed on.

Mrs. Robert H. Morse of 179 Lake Shore drive will give a luncheon next Saturday at the Stevens for her daughter, Barbara, and two of the latter's classmates at Stonelieigh, Rye Beach, N. Y.: Miss Jane Troxell of Bronxville, N. Y., and Miss Betty Stroiz of St. Paul. The girls are to arrive tomorrow for their spring holiday.

The Junior auxiliary of the Evanston chapter of the Southern Women's Educational Alliance is planning a rummage sale to raise money for the support of a mountain counselor. It is to be on March 27 at 623 Grove street, Evanston. The young women who will manage the sale include Margery Riach, Isabelle Fitts, Virginia Avery, Elizabeth Watkins, Nancy Ainsworth, Frances Murray, Gwendolyn Jones, and Betty Putman.

The Sunbeam league has decided to hold its annual card party and tea on April 12 at the Stevens hotel. Miss Virginia Erlandson gave a tea at her residence in Evanston one day last week for the board and members of the social committee to discuss the plans and to begin sending out tickets. Mrs. Herbert Hedman of Winnetka is chairman of the prizes this year and Mrs. Otto Mast is in charge of the advertising.

Krishnamurti Here; Tells Why He Quit the Theosophists

Chicago looked upon Jiddu Krishnamurti three years ago for the first time through a fog of flashlight powder as swarms of followers hailed him. Yesterday the slim young Hindu, so lately credited by his adherents with superhuman powers, slipped into the city almost in solitary state. And only a single flashlight boomed between the train steps and his taxi door. Welcoming committees were absent.

For Krishnamurti walks no longer in the character of a mystic prophet, credited by his foster mother, Dr. Annie Besant, with being the instrument through which the Messiah would some day speak to humanity. His symbolism to the thousands of Theosophists throughout the world is a thing of the past, and that by his own decision and his own act.

Last night, at a meeting in the Hotel Sherman, he gave his own reasons for the mandate he issued disbanding the Order of the Star of the East, of which he was the particular and definite guide.

"You cannot have an organization of the spirit," was the assertion on which he based his own position. "Each individual should attain the fullest development of his own capabilities through his own experiences, which will bring him to the perfect balance between love and reason that constitutes the zenith of his powers. An organization means merely that its members are cast in the type and pattern of those who direct the organization.

"I decided for myself that this life is my greatest happiness. I want to teach. I do not want followers. I do not want a bank account."

Krishnamurti will leave this morning to spend some time in California.

Money Presented Hospital to Honor Its Treasurer

New York, March 16.—[Special.]—As a tribute to Ben Altheimer of St. Louis for his thirty years' service as treasurer of the National Jewish hospital at Denver, a group of his friends today presented a testimonial fund of $30,000 to the hospital for him. Altheimer replied to the testimonial gift by adding $5,000 out of his own pocket. Dr. William S. Friedman, founder and present president of the hospital, announced the $35,000 would be used as the nucleus of a building fund.

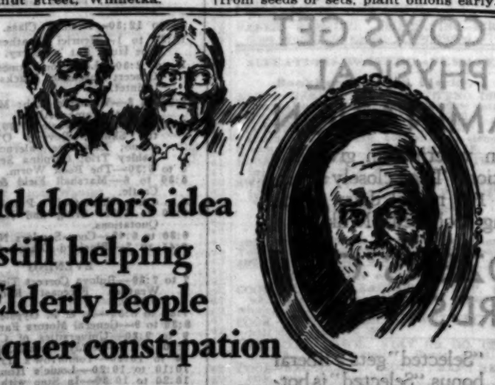
FARM AND GARDEN BY PAUL POTTER

Onions can be grown from seeds, if one is an experienced gardener or wants to take the trouble. But sets are so easy and so sure to succeed that most home gardeners would do well to use them. With sets, about all one has to do is to get them in right side up and early—very early, just as soon as the ground can be worked.

If large, mature bulbs are wanted, space the sets three or four inches apart in the rows. But if green onions are used, set them thicker and pull out every other one for eating young. Spacing one inch apart gives a first thinning, when they are about an inch in diameter, gives material for pickles or for stewing and the remainder are some four inches apart left to mature.

The sets are covered with earth just barely over the tip. Rows should be far enough apart for cultivation between.

Ebenezer is an especially tasty variety for the home garden. It is mild and sweet and grows well from sets. It is too late when grown from seeds, however, unless the seeds are sown indoors and the seedlings transplanted. If seeds are to be sown in the open, Yellow Globe Danvers variety is better. Once more now, and most particularly whether they are to be grown from seeds or sets, plant onions early.



Old doctor's idea still helping Elderly People conquer constipation

DR. CALDWELL made a startling discovery shortly after he graduated from medical school back in 1875. He found great numbers — especially older men and women—suffering from constipation, who were taking harsh laxatives and purgatives. So he concluded that many things people take for constipation do more harm than good, and physicians of today are of the same opinion.

This thought made Dr. Caldwell conduct a search, and out of it came the prescription which made him famous. Over and over he wrote it, when he found people bilious, headachy, out-of-sorts, weak or feverish; with coated tongue, bad breath, no appetite or energy. Its action was so thorough even in the most obstinate cases, and yet so gentle with women and children.

The product you get from your drug store, today, when you ask for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is put up exactly in accordance with this prescription. It has become the world's most popular laxative. It is a pleasant tasting mixture of fresh herbs and other pure ingredients; it is a real corrective for constipation for men, women and children.

Son of D. L. Moody Says Science, Art Can't Instill Morals

Education, art or science will not make a nation or a person moral, according to W. R. Moody, son of Evangelist Dwight L. Moody. He spoke last night before the Sunday Evening club in Orchestra hall. Dr. Moody is the president of the Northfield, Mass., schools. He is in Chicago to give a series of lectures before the Presbyterian Theological seminary. His father's tomb is on the school property at Northfield on a hill called Roundtop.

"The fact that the largest number of people in the world's history are enrolled in institutions of higher learning today does not mean that selfishness, pride and covetousness are being eradicated," Dr. Moody said. "Science, art and altruism, all good in themselves, have failed to effect moral regeneration. The art of Greece did not save the nation's moral life."

Dr. Moody declared that the daily press confirms all that publicists and observers say about present day restlessness. Social, industrial and national evils indicate the urgency of present need.

"The power of the old gospel for the needs of humanity is what it once was," Dr. Moody said. "Christ's touch still has its ancient power to heal the hearts of men."

Bishop Herbert Welsh of the Methodist Episcopal church, Pittsburgh area, formerly of Korea, gave the sermon of the evening.

Colored Society Objects to 'Pickaninny' and 'Negress'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 16.—Exception was taken today to the use of the words "darkey" and "pickaninny" to designate American Negroes as well as the use of the racial name without capitalization.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People announced that such words are as objectionable as the term "nigger."

"Negress" also was objected to because it was the term used for colored women sold on the auction block during slavery days.

Maple Sirup.

In the season when heavy frosts at night are succeeded by a dazzling sun in the daytime, every one who has lived in the neighborhood of the sugar maple trees is reminded that this is the weather to make the sap run. It is astonishing how many people there are in editorial chairs who are thus reminded and have given a leading place in their columns to the subject of making maple sirup.

All through the history and literature of these United States we may run across passages describing the tapping of the trees and the making of maple sirup or sugar during the months of February, March, and even into April in the more northern zones, or in Canada. John Burroughs called it a "fascinating pursuit," half work and half play, and described the shadowy figures of the maple orchards and the fire over which the boiling sap was being reduced to the sweet sirup or sugar.

The maple sugar season really initiates the camping season of the year. In the older time the people who went to the maple groves took along the equivalent of a simple camping outfit. A huge kettle was swung gypsy-fashion over a fire built on the ground just as soon as the tap trees had yielded sufficient sap.

For most of us today the only way to make a maple sirup, if we do not buy the genuine thing straight from a sugar maple orchard, is to get the sugar, dissolve it in water, and cook it down to the sirup stage. Break up the sugar, add to it one-third of its measure of water, dissolve it, and then cook it, stirring all the time until it boils. Then skim and boil for about a minute. Finally strain, and it is ready for the morning pancake. There are two ways of measuring the sugar, but the best is to weigh it and take one-third its weight of water. Another way is to take a pint measure, fill it one-third full of water, then drop in the sugar until it is filled.

In the Elevator.

Although my husband is 72 years of age, he is continually playing jokes.

The other afternoon I accompanied him down town to the county building. As soon as the elevator started—I must add I weigh over 200 pounds—my husband, with a serious look on his face and in a stage whisper that could be heard by all, asked the elevator operator:

"Where is the marriage license bureau?"

Immediately smiling eyes were turned upon me, and as we stepped out of the elevator one young man yelled to me: "Good luck to you, kid!"

Pauline Palmer's Paintings Shown at Carson Pirie Scott

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

One of the most brilliant exhibitions of the winter opened Saturday in the Carson Pirie Scott galleries. The paintings are by Pauline Palmer, who needs no introduction, as her unique personality and superb versatility with a brush have made both herself and her work notable in Chicago. This exhibition adds fuel to the flames of appreciation, already fired beyond a glow. The paintings go back to her earlier period, reference is intended to her "A Rainy Day," an exquisite scene in which white and gray predominate, and follow through to portraits and landscapes completed this year.

As a portrait painter Mrs. Palmer is extremely popular. Particularly delightful are her paintings of children, and here are some seven canvases to give cause to her fame. From an infant of a few months to the child of twelve in dressup, "Ready for the Party," these portraits are sincere, are delightful, and are faithful representations. The portraits of Shirley Krum and Charles Krum, the children of Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. Krum, and of Mary Constance Bull and Dickey Bull, the children of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bull, are fascinating.

Then to prove that age is no obstacle, Mrs. Palmer submits a stunning portrait of Miss Flora Cook of the Francis Parker school, and a subtle and intriguing portrait of an artist friend, a man, Arthur Woelfle. Her figure studies have their charm. Extremely graceful is the girl in the "Green Gown," a fragrance of crushed rose leaves comes in the train of "The New Book," and the jingle of castenets treads hard upon the heels of the "Concertina Player."

The few still lifes are well chosen and each in turn is beautifully composed and beautifully executed. Mrs. Palmer is a craftsman, a painter with a seeing eye and a wise inner vision that turns to the best account even the smallest details of an arrangement. Witness the "Porcelain Statuette" and "A Bit of Color" and the "Still Life, Number 40." Also in the two interiors, "The Golden Altar," a magnificent canvas, and the "Studio, Provincetown," see what she can do with greater space and more diversified action.

Spanish Envoy Calls Music Language All Nations Can Interpret

Washington, D. C., March 16.—(AP)—Music was hailed today by Ambassador Padilla of Spain as "the great universal language" in a radio address in which he expressed the wish for an international written language such as music.

"Seven little notes," the ambassador said, "combined in different ways, are understood and interpreted in the same way by the most distant and different countries."

THE FIRST TIME YOU TASTE PEBECO

You'll be aware of a different feeling—you'll know this toothpaste is working. Not the sweet, meaningless flavor of most dentifrices. But a sharp, refreshing tang . . . distinctive, active! Perhaps at first you may not like it—but it definitely assures you that it is doing its job. In a week you will be grateful. While cleaning and whitening the teeth, Pebeco actually counteracts the mouth acids which cause decay. Isn't this extra result alone worth your week's trial? NOW—Advt.

GENERAL HINES PROMISES VETS BETTER SERVICE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 16.—[Special.]—World war veterans in Chicago and Illinois were given assurance today that the government's facilities for their service will be greatly improved with the grouping of all veterans' bureau activities at the Edward Hines Jr. hospital at Hines, Ill., near Maywood.

Prompted by a number of protests from Chicago ex-service men's organizations against the proposal to remove the Illinois regional offices of the bureau, now at 111 North Canal street, to the outlying location, Representative James T. Igoe [Dem., Ill.] has conducted a personal investigation into the plan, interviewing Director Frank T. Hines and other officials of the bureau.

Other States Cited.

Gen. Hines told Mr. Igoe that he felt certain the consolidation of the bureau's agencies at Hines will work out satisfactorily for all concerned, including the veterans themselves. Such consolidations already have been carried out in five states successfully in line with the policy of combining scattered field agencies, he said.

The bureau's general plan is to make the Edward Hines Jr. hospital the pivotal part of a new institution to be known as the United States Veterans' bureau, Hines, Ill. The Canal street offices will be moved to Hines, the new center becoming a bureau incorporating every character of service, including a diagnostic and central dental laboratory.

Loop Office Promised.

Mr. Igoe pointed out to Director Hines that protests had arisen chiefly over the fact that the Canal street office is to be removed, forcing Chicago veterans to make a long trip to Hines. The director met this objection with a promise that a service station will be maintained at a convenient place in the loop area with adequate facilities to handle minor cases and routine matters.

LADY COVENTRY DIES THREE DAYS AFTER HUSBAND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 16.—Death terminated more than half a century old romance of two of England's most beloved characters today when Lady Coventry died at the age of 87, just three days after the death of her 91 year old husband, Lord Coventry. Lady Coventry will be buried the same time as her husband tomorrow at Croome church in Worcestershire, near the Croome court estate, where they celebrated their diamond wedding anniversary five years ago.

Lady Coventry was the second daughter of the earl of Craven. She was as keenly interested in sports as her husband and was always at his side wherever he went. She was noted for her work for the Red Cross and other charities. When her husband died of heart trouble she collapsed, becoming steadily worse until her end early this morning.

Lord Coventry was a typical John Bull type and was known as the grand old man of the turf. He never missed either the Derby or the Ascot races in 70 years, and the last word he understood on his deathbed was the fact that his horse, Black Minstrel, had won a race at Cheltenham Wednesday.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: The Unstrung Harp

Sunday Is Rich in Outpourings of Radio Music

New World Symphony by Dvorak Is Offering.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

There is much high class entertainment on the radio every Sunday. My Monday morning jottings concern only a few drops in the great bumper of musical outpourings.

The principal work performed by the Chicago Symphony orchestra, Frederick Stock conducting, through W-G-N, 2 to 3 o'clock, was Dvorak's "New World" symphony. Being a symphony jewel with which no one ever tires, it was an inspiration to hear this great orchestra, in its best mood, unfold the beauties in it. The largo section is as dear to many of us as any old time song.

The Musical Melange concert, W-G-N, 4:45 to 5:30, featured exclusively the works of a woman composer, Mme. Machilde von Oestereh Moody. It was of professional concert stage consequence. Orchestral excerpts were played by the W-G-N Symphony orchestra, Gaston du Moulin conducting. Soprano solos were sung by Helen Thomas Bucher, who is one of the best singers heard on the air, and the bass solos were sung by the well known oratorio interpreter, Mark Love. All of the compositions revealed depth of thought and feeling, pleasing melodic lines, and full colorful and rather complex scorings, this applying to the orchestral works and to the accompaniment for the songs.

It was profitable to hear the talk on "Fear," by the Rev. Walton E. Cole, W-G-N, 4:30 to 4:45. "Babies have two chief fears," he said; "one is the fear of falling and the other the fear of a big noise."

Edward Johnson, Metropolitan tenor on the New York orchestral concert through W-G-N, 8:15 to 9:15, was the outstanding evening program. His hit was in songs with humor and merriment in them. "Kangaroo" [Edward German] was a new one to me, and a good one. The orchestra played Leo Sowerby's rhapsodic version of the classic fiddle piece, "The Irish Washerwoman."

Good Looking Boy Wonders Why Girls Don't Gather 'Round

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Melancholy Me," the 19 year old boy signs himself to a true story confession of his inability to attract the girls. M. M. has pearly white teeth, beautiful blonde curly hair and nice features, but with all these assets, he confides, the girls ignore him. He does not dance, because when he was learning he found it rather difficult to get a partner and so became disgusted at parties and repaired to the spot where the drinks were.

"I am a witty conversationalist," M. M. writes. "My clothes are neat and, in my estimation, my general appearance is good."

The general appearance does check up well, we agree. And while a boy's appearance does matter a great deal to girls, still it is not everything. It's a good head-on start. But appearance has to be backed with a number of things in order to have the girls crowding 'round.

One gets an apprehensive start when a person, man or girl, lists among his or her assets that one about being a witty conversationalist. Somehow, you gather the suspicion that the claim is unfounded, because really witty conversationalists are unaware of their gift, or else they are modest about it. And it is one asset on which one should be modest. Otherwise, the witty conversationalist becomes a horrible bore.

Right in that little confession might be the reason why girls shun M. M. It is so difficult for the young to differentiate between wit and smart-alecky conversation. And the smart-aleck, male or female, is not a popular person. Combined with an inflated value of one's appearance, it could easily be seen why girls would shun the nuisance. However, a confident bearing is not ordinarily a handicap.

One thing sure, there is some reason why a good looking boy does not make a hit with girls. And it is reasonable to suppose his manner is at fault. If he cannot figure it out for himself, he ought to throw himself on the mercy of some kind friend to learn the reason. That abandoning oneself to the drink center does not sound well. It indicates a weak, weak spot in character makeup. Anyway, M. M., believe that there must be something not quite right in your manner and do not rest content until you find out what it is.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Useless to Try.

"Dear Miss Blake: I love a fellow who showed plainly he loved me, and now he always fools around with another girl. I cannot give him up. Please advise. ETHEL."

It's useless to try, Ethel. The other girl has attracted him, and at present his interest lies in her.

Found Another Friend.

"Dear Miss Blake: I have a boy friend for whom I care a great deal. I went away for a short while, when I returned he had another friend, and doesn't pay me any attention any more. Please advise. M."

Boys must have diversion in the meantime, and that may lead to making new friends, forgetting the old ones.

Weed Out Books That Terrify Your Children

The following booklets by Mrs. Bevans will be sent free on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope: "Books to Be Read to Children or by Them," "Sex Education Booklet," and "Play Booklet." A book on the care of babies by Carolyn Conant Van Blarcom can be had at The Tribune Public Service Office, 1 South Dearborn street, for 50 cents, or by mail for 54 cents.

Part of a letter about a 4 year old boy reads: "There seem to be so many little poems and pictures calculated to frighten a sensitive child into a bad state of nerves, and my boy pores over these and asks the most piteous questions. He has recently been afraid of all manner of things in the dark and would lie awake for hours talking to himself, trying to frighten away the 'sops'—some fearful imaginary creatures."

It is only too true that there are many poems, stories and pictures in children's books which are strange or fearful, and which have a terrifying effect upon children.

Some react to this by turning the page quickly or refusing to have the book read a second time. Others, like this little boy, are fascinated at the same time that they are repulsed. Perhaps their questions are asked in a piteous endeavor to have the evil exorcised for them by elaborate explanations.

We might expect to find such stories, poems and pictures in old books for children. But strangely enough, we find them in some of the newest and most expensive books gotten out today. Because an artist has gained acclaim is reason enough, with a few publishers, to pass his work for children. When every publisher might have the services of a person experienced in childhood's susceptibilities or those of a practical psychologist, it is inexcusable for any one of them to put out a book with any terrifying material—textual or pictorial—in it. Yet several such books have come into my hands recently, one by a gifted artist and writer whose earlier book was a wholesome delight.

There is only one way for those in charge of children to protect them against such influences. That is not to take anybody's word for a book—well, scarcely anybody's! Many reviewers of children's books have not the first hand contact with children which is the only basis for detailed judgment in this particular respect. Look first over every book you read to your young children, to spare them these distresses which are often real shocks to them.

Pink Combines with Red in Smart Evening Gown

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—Cabareting around Paris is its own reward these first spring evenings, for there are many smart people in the night clubs, and their fashionable costumes are high lights on Paris fashions. Paris dressmakers in their first spring fashion shows started opposing waist and skirt against each other by contrasting the color scheme of things, and the fashionable noctambules have taken this up, providing an important place for color contrasts in the midnight sun of chic.

Vionnet is one Paris couturier who loves to play one color against another, and who does it like a master painter. She often makes the waist or hipline the color dividing line for evening frocks and many of the most fashionable women in Paris night life are wearing her dresses that are made up in two different shades.

Pink is the most frequently one tone of a two color evening costume, and Vionnet combines pink with a dark red rather than with black, thus giving an unusual distinction to her evening color scheme. The Vionnet frock sketched is made up of these two colors in crêpe satin. The pink seems to be a dilution of the red and is used for the fitted blouse, the hip yoke and the full length cascading drapery at the side front.

The skirt is made of dark red crêpe satin with a wide draped band from hips to knees, caught up in folds under the pale pink panels at the sides. The lower skirt is circular and longer at the sides than at the front.

This smart restaurant evening gown was designed for the Comtesse St. Just, and with it she wears pale pink suede gloves, ten button length, and pale pink brocaded slippers.

Walk Miles 'n' Miles; Beauty Returns Are Worth the Effort

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

"Nine miles walking a day at the rate of three miles an hour," I read in advice from a nationally known health authority, "is the necessary amount for an adult."

N-i-n-e miles! A D-A-Y, too, my cozy chair sisters! Isn't that an order to shake you out of them!

"Goodness!" says a lady not far removed (by chair). "He must mean nine miles a month! Can't be nine miles a day. There aren't that many miles in a day, are there?"

It isn't so terrible as it sounds, though. Your average housekeeper, not delicatessen, does more than that just tending to her business. If my memory serves me right, the pedometer showed, some time ago, in a test, that the woman who did her housework as housework is supposed to be done, covers something like fifteen miles a day. Anyway, she does get around a lot. On her feet! Probably goes at a faster clip than three miles an hour part of the time, too.

Did you ever try timing yourself for a three mile sprint outdoors? A person I know did it just for fun, not long ago, after bragging she could do four miles an hour easily. She did two and a fraction in an hour and fifteen minutes, but swore her watch was not working right.

But why the subject was introduced today was to report a bit belatedly, it is true, the findings of a learned body of men. Walking and swimming, they said, were the two perfect exercises. If you combine those two in your daily program, you'll never have to worry about your youth abandoning you, or your hair, or your girlish complexion, or figure.

Swimming being what it is, up north here in zero weather, most of us just aren't one big happy polar bear family. So we have to walk. But how we can do that!

"Yeah," says the near chair relative. "How can we?"

"By getting up an ambition to be able to do four miles an hour," we recommend to her.

What she answered doesn't matter. But it is one way of getting the walking habit. Have a time goal.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

B. K.: IF YOUR SKIN IS DRY and peeling use soap and water sparingly. Cleanse with a soft cream or oil, and then apply a richer cream with massage. Leave a film of cream on your face and neck over night.

J. S.: BUTTERMILK IS A HARMLESS bleach. Pat it on at night before going to bed. The juice of a lemon in a cup of milk makes another excellent bleach. As these bleaches are somewhat drying, it is well to follow their use with applications of cold cream.
